Earlier Victories Claimed

Marines In 2 Rows With Viet Regulars

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marines fought twice Saturday with North Vietnamese regulars near the embattled Marine outpost at Con Thiem below the demilitarized zone, and a forward outpost was hit by a barrage of heavy artillery fire from North Vietnamese guns across the zone.

Headquarters said at day's end 84 North Vietnamese were counted dead and Marine losses were four killed and 85 wounded.

IMPRESSIVE WINS

The three new actions occurred after the U.S. Command Saturday claimed impressive victories over Communist troops in South Vietnam's hard-pressed 1st Corps area in which a week of heavy action left 134 Marines dead, 631 wounded and five missing.

Headquarters spokesmen said a series of ground clashes and artillery, rocket and mortar duels that broke out below the demilitarized zone last Sunday had left 836 enemy soldiers dead —a total six times the Marine death toll.

The victory claims coincided with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's ninth visit to Vietnam. Gen. William C. Westmoreland is urging a substantial addition to his U.S. armed forces beyond the presently authorized strength of 475,000 men.

McNamara set out Sunday to tour American combat units in the field.

In the second B52 bomber crash of the weekend, a stratofortress attempting an emergency landing with two of its eight engines out crashed and burned Saturday night in a minefield beside the Da Nang Air Base. The crash killed five of the B52's crew and Air Force firemen hacked into the flaming wreckage to rescue the lone survivor, the tail gunner.

The plane, returning from a bombing mission and stricken by an electrical failure, tried to land, ran off the runway and into a minefield at the runway's edge. Firemen did not know if the explosion that ripped the giant bomber came from a mine or from inside the plane.

Two of the $8-million bombers collided Friday as they approached Vietnam for a bombing run. Seven crewmen parachuted into the sea and six others were missing.

In ground action, U.S. headquarters reported that the airfield at the big Marine base at Dong Ha, 10 miles south of the zone, was hit with seven rounds of enemy artillery fire Saturday. The shelling caused light damage to U.S. planes and equipment and wounded one Marine, headquarters reported.

In the air offensive against North Vietnam, U.S. Navy bombers attacked an army barracks and missile storage area Saturday 14 miles southeast of Hanoi and hit at several missile sites 28 to 31 miles northwest of Haiphong.

In the raids on the string of missile sites, Navy pilots reported severely damaging one and scoring direct hits on others.

Fliers from the carrier Intrepid reported destroying eight boxcars and tearing up tracks in a railroad yard 35 miles south of Hanoi.

U.S. headquarters made no mention of any plane losses in the Saturday raids. Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency claimed one U.S. plane was "shattered to pieces" during the raids, raising the possibility of a hit by a Soviet-made surface-to-air missile.

In the Saturday raids, U.S. planes concentrated on North Vietnam's southern panhandle and repeatedly bombed artillery positions from which the North Vietnamese have been shelling U.S. Marine positions just below the demilitarized zone.

Air Force Phantom pilots reported they destroyed three heavy artillery pieces and 10 antiaircraft sites just above the zone.

Other Air Force Phantom pilots reported damaging eight southbound supply trucks near the Mu Gia Pass and starting close to the same infiltration mountain pass on the border of Laos.

Another B52 Cracks Up In Vietnam

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — A U.S. B52 bomber, swooping to an emergency landing with two of its eight jet engines out, crashed and burned Saturday night in a minefield beside the Da Nang Air Base, killing all but one of its six crewmen.

Air Force firemen hacked into the flaming wreckage with axes and rescued the lone survivor, the tail gunner. He emerged exclaiming: "How is my crew, how is my crew?"

The plane was the fourth of the $8-million stratofortresses of the Strategic Air Command destroyed in accidents this week. None has ever been lost in combat.

One plunged into the sea off Puerto Rico on a training mission Wednesday. Three of its seven crewmen were rescued.

Two collided Friday and fell into the South China Sea on a flight from Guam for a bombing mission northeast of Saigon. Six of the 13 men aboard, including Maj. Gen. William J. Crumm, 48, are missing. Seven others parachuted into the sea and were rescued.

The B52s normally carry 30 tons of bombs.

Fresh from a bombing mission, the plane that sought a haven at Da Nang was carrying none. But firemen said there was an explosion and flames leaped 100 feet into the air after the plane, stricken by an electrical failure and coasting off the runway, veered into the mine field at the runway's end. They did not know whether the explosion came from the plane itself or detonated mines.

Ammo Trucks Hit At Texarkana

TEXARKANA (AP) — Two East Texas Motor Freight trucks loaded with explosives collided on Interstate 30 shortly before midnight Saturday, Arkansas State Police said.

Both trucks were set on fire and traffic was backed up east and west for several miles. One truck driver was killed, the troopers.

The second driver was burned and injured. An ambulance was hit by flying debris.

Rampaging Congolese Kill Sixty

KAMEMBE, Rwanda (AP) — Congolese government troops, routed by rebels aided by white mercenaries, returned to the border city of Bukavu Friday and killed more than 60 persons, including five Europeans in a wild rampage of revenge, diplomatic and Red Cross officials reported Saturday.

They said disciplined Congolese paratroopers brought calm to the eastern Congo resort city after their arrival by air from Kinshasa, the Congolese capital.

REFUGEE REPORTS

The reports of the refugees from Bukavu to this neighboring nation came as the Congolese radio announced that forces loyal to President Joseph D. Mobutu had defeated mercenaries and rebels in Bukavu, Kisangani — formerly Stanleyville — and Kindu. The radio said the fighting was over.

It said the fighting that started last Wednesday had ended with government forces in control. Mobutu claimed the rebels launched the hostilities as part of an attempted coup plotted in Spain by Former Premier Moise Tshombe, who is now in custody in Algeria.

His chartered plane was hijacked while flying over Spain's Balearic Islands and diverted to Algiers. The Congo seeks his extradition to execute him as a traitor and subversive.

Mobutu canceled a nationwide radio address on the end to the fighting Saturday "pending more information on the role played by some Congolese in the rebellion," a Congolese radio broadcast said.

But the Congolese Interior Ministry issued an appeal for calm and respect for others' lives and properties, the broadcast said.

The refugees reaching Kamembe, two miles across the border from Bukavu, said the Bukavu area is now in the hands of loyal forces.

The Congo-Rwanda border, however, remained closed to all Europeans.

About 1,500 Europeans live in Bukavu. U.S. officials in Rwanda said they knew of no deaths or injuries to any Americans there. About 50 American missionaries in the Bukavu area fled to Rwanda at the start of the hostilities.

Nigerians Make Drive For Capital

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Nigerian federal troops were reported driving toward the regional capital of Enugu Saturday with the professed aim of capturing secessionist leader Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu.

Informed sources reported the university town of Nsukka, 40 miles from Enugu, was surrounded and other reports said Nigerian troops were within 20 miles of the capital of the self-proclaimed republic of Biafra.

But the federal military government has issued no official statement on the fighting other than an announcement that Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon had sent troops into the rebel eastern region after they were fired on Thursday morning.

While some sources told of federal advances, Biafra radio, between programs of martial music and commercials for cleaning fluid and blood tonic, was proclaiming successful counterattacks.

A broadcast monitored in Cotonou, Dahomey, claimed 214 federal troops had been killed, with only four rebels dead and 18 wounded. Biafra radio also claimed Biafran troops had advanced at least five miles into federal territory.

A federal military spokesman said Saturday that the Gowon government's primary aim was to arrest Ojukwu.

"If we can get him today, that's it," he said, implying that Biafran resistance would then collapse.

Little Change Is Seen In Weather

Northeast Louisiana residents can expect another typical midsummer day today with partly cloudy skies, warm temperatures and widely scattered afternoon thundershowers.

Temperatures this afternoon are expected to again reach the low 90's. The high recorded Saturday by FAA at Selman Field was 90 at 3 p.m. The low Saturday morning was 71 at 1 a.m.

No rain fell in the Twin Cities Saturday. The probability of rainfall this afternoon is 20 per cent. Winds will be variable 5 to 15 mph.

Egypt, Israel Renew Battles; Trade Charges Before U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council met Saturday night in an urgent session to consider the renewed military clashes between Israeli and Egyptian forces along the Suez Canal. Each of the two countries accused the other of breaking the June 10 cease-fire that stopped the Middle East war.

A representative of Egypt charged that the latest Israeli-Egyptian clashes in the Suez area were part of a deliberate war plan being pressed with the "support and encouragement of certain powers." The suggestion was that they were the United States and Britain.

Israel asserted that it was Egypt that, for reasons of its own, was attempting to undermine the cease-fire. It said the Saturday clashes were clearly planned by the Egyptian authorities in line with their "bellicose" statements.

The charges were made in the U.N. Security Council which decided after hearing representatives of the two governments, to postpone further debate until Sunday afternoon so that delegates would have more time to study the statements and consult on possible action.

The council adjourned until 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Ambassador Mohamed Awad el Kony told the U.N. Security Council that Israel "is determined to escalate the military actions in the Middle East" and that it could not do so "unless there is an unprecedented collusion between Israel and certain powers which are. . . trying to remain in disguise."

He did not name these countries, but he charged there was "participation of the United States and the United Kingdom governments in the Israeli aggression of the 5th of June."

The Egyptian representative demanded condemnation of Israel for allegedly breaking the June 10 cease-fire and urged that the council remain in continuous session until such action was taken.

Israeli Ambassador Gideon Rafael retorted it was Egypt that was trying to set aside the cease-fire. He said more than 40 Israeli soldiers had been killed in alleged attacks by Egyptian forces.

"It is the policy of the government of Israel," he said, "not to preserve the cease-fire but to do its best to see it reinforced. . . But it appears that the government of the United Arab Republic, for reasons of its own, is set on eroding the cease-fire away."

AN UNIDENTIFIED victim of a train crash at Shreveport which injured 28 passengers, none critically, aboard a Kansas City Southern passenger train Saturday afternoon, is carried off a railroad car by volunteers who raced from a nearby highway to the crash scene. The accident occurred when a string of switch engines, returning to the roundhouse, backed into the KCS train, which had come to an emergency stop. (AP Wirephoto)

Twenty-Eight Suffer Injuries

Trains Ram At Shreveport

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Twenty - eight persons suffered injuries, none of a critical nature, when a four-unit string of switching engines backed into a Kansas City Southern passenger train here Saturday.

The accident apparently occurred when the switching engines, manned by engineer R. H. Cochran of Lufkin, Texas, rammed into the KCS locomotive which had come to an emergency stop.

EMERGENCY STOP

KCS engineer A. R. Talton of Minden, La., said he saw the switching engines, which belonged to the Southern Pacific lines, rounding a curve at the crash site. He threw his train into an emergency stop.

Talton said the engineer of the Southern Pacific train apparently was unable to see the KCS train due to the curve and slammed into his train.

Talton also said another Southern Pacific employe was at the head of the approaching cars, trying to flag the engineer to a stop. Unable to stop his own train, he jumped into a nearby ditch just before the crash.

Motorists from a nearby highway hurried to the scene to give aid.

In addition to the 28 persons who sought hospital care, numerous other passengers suffered minor cuts and bruises and were otherwise shaken up. Seats in the passenger car were knocked awry by the impact of passengers knocking into them when the crash occurred.

Only four of the victims were hospitalized overnight. None of the four were listed as being seriously hurt.

The passenger train locomotives moved off the scene under their own power shortly after the incident. They had just finished moving a freight train into a siding adjacent to the point where the wreck occurred and disengaged to return to the roundhouse.

The KCS locomotive was heavily damaged and railroad officials said it would have to be jacked up and towed into the rail yards. The colliding switch engine sustained moderate damage.

Ambulances were hampered in getting to the scene by the lack of a road directly adjoining the crash site. Many of the injured made their way across a field to the highway where motorists drove them to hospitals.

The hero of the wreck was Andy Moore, 16, of Minot, S.D. He was a passenger aboard the KCS train.

Moore, who suffered a severe cut above his right eye, raced to the nearby Veterans Administration hospital to seek aid for the crash victims. He then ran back to the wreck to give assistance to more seriously hurt passengers.

Moore was en route to Alexandria, La., to make his home there.

Approximately 65 persons were aboard the KCS train when the crash happened.

Egyptian and Israeli jets, tanks and artillery battled Saturday at the Suez Canal for nearly nine hours in the biggest fight since the June 10 cease-fire that halted the Middle East war.

The fighting stopped by nightfall, but Israel and Egypt carried their battle before the United Nations in New York. At an emergency Security Council meeting, each blamed the other for breaking the cease-fire.

DOGFIGHTS

Egypt said its jet fighters engaged the Israelis in dogfights and acknowledged that one of its planes did not return. Israel claimed one Egyptian MIG21 shot down south of Port Said.

Egypt said six Israeli planes bombed the twin cities of Port Said and Port Fuad at the Mediterranean entrance to the canal, killing one civilian and wounding seven others.

Israel said its aircraft crossed the Suez Canal to knock out Egyptian artillery on the west bank and that the Egyptians started the fight by shelling Israeli troops on the east bank. Israeli soldiers occupied the east bank territory during the six-day Middle East war.

Israel put its casualties at five killed and 31 wounded after nearly nine hours of intermittent fighting. It said tanks were thrown into action by both sides and exchanged fire in the El Qantara region.

Israel claimed its forces knocked out two Egyptian tanks and said one Israeli tank was damaged. The Israelis said the Egyptians turned their heavy coastal artillery at Port Fuad 180 degrees to pound Israeli formations at Ras El'ish. Israeli jets strafed the coastal batteries "with good results," according to an army spokesman.

Radio Cairo said Egyptian forces destroyed three Israeli tanks and 11 armored cars in breaking up an armored drive from the south aimed at important canal installations at Port Fuad.

There was another, less serious clash along the Suez last week.

Before the Security Council Ambassador Mohamed Awad el Kony of Egypt said the latest clashes were caused by Israel with the "support and encouragement of certain powers."

He said Israel "is determined to escalate the military actions in the Middle East" and it could not do so "unless there is an unprecedented collusion between Israel and certain powers which are . . trying to remain in disguise."

El Kony did not name the countries, but renewed an Egyptian charge that the United States and Britain participated in "the Israeli aggression of the 5th of June."

Israeli Ambassador Gideon Rafael replied that Egypt is "set on eroding the cease-fire away."

Union Issues Deadline On Rail Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The president of the International Association of Machinists (IAM) said Saturday his union would give congress one more week to work out a compromise on legislation to avert a nationwide rail strike.

P.L. (Roy) Siemiller, in an interview with United Press International, said his membership would not wait indefinitely for Congress to act.

"Unless there is action by the Congress we would have to notify both the Senate and the House that we would have to withdraw the letter that we gave them saying that no strike action would take place while they were in conference," Siemiller said.

"I do not believe that our membership will sit tight and stay in the shop even though we ask them to do so over an extended period of time."

Siemiller said that when the union agreed to the no-strike pledge it did not anticipate Congress taking a 10-day holiday before it acted on the legislation.

Expo '67 In Pony Cart

Travelers' Parents Say Boys Supervised

JAFFREY, N.H. (AP) — The parents of two young boys headed for Expo '67 in Montreal by pony cart say they are allowing the pair to make the trip because it was carefully planned in advance and is under their close supervision.

"This wasn't a spur of the moment thing at all, and we're keeping close tabs on them all the way," their father, Theodore P. Whittemore Jr., said Saturday.

He said planning for the 400-mile trip by sons Tony, 11, and Jeff, 9, began in March at their home in Needham, Mass. It included conditioning for their 10-year-old Shetland pony, King, through trips in and around the Boston suburbs, he said.

The boys left home Wednesday and had completed the first 60 miles by Friday night when they arrived in Jaffrey at a summer residence owned by Whittemore's parents. They plan to resume their journey Monday morning and hope to reach Montreal by Aug. 1.

The boys stayed with family acquaintances along the way the first two nights. Whittemore said other stopping places have been planned farther along the way, but declined to disclose them because he said the family wants to avoid publicity.

Their cart, with an "Expo '67 or Bust" sign on the rear, contains a home-made tent big enough for King to sleep under, sleeping bags, rain gear, a combination first aid and tool kit, and a tube repair kit.

In a metal box behind the driver's seat they also have some clothing, health certificates for King, and their birth certificates.

They are not carrying money because, in Jeff's words, "that might attract robbers."

Whittemore said the trip was mapped out to keep them on back roads as much as possible and to avoid major highways.

"It was their idea, they developed it, and we felt they had the maturity to try it," he said. "They're not impulsive and they're not reckless, and we hope they will learn a lot.

"We remain deeply concerned about them, however, and have not abandoned them."

James Murray, executive director of the Cheshire County Humane Society, had a veterinarian examine King Saturday and said the pony was in fine shape.

The boys have gotten out of the cart and walked him up some of the steeper inclines on their route.

Judge Gives Out With New Orders

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (UPI) — Justice may be blind, but Judge Thomas Barland says he isn't.

So things are going to change in his Eau Claire County Court room, starting Monday.

One of the points Judge Barland intends to make is that, "one should be able to tell a boy is really a boy-not a girl."

New ground rules in his court ban shorts for males and females. Shirt tails will be tucked in. Sandals on males are out, along with long hair and beards. Females will wear dresses, he said.

"Sloppy appearance indicates disrespect and a casual, careless attitude toward the law," Barland said.

Gambling Arrests Reported By FBI

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation arrested three Mississippi men in connection with gambling activities at the South of the Border club in Laurel Hill, La.

Agents identified the men Saturday as Jewell Long of Natchez, Miss., and Russell Ford and Henry Rosso of Woodville, Miss. Rosso was a co-owner of the club, the FBI said.

A spokesman said the three were charged with a violation of interstate gambling laws. They said a large collection of gambling paraphenalia was seized at the club.

Monroe Navy Pilot Takes Part In Raid

WORLD WIRE SERVICES

SAIGON—Direct hits on a surface-to-air missle (SAM) site were reported by U.S. Navy pilots following raids near the Tram Bac oil storage area six miles west of Haiphong in North Vietnam, the Navy said Saturday.

LT. JOHN MITTELL

Mittell said he fired his rocets "right into the center of the target and got a beautiful secondary explosion that looked like a SAM exploding on the ground."

Lt. Mittell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Mittell, 4088 Bon Air Drive, Monroe. He has been in Vietnam since February, and his ship, the Richard Bon Homme, is due to return stateside later this month, his father said.

The lieutenant has been in the Navy for three years.

Other Navy planes hit the fuel storage site itself and L . Joseph B. Gatewood of Hattiesburg, Miss., reported: "I saw three or four secondary explosions and a lot of smoke covering the target."

Another strike was made about the same time on the Phu Ly railroad bridge and bypass, 35 miles south of Hanoi. Cmdr. Fred H. Whittemore of Carson City, Nev., who led the strike, said "The 750-pound bomb hits on the bypass looked pretty good, but there was too much smoke to see any damage."

The Navy said the bridge had been destroyed previously by U.S. warplanes, but was being rebuilt when hit again Friday.

Late Friday afternoon, Lt. Cmdr. French led a flight of Skyhawk pilots back to the Tram Bac storage area, the scene of the morning strikes. Again, pilots reported direct hits with bombs and rockets.

"The whole area is bombed out now," French said.

Baltimore Scored For Facilities

MINNEAPOLIS, Min. (UPI)—The Baltimore school system Saturday was placed under sanctions by the National Education Association's executive committee, which scored it for deficiencies in educating children, providing reasonable teacher salaries and conditions, and maintaining modern facilities.

The sanctions, first ever imposed by the NEA on a city school system, came a day after completion of the organization's 105th convention here.

The committee said it will notify state departments of education, certification authorities, school placement officials, business and industrial leaders, and the citizens of Baltimore, that:

—The Baltimore public school system "is so extemely deficient that many of the children . . . are being denied the minimum level of education opportunity."

—"Salaries and working conditions of teachers . . . are so deficient it is unreasonable to expect professional teachers to continue their struggle against virtually impossible odds to educate the children."

—Many existing school buildings "are ancient and dilapidated, and hence impair the effectiveness of instruction."

The sanctions could be strengthened if conditions do not improve, the committee said. It added the NEA was prepared to help Baltimore improve its system by training teachers to work in inner city schools and developing cooperative training programs for school board members "as to their educational responsibilities."

Five Police Killed, 13 Hurt As Reds Storm into Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP) — Six hundred heavily armed Gurkha troops Sunday patrolled the Hong Kong half of Shu Tau Kok village, where 1,000 Communist Chinese crossed the border and attacked a Hong Kong police station Saturday with rifles and machine guns.

Five police were killed and 13 wounded before the Gurkhas rescued 86 police who had barricaded themselves in the police post and 80 others in a government building 50 yards behind it.

Government officials in this British colony and in London said they believed the attack was "an isolated incident" and did not presage a Communist Chinese military offensive against Hong Kong. The colony is recovering from communist rioting and anti-British demonstrations in May and Communist-instigated labor strife in June.

Supt. D. G. McNeill, commander of the police station, said no army or militia uniforms were worn by the Chinese inside Hong Kong territory, and opened fire.

He would not speculate on whether troops or militia might have been operating in civilian clothes. Many observers in Hong Kong believed that some troops or militia were involved. Reports out of Red China say no one except soldiers and militia is allowed weapons.

Britain's envoy in Peking was instructed to ask the Red Chinese Foreign Ministry to clarify circumstances of the attack. Officials in London said this was not a protest but an attempt to clear up a confused situation.

Hong Kong officials viewed the incident as another attempt to frighten Hong Kong's four million Chinese, most of whom have remained loyal to the colonial government despite Communist charges of racial suppression and atrocities.

Sha Tau Kok is 20 miles north of the colony's twin cities, Hong Kong and Kowloon. The border with Red China runs along the main street of the village, the scene of repeated incidents in the last 12 years.

The main island of Hong Kong was not affected by Saturday's violence.

McNeill said 1,000 Chinese had crossed the main street, surrounded the police post and tried to blast open gates and doors with dynamite.

Four police were killed and a fifth fatally wounded within the first few minutes, McNeill reported.

Erhard Arrives For Meeting

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ludwig Erhard, former chancellor of West Germany, arrived here Saturday night for a 12-day visit and a meeting in Washington with President Johnson.

"Since I know the President's frankness, I am quite certain we will have an open discussion about questions of mutual interest to our two countries," he told airport newsmen.

Erhard said his visit here was unofficial but added he was convinced his discussions with the President Tuesday "will be quite important."

He will spend the weekend with friends in New York and fly to Washington Tuesday for a White House luncheon. He will lecture at Wartburg College in Waverly, Iowa, later Tuesday.

Erhard also will visit the West Coast and receive an honorary degree from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, before returning home July 20.

Winn Parish Election Activity At Slow Pace

Correspondent

WINNFIELD — With the deadline for filing for public offices only a little more than a month away, Winn Parish politicians have local voters puzzled and somewhat disappointed by their silence on declaring their intentions to seek office, either for re-election or as newcomers.

The deadline set by the Democratic Executive Committee is August 12 for state offices and August 22 for parish offices.

Only one parish office holder, John Y. Bell, tax assessor, has publicly said that he would seek re-election. Bell announced last year that he would not run again due to ill health, but has since undergone medical treatment and has recovered his health.

The field in Winn Parish this year will offer:

—A clerk of court's race with incumbent J. O. Anders yet unannounced, but sure to run.

—A state representative's race with Rep. Ashton Collier taking second looks because his district suddenly included LaSalle and Jackson parishes. He has not committed himself as a candidate yet.

—All 12 police jury posts, plus all constables and justices of the peace.

Sen. Willard Rambo was reassigned to the district, including Natchitoches, Grant and Red River parishes. Winn was assigned to Sen. J. C. Gilbert's district with LaSalle, Caldwell, Catahoula and Concordia parishes.

Gilbert has opposition already in the form of "Sonny" Owens, Jena auto dealer.

The first primary is November 4, with the second primary on December 16. The general election will be held on Feb. 6, 1968. Voter registration will close on October 4.

The Winn Parish Democratic Executive Committee is anticipating a flood of candidates to file for police jury posts, as the pay has become attractive.

Area Pastor Recognized By Magazine

Rev. A. D. Foster, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Newellton, has been named Louisiana's Rural Minister of the Year by the "Progressive Farmer" magazine. He was selected from among nominations secured by the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service, the Louisiana Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts, and the magazine.

Selection as Rural Minister of the Year, entitled the Rev. Foster to a study course in the Town and Country Workshop, Candler School of Theology, Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., from July 10-21.

The award is given on a basis of service to the community as well as the church. The Rev. Foster is active in the Rotary Club, the Masons, the American Legion and the P-TA. He helps in community fund raising drives.

He has taken a special interest in the youth of Newellton, and supports Boy Scout work and has served as a Scoutmaster, as well as being a 4-H Club leader in the community.

Improvements have been made to the church building and some additional property bought for future expansion since the Rev. Foster has been pastor. He has helped in the careful management of church affairs to keep it in good financial condition.

The Rev. Foster attended schools in Ouachita Parish, then attended Louisiana College and New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary. He is married to the former Eula Mae Weeks and the father of three sons. He has had 11 years in the ministry.

Business News

Vice President

Bobby R. Blankenship, a native of West Monroe and a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, has been appointed vice president of finance for Thomas J. Moran's Sons, Inc.

Blankenship

Blankenship joined the firm, which has offices in Baton Rouge, New Orleans, St. Louis and Dallas, five years ago as chief accountant. In 1965, he was named the company's comptroller.

"In this new position," TJM President Harold F. Sicard said, "Blakenship will be responsible for our firm's financial planning and management and will supervise the general corporate accounting department and our data processing and cost analysis functions."

Blankenship, who now resides in Baton Rouge, is a graduate of Louisiana State University, is married and has three daughters.

New Franchise

Ground breaking ceremonies were held recently on Interstate 20 next to Stuckey Motor Inc., for the Volkswagen Sales and Service Franchise at Ruston which is expected to begin operation in early October.

Participating in the ceremonies were Ray Melder, district service manager of Volkswagen; Jack Inabnet, president of the new franchise; James Daniels coowner and general manager; W. H. Stuckey of Stuckey Motors, Inc., and John A. Mitchell of Mitchell Construction.

Dividend Voted

A quarterly dividend of 37½ per share on Acme Brick Company common stock will be paid on or before July 10, 1967, to stockholders of record on June 30, 1967. This action was voted by the firm's board of directors according to an announcement by Hub Hill, chairman of the board, and D. O. Tomlin, president.

Solidarity Show

WARSAW (AP) — Poland plans a week of mass meetings starting Monday to demonstrate solidarity with the Communists in Vietnam, the press agency PAP reported. It said personnel from the North Vietnamese Embassy and the Viet Cong mission in Warsaw will attend rallies.

Area Man Drowns While In Swimming

VIDALIA, La. (AP) — James Henry, 27, of Mangham, drowned Saturday in the Old River channel of the Mississippi at Deer Park near Vidalia.

Rescue units from the Ferriday, Vidalia and Natchez fire department, long with the Concordia Parish Sherriff's Department and the parish volunteer rescue unit, recovered the body in about 40 ft. of water near a raft.

Concordia Parish Coronor, Dr. William T. Polk of Vidalia termed the death, "accidental drowning."

Henry had been swimming from the raft when he disappeared beneath the muddy water.

Funeral services will be held at 4:30 p.m. today at the Bethlehem Baptist Church in Mangham with the Rev. W. L. Remore officiating.

Burial will be in the Lone Cherry Cemtery near Manhgam under the direction of Mulhearn's Funeral Home of Winnsboro.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Vanna Henry of Mangham; and three brothers, Corlis Henry and Virgil Henry, both of Rayville, and Tupie Henry of Pride; two sisters, Mrs. Vernell Murphy and Mrs. Virginia Brunsun, both of Monroe.

Pallbearers will be Roy Lord, Lyndie Lord, Wayne Collem, Jimmy Moore, Marvin Fleming and Bob Williams.

The body will be at the family residence near Mangham until time for services.

New Officers For Alumni Installed

The 1967-68 officers of the Ouachita Parish Chapter of the Northeast Louisiana State College Alumni Association were installed Saturday night at a barbecue in the home of J. Carl Parkerson, 1600 South Grand in Monroe.

Those installed were: John Ensminger, president; W. L. Crowe, vice president; Ira Phillips, second vice president; Archie Parker, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Bennie Andrews, social chairman; Mrs. Bobby Joe Jackson, social secretary; Mrs. V. J. Parker, historian; and Art DeLoach, parlimentarian.

New members of the board of directors, which acts as a liaison group from the local chapter to the parent alumni association, are: Ensminger, John Perkerson, David Kahn, Archie Parker, Jack Humphries and Harlan Prestridge.

The association voted to sponsor a billboard somewhere within Ouachita Parish which will list the Northeast Indian football schedule. It will also sponsor the Redskin Homecoming Alumni Dance.

The association also decided to donate one scholarship to be used by a student from Ouachita Parish attending Northeast. It will also enter a float in the homecoming parade, and will sell NLSC Indian Fan Club stickers for car windows as a fund-raising project.

At the barbecue Northeast President, Dr. George T. Walker, presented to Ensminger and Prestridge certificates of appreciation for the work they have done for the college and the alumni association as past chapter presidents.

Accident Kills Two Youths

DENHAM SPRINGS, La. (AP) — Daniel Carroll, 17, and Wayne Garrison, 15, both of Baton Rouge, died Saturday following a traffic accident here.

Carroll died in Baton Rouge General Hospital and Garrison in Dixon Memorial Hospital here after their car was hit by another auto at a local intersection.

Mrs. Amedee Brignac, 41, of French Settlement, La., was the driver of the other car. She is listed in satisfactory condition at Dixon.

Investigating officers said the youths' car was hit on the right side after it apparently went through a stop sign.

Censorship Lifted

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — The Guidance Ministry has lifted the censorship imposed on Iraq newspapers at the outbreak of the Middle East war June 5, but dailies will continue to be limited to four pages until the crisis is over in order to save hard currency spent on newsprint.

Schedules For Girl Scouts Announced

The camp, which begins Monday, is for the Girl Scouts of Monroe, West Monroe and Sterlington.

One bus will begin to pick up Scouts at Linwil School in West Monroe about 7 a.m. This bus will travel down Seventh Street in West Monroe to West Monroe Junior High School. It will then return to Fifth Street and go on to Interstate - 20 to cross over into Monroe.

In Monroe, the bus will pick up Southside Scouts at Hensley's Grocery, South Third Street and Layton Avenue. The bus will continue north on Hall Street through to North Fifth Street.

Then it will travel to Forsythe Avenue and from there on to Lexington School, back on Forsythe and out to St. Joseph's Nursing Home on the Sterlington Highway. Scouts living in North Park, Town and Country and Treasure Island Subdivisions may catch the bus at the nearest street intersecting with Sterlington Highway.

Another bus, the College Neighborhood one, will leave Our Lady of Fatima School on Franklin Street about 7:30 a.m., will go to Sherrouse School, and then to the Lakeshore area.

The bus will return to College Avenue, then to Webster Avenue and on out to Sterlington Highway. Scouts living in areas that are not close to the schools may catch the bus along DeSiard Road if this is more convenient.

All Sterlington Girl Scouts will meet at the A. L. Smith School at 8:30 a.m. for their transportation arrangements.

Two-Car Crash Kills Passenger

RESERVE, La. (AP) — A two-car collision on U.S. 61 near here Saturday killed Mrs. Ann Doucet, 34, of Baker, La. She was a passenger in a car driven by Wilfred Doucet, 39, of Westlake.

Occupants of the second auto were Mr. and Mrs. Roy K. Beasley and their five children, all from Jasper, Ala. State police said the couple and their children were injured, but the extent of their injuries was not determined.

Dive Fatal To Louisianan

BATON ROUGE (AP) —Dorsey A. Cannon, 17, of Galvez in Ascension Parish, died Saturday at a Baton Rouge hospital from injuries received in a swimming accident July 4.

Slavs Like Billy Graham

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (UPI)— Evangelist Billy Graham Saturday received a good response from Yugoslavs attending his first sermon behind the iron curtain.

Graham arrived here Friday following a visit to Italy and held his first sermon in an Eastern European country he citizens.

Graham spoke in Zagreb's Lutheran church, which has a seatings capacity of 400.

But more than 1,000 stood inside the church, while another 1,500 were outside in a courtyard.

Graham's sermon on the Gospel of St. John, Chapter 3, Verse 16, was transmitted to those outside by loud speakers.

Soviet Promises Nuclear Treaty

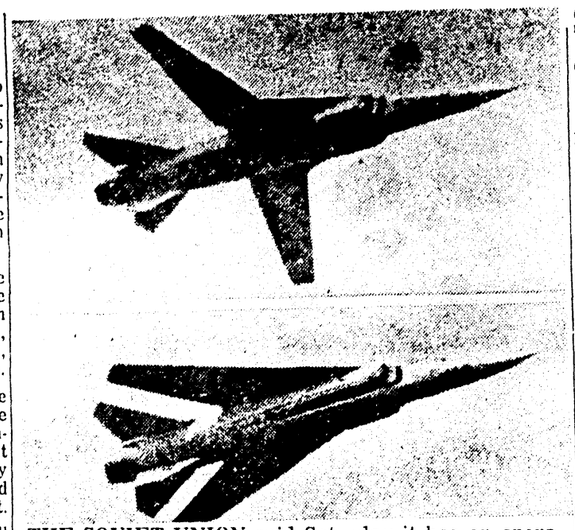
U.S. officials reported that Kosygin gave the assurance at the Glassboro, N.J., meeting with Johnson but declined to say when the Russian government would act.



THE SOVIET UNION said Saturday it has an operational swing-wing jet fighter like the United States' F111. The plane, seen in photos copied from the Soviet newspaper Izvestia, is shown with wings folded close for supersonic flight, and extended for slow speeds. Izvestia said the swing-wing plane, and another plane of vertical take-off design, will be shown in action today at the Soviet air show in Moscow. (AP Wirephoto by cable from Moscow)

Ranch To Host Nugent Birthday

His wife Luci Johnson Nugent celebrated her 20th birthday last Sunday.

The Nugents and their infant son, Patrick Lyndon, born last June 21, have spent the last week at a guest house on the Johnson ranch so the President can see a lot of his grandson.

Sailors Form 'Living Flag'

CHICAGO (UPI) — Nearly 10,000 sailors Saturday formed a "living flag" which 60,000 persons saluted in Chicago's Soldier Field as a symbolic gesture of support to the U.S. Armed Forces.

The "living flag" was last formed in the fall of 1917, when another 9600 sailors stood on the grounds of the Great Lakes Naval Training Center, north of Chicago.

Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley said the current war in Vietnam means that Americans should "join in giving the fullest support to our men and women in the Armed Forces."

The ceremony served as a graduation review for 1,000 recruits who have just completed nine weeks boot training at Great Lakes. The 9,600-man brigade from Great Lakes passed in review before forming the flag.

Police Jail 9 In Bistro Raids

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Nine persons, including a 16-year-old boy, were arrested early Saturday in raids on French Quarter bistros to check on under-age drinking.

Members of the grand jury went along with vice squad officers and agents from the district attorney's office on the raids. They checked more than 40 bars.

with a PASS BOOK AUTOMATIC THRIFT SAVING PLAN

5% ANNUAL RATE . . . COMPOUNDED QUARTERLY Automatically

Our Pass Book Automatic Thrift Savings Plan is now over Six Months Old! . . . and we are tremendously proud of the way our savers have responded to it. The reception has been overwhelming! We issue a Savings Book instead of the old type certificates and set the amount of deposit up on a ledger sheet. The advantage is that we can accumulate the deposits of one individual in one instrument rather than have several different certificates. This gives the customer an opportunity to know how much his total deposits are on Thrift Savings. The interest on Thrift Savings will be posted at maturity on April 1st, July 1st, October 1st, and January 1st. The interest will be compounded on a quarterly basis, which is a great advantage to the customer. However, if our customers desire to have the interest check mailed to them on the quarterly basis, we will be happy to do so. Just notify us that you want your interest check mailed. Amounts of $100.00 or more may be deposited any time in any quarter!

Of course, your savings are insured up to $15,000.00.

Hanoi's Determination Puts U.S. To Showdown Test Of Wills

By JOHN T. WHEELER

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnam's President Ho Chi Minh has forced the United States into a showdown test of will that U.S. intelligence estimates once rated as impossible.

In 1965, when it was decided to send about 120,000 American troops to rescue South Vietnam from the prospect of defeat, senior U.S. military officers said it was preposterous to think North Vietnam could resist, let alone turn back, a predicted allied victory tide.

But by mid-1967 Hanoi's determination to counter the allied offensive, regardless of the cost in blood and national resources, has forced Washington to a crossroad in the seven-years-long war.

American and Vietnamese military sources say that, unless 100,000 to 140,000 more U.S. troops are sent, the allies may be forced gradually into a defensive posture that could end in stalemate.

NEWS PERSPECTIVE

This could mean the loss of any hope for a negotiated peace favorable to the allied side.

Even if Washington agrees to all of the recommendations by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander, more troops might be needed later.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, who is on his ninth inspection tour of Vietnam, will recommend to President Johnson how many more troops than the presently authorized 475,000 should be sent. The impression in Saigon is that at least 30,000 to 40,000 more will be authorized. There are 466,000 here now.

But McNamara and the administration must weigh considerations the military men don't have to contend with.

To send 100,000 more men probably would mean three divisions together with helicopter, supply and other support units.

Military men here believe this would involve a partial mobilization of reserves, higher draft quotas, higher battle casualties, an additional $10 billion or more in defense spending, the possibility of a tax increase and dislocations in the civilian economy.

Concern is voiced also about the effect of another major buildup on South Vietnam. Saigon sources cite the already overheated economy, government troops who seem to fight a little less with the arrival of each new U.S. division and possible effects on the campaign for winning the allegiance of the peasants.

The Americans, hailed in 1965 as the saviors of Vietnam, have lost luster from their public image for a number of reasons. One is the terrific amount of bombing and artillery used in the countryside.

One well-informed source cited three current situations as symptomatic of deterioration in the allied military position since the first of the year:

—North Vietnamese troops have set up antiaircraft batteries and a major base in the A Shua valley region, near the Laotian border 30 miles south of the demilitarized zone. Though B52 jets have worked over that region repeatedly, the enemy buildup has yet to be challenged by allied ground troops.

—Despite official claims to the contrary, U.S. Marines along the demilitarized zone have suffered a number of defeats. No one has come up with a method to stop the almost daily showers of steel and explosives from North Vietnamese artillery, rockets and mortars based in and north of the DMZ. the biggest rockets are 144 mm, nearly six inches in diameter. Each weighs more than 90 pounds. A top U.S. spokesman once dismissed reports of these rockets as mainly a propaganda stunt. Marines, who have suffered 8,000 casualties along the DMZ since the first of the year, disagree.

—American casulties have exceeded original estimates, and this has forced U.S. commanders to send some understrength units into the field.

A Marine company commander, operating with 125 men out of the 185 he was supposed to have had, laughed when asked if he didn't feel his outfit was weak. He said: "H—, we're fat now. We only had 85 when we came off the last operation."

More Fireworks Likely From Garrison Probe

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Coming up: another week of fireworks in Jim Garrison's assisination probe.

Fuses for an explosive week were laid down Friday and Saturday when the district attorney issued one arrest warrant, two grand jury subpoenas and agreed to appear on a national television network.

Garrison seemed to be concentrating, at least publicly, as much on critics of his probe as he was on the Kennedy assassination itself.

—He obtained an arrest warrant for Walter Sheridan, a key investigator in the National Broadcasting Company's critical report on Garrison.

—He issued subpoenas to William Gurvich, his own former investigator, and to prisoner John Cancler, both critics of the probe.

—He agreed to accept a half hour of equal time next Saturday night to answer NBC charges about his investigation.

NBC last month produced a special report in which it said that its investigation showed Garrison had used false testimony and phony evidence to obtain an indictment against Shaw.

Garrison said that Sheridan attempted to bribe Perry Raymond Russo, the Baton Rouge, La., insurance salesman who testified against Clay L. Shaw in a preliminary hearing for the New Orleans businessman last March.

Shaw is expected to go to trial in early September. He was indicted in March on a charge of conspiring with the late David W. Ferrie and Lee Harvey Oswald to kill President Kennedy in 1963.

Sheridan was not believed to be in New Orleans. NBC issued a statement in New York denying that he had attempted to bribe Russo.

Cancler said on the NBC program that Garrison's men suggested that he might be needed to break into and plant something in Shaw's French Quarter apartment.

Garrison will probably have most of the say this coming week, following a string of setbacks in recent days.

German Reduction Surprise To U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. strategists are surprised and displeased by West Germany's proposed large military cutback. They plan a high-level diplomatic approach to Bonn aimed at forestalling any one-sided West German force reduction without agreement among the NATO allies.

Washington officials said the U.S. view probably will be presented within a few days to the West German government — perhaps to Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger himself — by the ranking American diplomat at Bonn, Charge d'Affaires Martin J. Hillenbrand.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara had been scheduled to fly to West Germany to see Defense Minister Gerhard Schroeder July 17. But McNamara's trip has been delayed, apparently because of his current Vietnam tour. U. S. officials are seeking clarification from Bonn about Kiesinger's cabinet announced decision last Thursday to cut defense spending because of financial difficulties. The cutback, it was reported, could slash West Germany's army strength 60,000 to about 400,000 men.

U.S. officials professed surprise that the Kiesinger government had not advised Washington before of the proposed military reductions.

And they privately voiced displeasure at Bonn's move in the face of years of American effort — often at German urging — to keep up allied strength in West Europe, including the six U.S. divisions stationed in West Germany.

Publicly, the State Department's position is that the Germans should make no unilateral force cuts without consulting with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies. The question is expected to come up at a NATO defense planning council session in Paris later this month.

The German proposal also seems certain to set off another round of congressional calls for bringing more GIs home from Europe.

Last year, when Britain contemplated a sizable pullout of her forces from West Germany because of financial difficulties, the United States was instrumental in staving off what it feared could become a pell-mell unraveling of the European defense system.

After months of U.S.-British negotiations, the allies agreed last May on a modest force reduction accompanied by offsetting money arrangements. Britain was to withdraw one of her nine brigades and the United States, under a rotation plan, was to pull out about 35,000 men from its 25,000-man NATO contingent.

In the U.S. view, the level of forces for West Europe's defense should be determined by military security needs; not by financial considerations.

Washington authorities Saturday said their intelligence indicates the Soviets still are maintaining 20 divisions in East Germany, plus two in Poland and four in Hungary. They said the Reds have shown no signs of thinning out their forces in East Europe in response to the allied reductions announced in May.

Mecca Radio Warns Arabs Of Russians

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Mecca radio Saturday urged the Arabs to quit relying on the Soviet Union and prepare for a second round of fighting with Israel.

Russia and the West are in league with each other when it comes to guaranteeing Israel's existence," the official Saudi Arabian radio said in a commentary monitored here.

The broadcast said Russia was an enemy disguised as a friend "who has stabbed the Arabs in the back."

Mecca radio broadcast a commentary Friday suggesting the Arab ban on oil shipments to Britian ought to be lifted because, it said, it had now been proved that Britain did not aid Israel in last month's war. That comment raised the ire of the Egyptian press and threatened to crack the facade of Arab unity.

Saturday's broadcast said the Arabs should rely on Islamic countries to help them.

"The Islamic countries are capable of sending millions of volunteers and vast amounts of money to help the Arabs fight Israel again," it added.

Feed Makes Hogs Drunk

CHIPLEY, Fla. AP — Milt Peel's busy sobering up a pen full of "polluted" pigs.

Heavy rains fell on some shelled corn in Peel's pig pen. The soaked corn cooked in the hot Florida sun and fermented.

The 500 hogs got a "snoot full."

Peel said drunk hogs act just like drunk people. Some squealed playfully, and others got ill - tempered. Still others just staggered off and went to sleep.

New Orleans Hippies Hold Love-In At Audubon Park

By CHRISTOPHER ROBERTS
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Hippies, spouting chants of freedom and love, swarmed beneath the Spanish moss in Audubon Park here Saturday. They called it a love-in.

Two bands banged out rock'n roll sounds from a pavillion near the park's sea lion pool. A small bearded group hammered on a plastic ice bucket with their fists singing a muddled African chant.

A little white - haired lady standing in awe nearby attempted a smile.

Long-haired hippies, swigging thirstily from Grecian urns, sheep skins and jugs, danced wildly to the driving, pounding music. Others sat in small groups in the shade.

A fower girl smiled love on the crowd as she passed out crepe myrtle from a wicker basket. A cop wanted to know if the hippies could smoke the purple flower.

The hippie dress was drastic —a long white gown on a man with a blonde beard and flowers in his hair; earrings on other men; black boots, polka-dot ties, balloons, zany vests.

"Smile," said a man with a camera.

"I can't" she said, "I'm pregnant.

Police, many in plain clothes, mingled in the crowd.

What was it that brought the hippies to Audubon Park?

"We're searching for God," cried a girl in sandals.

Whatever it was, a lot of people came to see it, including Sister Stanislaus, a divinity student at Loyola University.

Strolling quietly in her black habit through the crowd, she'd stop and chat in hippie clusters.

"What are you doing here?" she asked one man nursing a gallon of warm wine.

Social Security, Income Tax Key To Session Of Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two major pieces of legislation—an increase in Social Security benefits and a boost in income taxes—apparently holds the key to how long the 1967 session of Congress runs.

Members of the 90th Congress will return to work Monday after a 10-day recess with not only other measures remaining to be acted on before adjournment.

The 1967 session has not been too productive so far, and congressional leaders concede that many bills, including several of President Johnson's urgent recommendations, will fall by the wayside.

But there is every expectation that the Social Security and tax bills will be put through, even though this means sin die adjournament cannot come before October, as key legislators now expect.

In addition, Congress must pass 20 more regular money bills to run the government in the current financial year which began a week ago. Only two of these have been sent to Johnson so far.

And it probably will act on legislation to extend several programs now in operation, even though some are highly controversial.

In this category are foreign aid, the antipoverty campaign, the elementary and secondary school act, and highway beautification.

An important reason why the Social Security and tax bills will delay adjournment is that each must be handled by the same committee Ways and Means in the House and Finance in the Senate.

The Ways and Means Committee has been struggling with the mammoth Social Security measure for months and is understood to be ready to complete work on it in about two weeks.

But its handlers do not expect House passage before early August, which means that the Finance Committee will be hard pressed to finish its hearings on the bill and get it to the Senate before late September.

Johnson recommended that Social Security benefits be increased effective July 1 this year an average of 20 per cent, with every recipient to get at least a 15 per cent hike.

The House committee reportedly is thinking of triming the 15 per cent figure back to 12 or 13 per cent in an effort to reduce somewhat the payroll tax increases needed to finance the higher benefits.

There has been some talk at the Capitol that the Senate might delay action on this bill until 1968, a presidential election year.

But Democratic leaders say they do not believe this could or should be done. They note that the Republicans pushed for a Social Security increase last year and that Democrats blocked this with a pledge the matter would be taken care of in 1967.

Strong opposition to an income tax increase still is voiced in Congress, particularly among Democrats.

But high administration officials, including Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler and Chairman Gardner Ackley of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, insist that such legislation is certain to be sent up before long.

Democratic leaders privately agree that it is inevitable, particularly since the administration concedes that Johnson far undershot the mark in predicting an $8.1-billion deficit for the current financial year.

They expect the tax bill to be submitted as soon as the President decides what to do about a further troop build-up in Vietnam after Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara returns from there.

But they also assert that it will take time to get a tax bill through. It is expected to arouse bitter debate, with efforts being made to attach such riders as a corporate excess profits levy.

Johnson originally proposed a tax hike in the form of a six per cent surcharge. But congressional tax experts think he well may ask for a bigger increase now.

Irene Reid Is Named To Key Board

Mrs. Irene Reid, president of the Monroe-West Monroe Board of Realtors, Inc., has been appointed as a member of the Enlarged Realtor's Washington Committee of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

The committee which is formed by realtors from each congressional district, is the legislative action group of the NAREB which presents the views of realtors and their national association to the representatives and senators of the United States Congress.

Mrs. Reid, long-time local realtor, will attend the ERWC's legislative conference November 11, in Washington, D.C. He duties will be to work with Senator Russell Long and Congressman Otto E. Passman of Monroe on "important legislature issues confronging the industry."

Jes' Ramblin'

To Serve On Staff

Miss Betty Waller — a junior at Northeast Louisiana State College — has been appointed to serve on the staff at the Ridgecrest Baptist Assembly in North Carolina for the 1967 summer session.

A major in Spanish education, Miss Waller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Waller of West Monroe.

Supervise Yearbook

A West Monroe youth and Northeast Louisiana State College graduate—Bill Bobo — will supervise the publication of a seminar yearbook at the Southeastern Louisiana College workshop.

The workshop will be held at Southeastern from July 17th to July 21st for staffs of high school yearbooks.

Another Trip

Judy Hegwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hegwood, 512 N. McGuire Ave., Saturday flew to Baton Rouge to visit with some of the members of a United Nations Pilgrimage Tour group which she accompanied recently to New York.

The 10th grader at Ouachita Parish High School, spent several days at the United Nations headquarters listening to discussions of the during the Middle East crisis. She returned home last Wednesday from that trip

Germany Jails Second S. Korean

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP) — The federal prosecutor announced Saturday the arrest of a second South Korean on suspicion of having played a part in the abduction of more than dozen of his countrymen from West Germany.

Prosecutor Antonius Berard identified the latest suspect only as a miner named Park. Berard said Park had worked in a coal mine at Walsum, near Duisburg, but gave no details of his alleged connection with the suspected abductions.

Friday the prosecutor's office had announced the arrest of Kwang Il Kim, 31, a sports instructor living at Stuttgart.

The latest arrest came as the director of the South Korean Central Intelligence Agency announced in Seoul the smashing of a large North Korean subversive ring operating in South Korea and West Germany.

Director Kim Hyung-wook told a news conference that 15 South Koreans, including professors, physicians, artists and government officials, had operated in the ring through contacts with the North Korean Embassy in East Berlin.

Kim said 17 South Korean nationals were taken home voluntarily from West Germany for investigation.

Moore Still Plans To Run For 2nd Spot

James W. Moore, Monroe businessman and vice chairman of the Louisiana Highway Board, said Saturday night that there is "no change in my intention to run for lieutenant governor" in the Democratic Primary this fall.

"We are moving full steam ahead with our plans to seek this office," he said, adding that he had received widespread indications of support throughout the state.

His statement:

"We certainly recognize Governor John McKeithen's overtures to Lt. Governor C. C. Aycock to join him on a ticket and the course Aycock choses to take is yet to be forthcoming. I know if I were Aycock I would have immediately welcomed the offer and joined the team for Louisiana. What so many people don't recognize is that Gov. McKeithen, as any real leader, doesn't want a yes man, but respects an individual who can muster support and show evidence of his ability to do a job. As an example I am going to New Orleans next week in an effort to get our uptown bridge project moving ahead in my capacity as vice chairman of the Mississippi Bridge Authority and will also get in the business of the riverfront expressway through the French Quarters in my capacity as vice chairman of the highway board, particularly since our member there recently resigned. My instructions from the governor are to get the job done and this is the vein in which I operate with Gov. McKeithen as a businessman and board appointee to do the very best job I know how and to operate as he instructs me, but not to bother him with details."

There have been reports that Aycock would announce his withdrawal as a candidate for governor and run for reelection on McKeithen's ticket.

Police Report Arrest Of 10 For Gambling

The arrest of 10 Negro men on charges of gambling were reported by Monroe police Saturday.

Investigating officers said they were called to a home at 604 Adams St. late Friday night by an unnamed complainant who said there was a card game being conducted there.

Officers said they raided the residence and made the arrests.

Obie Harris, 33, of the Adams Street address was charged with conducting and participating in a gambling game.

Others charged with participating in a gambling game were:

Johnny J. Green, 52, of 1012 N. 7th St., West Monroe; Albert Williams, 509 N. 11th St.; John L. Jackson, 39, 4210 Barlow St.; John Wesley Daniel, 52, 315 N. 11th St.; Issac Armstrong, 43, 201 N. Congo St.; Henry Jones, of 3813 Dunlap St.; Prince Miles 51, of 610 Benjamein St.; and Emanuel Johnson, of 1121½ Rear Washington St.

In other action, officers arrested two Negro men in connection with the theft of a pair of wedding rings valued at about $50 from Flair's Jewelry, 1804 Louisville Ave.

Officers said the rings had been taken from a showcase in the store.

Police charged Alex M. Wade, 18, 215 Cedar St. and Frank B. Sewell, also 18, of 422 N. 22nd St. with felony theft in connection with the incident.

Following her arrest at the Eastgate Safeway Food Store, officers charged Rosie Lee Presley, 20, of 1306 Ouachita Ave. with shoplifting about three dollars in merchandise from the store.

Joe Wayne Hall, 17, of 131 Eagan St. was arrested by officers in the 1800 block of Louisville Ave. and charged with driving while intoxicated.

Lionel Fuller, 20, of 505½ N. 13th St. was charged with carrying concealed weapon.

Concealed weapon, appearing drunk and disorderly, and using loud and profane language charges were filed against Uzziah White, 58, of 75-C Roy Dr.

In West Monroe police charged two Negro women with fighting and aggravated battery.

The two charged were: Ella Elmore, 26, of 904 N. 6th St. and Joyce Marshall, 28, of 1116 N. 8th St.

Bobby W. Outley, 19, of 1007 N. 4th St. was charged by officers with driving while intoxicated and reckless driving.

Late Saturday Monroe police arrested Billie M. Johnson, 29, of Rt. 1, Box 69, Baskin, on charges of theft. Johnson was arrested at Gibson's Discount Center on Louisville Ave.

The Gallup Report

Americans For Treaty Between Arabs, Israel

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N. J. — A just completed survey of the American public's attitudes toward the dispute in the Middle East reveals these principal findings:

— A majority believe Israel and the Arab nations should work out their own formula for peace. Only about a third believe the U.N. should have the final say.

—Americans are confident that a peaceful settlement of differences between the disputing nations can be worked out.

—Only about one American in seven thinks Israel should be required to give back all lands seized in the four-day war against the Arab nations. One in four believes Israel should be allowed to keep it all, while about half of the American people think some compromise should be worked out.

At a time when the United Nations has been seeking a solution to the tense Middle East situation, the Gallup Poll sought to uncover the attitudes of Americans, asking the following questions of a total of 1,513 adults in 335 scientifically selected sampling points across the nation. Interviewing was conducted between June 23 and 26.

1) "Do you think the U. N. should have the final say on Arab-Israel peace plans or should this be left to the Israelis and Arabs to decide between themselves?"

U.N. final say	36
Decide themselves	57
No opinion	7

2) "Do you think a peaceful settlement of differences between Israel and the Arab countries can be worked out?"

No	21
No opinion	9

3) "As you know, the Israelis conquered a lot of land in the recent war with the Arab nations. What do you think should be done — should Israel be required to give back all this conquered land, keep it all, or keep some of it?" Israel should . . . .

Keep it all	24

Different Views Held

Persons with college training are more inclined to take the compromise point of view on the question of the Israeli-seized land than are persons with less formal education. Little differences by education are found on the other two questions.

The results of the third question by education:

Sympathy For Israel

An earlier survey conducted during the height of the brief conflict early last month showed sympathies in the U.S. (among persons aware of the situation) clearly on the side of the Israelis. Parallel surveys conducted by Gallup affiliates in Great Britain, France, and the Netherlands also showed sentiment overwhelmingly in favor of Israel.

The following question (or a closely comparable version) was asked in each country: "In this trouble are your sympathies more with Israel or more with the Arab states?"

The findings:

Sympathies more with	U.S.	G.B.	France	Netherlands

Two Dangerous Negroes Flee From State Hospital

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Two Negro men, whose combined records include charges in six killings, remained at large Saturday after escaping from the maximum security unit at Central State Hospital.

Dr. William Tragle, hospital superintendent, identified the pair as:

—William Henry Clark Jr., 17, of Nashville, indicted in the rape-slaying of Dolores Scott, 31, a Fisk University student from Baton Rouge, La.

—John Henry Morgan, 42, of Lebanon, accused of five slayings including the twin-killing of Mrs. Paul Hackney of Lebanon and her niece, Dianne Graves, 7, in 1964.

"We consider these men very dangerous especially Morgan," Tragle said. "When they get out like this, you expect anything. Neither one of these men has caused us any trouble until now."

Tragle said the men escaped between 10 p.m. Friday and 7 a.m. Saturday from the front section of the maximum security building.

Security guards said the men were in the unit during bed-check Friday night, but were missing when guards made a routine inspection nine hours later.

Tragle said it is not known how the two men escaped.

"We're talking to all our employes, but so far we don't have any leads," he said.

Security precautions in the section where the two men were being held is not as strict as in another area of the building, the doctor added.

Three other mental patients escaped from the maximum security unit last spring, and took a hostage with them. The hostage later was released unharmed.

Clark was arrested two days after the Fisk coed, Miss Scott, was stabbed and raped in a hallway near a Fisk classroom.

Prior to Clark's indictment, Asst. Dist. Atty. Gen. John Hollins told a court the state believed Clark "is presently insane and does not know right from wrong and is not competent to advise counsel."

Clark was admitted to Central State last October after being declared mentally incompetent to stand trial.

Morgan had been confined at Central State on several occasions — the last time since 1965 after he was indicted in the Hackney - Graves slayings in Lebanon.

Police said Mrs. Hackney was shot once and her niece three times as they slept.

Answer Given To Queries Over Draft

During the past several months many queries have been received concerning Preinduction Examinations of Selective Service registrants being processed for induction into the Armed Forces.

Major General Erbon W. Wise, state director, stated that Congress prescribes the liability, the Department of Defense determines the acceptability and the Selective Service System determines the availability of registrants.

Mental, moral and physical standards for acceptance are prescribed by the Secretary of Defense and the examinations are conducted by the Department of Defense according to the standards of the particular branch of the service to which the man will be assigned.

Secretaries Here Prepare For Meeting

Mrs. Jessica Lawn, president of the Ouachita Valley Chapter of the National Secretaries Association, said Saturday the group will observe its 25th anniversary as it prepares for its annual convention in Toronto, Ontario, Canada. The convention will be held July 11 through 15.

Noting the anniversary, President Lyndon B. Johnson has saluted the organization, saying "the influence of your association is felt in every fact of American life. . .And you have provided timely inspiration and encouragement to the young women setting out on her business career."

The Ouachita chapter was organized earlier this year.

Six-Kopeck Stamp

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Ministry of Communications announced issuance of a six-kopeck stamp for the Fifth Moscow International Film Festival. It shows a movie camera against a screen background and the festival emblem.

Veterans To Get School Checks Early

Checks for more than two hundred thousand veterans who will attend college next fall under the new GI Bill for Vietnam veterans will arrive about 10 days earlier each month because of an improved system adopted by the Veterans Administration.

Future checks will normally arrive about the 10th of the month, according to Lawrence J. Centola, manager of the VA Regional Office in New Orleans.

The 10-day speed-up results from dropping the requirement for monthly certification, Centola said. Now a veteran who is attending a regular course at an approved college or university certifies his attendance at the beginning of the school year.

Checks continue as long as he continues in regular attendance unless his eligibility period ends sooner, the VA manager said. The additional certifications required are handled independently of the checks.

Auto Kills Three Walking

By United Press International

Three pedestrians were killed in a Cheneyville accident early Saturday, quickly running up Louisiana's weekend death toll.

At least four persons were killed in accidents around the state.

Killed on U.S. 71 were Lynel Clayton, 12, and Nanny Clayton, 42, of Cheneyville, and Leo Whirl, about 53, of Bunkie.

State police said the three Negroes were struck by a car driven by Charles V. Mulhearn, 19, of Bunkie at 12:53 a. m. The Mulhearn vehicle, police said, never left the highway.

Alexander Montgomery of Shreveport was killed Friday night when his car crashed into a concrete pier on Interstate 20. He was pinned in the car as the impact of the crash pushed the engine back into the front seat of the vehicle.

SANDRA K. BLAKNEY

Local Twirler Wins Honors

The National Baton Twirling Association of Janesville, Wis. announced Saturday that Sandra K. Blakney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Blakney, 321 Martin St., West Monroe, is featured in the 17th annual library edition of "Who's Who in Baton Twirling."

Miss Blakney's picture and biographical sketch are listed among the nation's 1800 top twirlers in the 1967 - 68 edition of the 660 - page book.

The book is released each year just prior to National Baton Twirling Week, which is scheduled this year for the week of Aug. 20 - 26.

Collision Kills Four Persons

INDIANOLA, Miss. (AP) — Four persons were killed Saturday when the car in which they were riding collided with a truck on U.S. 49 south of here.

The highway patrol said Mrs. Everett White, 53, of Ruleville; her son, Thomas White Jr., 19, Ruleville; her daughter, Miss Barbara Ann White, 23, Biloxi; and Miss Susan Labarreare, 19, Doddsville, were killed instantly.

The patrol said the white auto collided with a truck-trailer driven by Bobby L. Lambert of Brinkley, Ark. Patrolmen quoted Lambert as saying he was driving on 49 when the white auto crossed the highway from a side road.

Currency Switch

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP) — With 750,000 account statements and myriad cash and paper sums involved, New Zealand banks this weekend had their busiest days ever preparing for the switch of the nation's currency Monday from pounds and shillings to dollars and cents. Tellers reported thousands of aged and musty bank notes turned up from hiding places.

"Abstemious" and "facetious" are the only two words in the English language that contain all five vowels once in their proper order.

Marines Tell McNamara Of Position

PHU BAI, South Vietnam (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara was assured Sunday that there was no possibility that U.S. Marines could be pushed out of their strongpoints along the demilitarized zone by three North Vietnamese army divisions lined up opposite the Leathernecks.

Lt. Gen. Robert E. Cushman, Marine commander in Vietnam, said the large number of enemy artillery and rocket batteries which have been taking a high toll of Marines continue to be a problem.

The batteries are in what Marine spokesmen said were masterfully camouflaged concrete bunkers. They are seeded throughout the northern part of the zone and immediately to the north in North Vietnam itself.

McNamara flew to this northern Marine base from Saigon at the outset of a field trip that followed two days of high-level briefings and conferences in Saigon.

McNamara's visit to the 1st Corps area of Vietnam, where the over-all enemy threat is greatest, was the first stop on his field trip. He arrived in Saigon Friday for his ninth on-the-spot inspection tour of the war zone.

McNamara was accompanied by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, who is reported to have asked Washington for 100,000 to 140,000 additional U.S. troops.

Lt. Gen. William Momyer, U.S. 7th Air Force commander in Vietnam, accompanied McNamara on the flight to the 1st Corps area and explained how he could shift virtually the entire Air Force strength to support Marines in the demilitarized zone if it becomes necessary.

After the Marine briefing at Phu Bai, the secretary was to fly parallel to the zone, but well south of the line, for a look at Vietnam's bloodiest battleground.

Virginia Bar Set To Admit First Negro

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — The Virginia State Bar Association voted Saturday to admit its first Negro member despite a determined effort by some senior members to block it.

The voice vote at the association's annual meeting admitted Herman Benn of Richmond.

The opposition first tried to amend the bylaws to change the membership procedure.

When this failed, Alex Parker of Richmond described Benn as a "commendable person with a high standing as a lawyer. But he is a Negro, and therefore I am opposed to accepting him as a member of this association."

Parker said he had a good many Negro friends, "but I don't invite any of them to my home or club to socialize with me."

Louisianan Asks Limits On U. S. Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said Saturday he supports a proposal to limit the number of nations eligible to receive low interest and long term American development loans and technical aid.

He said the Senate Foreign Relations Committee recently made the foreign aid proposal, one "that I have long advocated."

Ellender, in a talk for broadcast in Louisiana, said attempts were made last year to limit the number of nations eligible to receive such aid but that an escape clause has inserted under which the President could extend assistance merely by notifying Congress.

Thus, he said, where Congress last year stipulated that development loans were to be extended to no more than 10 nations, the escape clause was used to extend this type of loan to 29 nations.

Portrayer Of Scarlett O'Hara, Blanche du Bois

Death Takes Famed Actress Vivien Leigh

By MICHAEL CODEL

LONDON (AP) — Actress Vivien Leigh, who won an Oscar in 1939 and rose to international stardom by playing Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind," died Saturday.

She won another Oscar 12 years later for her portrayal of neurotic Blanche du Bois in "A Streetcar Named Desire."

The 53-year-old actress was found dead in bed in her London apartment after a recurrence of tuberculosis, an illness which had dominated her life since 1945. She suffered frequent collapses and in 1960 lost a baby she was expecting shortly before her divorce from Sir Laurence Olivier.

Miss Leigh was stricken ill a month ago as she was to start rehearsals for the London stage production of Edward Albee's "A Delicate Balance."

She was one of Britain's most accomplished and versatile modern actresses.

She and her second husband, Sir Laurence, won international acclaim in the twin productions, Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra" and George Bernard Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra."

She was the first actrses in theatrical history to try Shakespeare's and Shaw's Cleopatra in sequence and succeed in both.

Miss Leigh and Olivier were married in 1940 following her divorce from her first husband, Herbert Leigh Holman, a British lawyer, after eight years of marriage.

She had a daughter by that marriage.

Olivier, now married to actress Joan Plowright and himself under treatment for prostate cancer, visited his former wife's home for half an hour after her death was announced.

Slim, with a heart-shaped face and twinklin gray eyes, Miss Leigh aimed only at acting success.

Born in India of an English father and Irish mother, she left an English convent at 14 and studied drama in Germany and France.

Her London stage debute came in 1935 as Henriette in "The Mask of Virtue." Film producer Alexander Korda was so impressed that between acts on opening night he went backstage and signed her to a $140,000 five-year film contract. She appeared in British-made "Sidewalks of London" and "A Yank at Oxford."

Miss Leigh was appearing on the London stage when she first read Margaret Mitchell's massive Civil War novel, "Gone With the Wind." She promised fellow actresses that if she ever went to Hollywood it would be to play Scarlett O'Hara.

In late 1938 the filming of "Gone With the Wind" had begun but the lead actress not yet chosen. Hollywood's top actresses, including Katherine Hepburn and Bette Davis, were scrambling for the part.

Then little-known Miss Leigh, who was in Hollywood on a two-week holiday, took a screen test and won the part.

She played opposite Clark Gable's Rhett Butler and the film went on to set box-office records for a generation. Miss Leigh received only $16,800 for her Oscar-winning role.

She first met Olivier when they played "Hamlet" in Denmark in 1935. During the war, while Olivier was a navy pilot, Miss Leigh toured the fronts entertaining troops. She returned to the London stage in 1945 and a short time later was stricken with tuberculosis. She spent two months in a sanitarium and had a long convalescence.

Her last film role was in "Ship of Fools." She won a 1966 French Film Academy award playing a middle-aged alcoholic who wound up dancing a solitary charleston on the deck of the night - bound ship—her last, lonesome kick of life.

VIVIEN LEIGH, who died Saturday in London, England, is pictured as she appeared with Clark Gable in her most famous movie role, that of Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With The Wind." In this scene Scarlett and Rhett Butler, flanked by Confederate troops, leave a flaming Atlanta under attack by Gen. William Sherman. The role won her an Academy Award. (AP Wirephoto)

Pineville Man Killed In Wreck

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — John B. Carter, 25, of Pineville, La., was killed early Saturday when his motorcycle struck a utility pole and careened down a Bayou Rapides levee here.

City police said Carter apparently lost control of his cycle while climbing the levee at a dirt crossing.

Mansfield's Jewels Kept By Coroner

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—New Orleans coroner Dr. Nicolas Chetta said Saturday night he will not turn Jayne Mansfield's jewelry over to anyone unless ordered to do so by the court probating the actress' will.

Chetta said Miss Mansfield's jewelry is valued at about $50,000, despite a report by Fan magazine writer May Mann in Hollywood earlier saying the gems were worth $200,000.

The coroner said two court orders have been issued telling him to release the jewels, one from Los Angeles and one from New Orleans, but that he is refusing to give them up until the probate court issues an order.

Miss Mann said Saturday the actress had the jewelry with her when she was killed in a collision in New Orleans and expressed concern over the where abouts of the gems.

Chetta would not say who had attempted to claim the jewelry or who the court orders said was entitled to the gems. All he would say is "you figure it out."

Officials at the House of Bultman Funeral home in New Orleans said when they received the actress' body, none of her possessions were with the body —even the clothes she was wearing at the time of death.

Man Eating Is Injured As Car Hits Cafe Here

A 19 - year - old West Monroe man narrowly escaped serious injury Saturday a car crashed through the wall of the Kopper Kettle restaurant at the corner of N. 7th St. and Cypress St. in West Monroe.

Officers said George Schaeffer, 19, of 137 Linden Dr. was taken to Glenwood Hospital with leg injuries not believed to be serious.

Seated at a booth in the restaurant Schaeffer was injured when an auto driven by Billie C. Phillips, 35, of 102 Ridge Grove Dr., West Monroe, smashed through a wall adjoining the booth.

The driver told officers her brakes had failed as she pulled into the restaurant's parking area.

The driver was charged with reckless driving, causing an accident and negligent injury.

Texas Wreck Fatal To 3

MINERAL WELLS, Tex. (AP) — Three persons, including two Abilene children, were killed Saturday when two automobiles collided headon about 14 miles south of Mineral Wells on U.S. 80.

Killed in the crash were Paul Williams, 4-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Williams of Abilene; Debbie Lynch, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Lynch of Abilene, and Mrs. Alvah Bell, 51, of Melissa, Collin County town near McKinney.

Seriously injured in the 8:10 a.m. crash were Mrs. Martha Williams, 23, and Mrs. Bell's husband, Alvah, 51, a civil service employe at Perrin Air Force Base near Denison.

A highway patrolman who investigated the accident said the Williams were traveling east en route to Baton Rouge, La., accompanied by Miss Lynch. The Bell car was traveling west, he added.

Dancer Charged In Husband Death Plot

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — A shapely blonde go-go dancer and four others were charged Saturday with plotting to hire a state police detective to murder the dancer's estranged husband.

Police accused Mrs. Laurie Wright, 19, of suburban Highland Park, a go-go dancer in a Detroit bar.

Authorities said her husband, Leonard Wright, 20, of Mount Clemens, was the target of the alleged plot.

Held in the Oakland County jail in lieu of $50,000 bond each were Mrs. Wright; Patrick McNamara, 22, Detroit; Daniel M. Duffy, 23, Highland Park; Duffy's wife, Patricia, 20 and Nicholas F. Gueli Jr., 21, of Hazel Park.

The five were arraigned Saturday on charges of conspiracy to commit murder. Preliminary examination was set for next Friday.

State Police Detective John Aird charged that the five tried to hire him for $2,000 to kill Wright. He declined to give a motive and police would not discuss details.

"They wanted a job done and as a result, thinking I was for hire, they hired me," the detective said. He said he was approached by an intermediary and had three meetings with the five before Friday night's arrests.

Mrs. Burnett Dies; Services 4 P. M. Today

Mrs. F. H. Burnett, 83, of 403 Morris Ave., Monroe, died Saturday at the Shady Oaks Nursing Home here following a long illness.

Businessman Dies

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — A well known Lafayette businessman died at his home Saturday.

He was Hubert Hebert, 49, the past president of the Louisiana Plumbing, Heating and Cooling Association.

Funeral services will be held Monday.

A Swiss watch must not lose as many as three seconds a day or gain 12 to qualify as a chronometer, says the National Geographic.

DAPHNE HELLMAN

Tech Concert Season Final Set Thursday

The Louisiana Tech Concert Association will present the Daphne Hellman Trio as the final concert of the 1966-67 season at 8 p.m. Thursday in Howard Auditorium.

Central figure in the trip is Daphne Hellman, talented harpist whose career includes phases as an actress, cover girl and musician. She has made the harp into an obsorbing melody instrument.

After attending the Royal Academy in London, she appeared in productions of "Hamlet" and several British films. At that point she decided to concentrate on becoming a harpist and subsequently went to Paris where she studied with Renie, Mildred Dilling and later with Marcel Grandjany.

Miss Hellman, whose playing of the classics has been praised by music critics, is also at home in rhythm and blues. Her programs contain the best in the classic repertoire, the best in modern jazz, and a combination of both, since one of the highlights of her performance is a group in which she uses he harp as a single line voice with a swinging sound.

Final Two Days Of Registration Set At Northeast

Monday and Tuesday, July 10 and 11, will be the final two days of registration for the second six - week summer term at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Classes for the second term will begin Wednesday, July 12. Final exams for the first term will be administered Tuesday.

Students who did not register for the second term June 1, when registration for both summer terms was held, may register Monday and Tuesday. The registration period for the second term began July 5.

Students who registered for the second term on June 1 do not have to register again, says Dr. Glenn F. Powers, dean of instruction. New students who have not received notification of acceptance will report to the registrar's office. Beginning freshmen who have received notification of acceptance will report to Stubbs 232 to pick up registration packets and will then go to the head of the department in which they will major to be assigned an advisor.

Returning undergraduate and graduate students and transfer students who have received notification of acceptance will report to their department heads to pick up registration packets.

Long Route Of U.S. Involvement In Vietnam Retraced

There are now some 460,000 U.S. troops locked in major war in Vietnam. They may be joined soon by even more. Their journey to Southeast Asia was made over a twisted and sometimes confused road of government decision. Their mass presence there today was unforeseen and unplanned for at the outset. How they got to Vietnam despite early firm objections to a U.S. war commitment on the Asian land mass is outlined in the following article based on interviews with many of the men who shaped U.S. policy.

Editorials — Spotlight

Monroe, La., July 9, 1967 1-B

By FRED HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most U. S. military chiefs in the critical early 1960s were firmly opposed to committing American troops to fight on the ground in South Vietnam or Laos.

Few U.S. civilian or military policymakers foresaw that President John F. Kennedy's 1961 decision to broaden aid and advice to South Vietnam would lead to today's massive U.S. involvement.

Other decisions were made which in retrospect failed to achieve desired results.

Thus, there was no real advance planning for the kind of U.S. combat troop commitment which President Johnson ordered in 1965, after the South Vietnamese army was all but routed by the Communists.

These were some of the more striking points emerging from wide-ranging Associated Press interviews aimed at illuminating the thinking and the recommendations that figured in the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

DEEP DIVISIONS

Echoing through certain of these interviews were deep divisions of viewpoint among some of the men who advised Kennedy and Johnson as these presidents tried to find answers to the Vietnam dilemma.

Roger Hilsman, a former assistant secretary of state, argued that Johnson made a tragic mistake in "over-Americanizing the war," as Hilsman put it, by introducing U.S. ground forces by bombing North Vietnam.

Federick Nolting, onetime ambassador to Saigon, contended the big error was committed in the Kennedy administration. Nolting charged some officials condoned the 1963 overthrow of South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem. This, the former envoy said, created a political vacuum which sucked in this country as a major combatant.

Nearly two dozen pivotal figures were reached by the AP in Southeast Asia, Europe and the United States in exploring the decisions that shaped the U.S. officials, both civilian and military, who were in the eye of hurricane at one stage or another.

Some spoke for the record. Others refused to be quoted. Still others rejected requests for interviews.

Most of those who did talk declined to discuss specific recommendations on ground these still are classified.

BROAD RANGE VIEW

Their words presented a kaleidoscope of views.

They ranged from former Undersecretary of State George Ball who opposed Kennedy's crucial 1961 decision to enlarge the American advisory role, to Adm. George W. Anderson, retired chief of naval operations, who believes the time to have solved the Indochina problem was in 1954 when France asked for American air power to help its forces, against the Communist Vietminh besieging Dien Bien Phu.

Most of the U.S. military chiefs in the 1961-1962-1963 period were against getting enmeshed in a land war in Southeast Asia.

They successfully opposed sending U. S. forces into Laos when the matter came up for decision in 1962, at a time when it appeared the Communist Pathlet Lao and their North Vietnamese backers might take over that land-locked kingdom.

It is equally clear that most key U.S. military leaders in those years had no real thought of committing American combat troops.

They felt the expanded advisory operation would work. They admit there were no detailed plans laid for supporting the kind of U.S. military buildup which finally was ordered by Johnson in mid-1965, when the South Vietnamese army was at its rope's end.

Ball warned Kennedy in late 1961 that increasing the American military presence from the 700-plus advisers, maintained under the 1954 Geneva agreement, to a comtemplated 15,000 would start the United States on the road to a huge commitment from which it would be hard to disentangle.

"I said at the time that committing ourselves to increased military forces would lead eventually to 300,000 men in the field," recalled Ball, who returned to private law practice in Washington after leaving the State Department last October.

Now, some 5½ years after Kennedy made his decision on the advice of other top aides, there are about 460,000 Americans locked in a major war in Vietnam.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk argued against Ball's premise and Kennedy sided with them, Ball indicated.

Ball thinks Kennedy was convinced—in the wake of the Cuban Bay of Pigs debacle several months earlier—that he had to show strength everywhere, and that the situation in Vietnam seemed to demand such a demonstration of anti-Communist firmness.

Hilsman, then head of the State Department's Intelligence Bureau, supported the Kennedy policy, which he cast in terms of a strategy rather than a U.S. military solution.

"John Kennedy's ultimate goal was, ideally, to seek an outcome as in the Philippines, Greece and Malaya, with the local population fighting its own war through conviction," said Hilsman, now a Columbia University professor.

"Minimally, it was to obtain at least a Laos, with neither side winning. Laos has measles, but it is not dying of a raging fever."

Hilsman said Johnson's course in Vietnam "is a tragic mistake for which the United States will be paying for at least a generation."

Johnson's blunder was to "Americanize" the war by committing U. S. forces to battle, thus turning from Kennedy's policy aimed at keeping it a South Vietnamese war, he said.

Hilsman, a Kennedy appointee as assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, resigned in March 1964, about four months after Johnson succeeded to the presidency.

He said he felt he had to leave because he could see gradual escaltion coming.

Some five months after Hilsman quit, the United States and North Vietnam had their first clash of arms in the Gulf of Tonkin. That was in early August 1964.

The United States opened sustained bombing of North Vietnam nearly a year after Hilsman's departure from the government, and introduced ground combat forces soon after the bombing campaign began.

Kennedy acted after receiving a report on Nov. 3, 1961, from Gen Maxwell D. Taylor, his military adviser. He had sent Taylor and Walt W. Rostow, a special assistant for national security affairs to Vietnam to size up the problem on the ground.

RECOMMENDATIONS

After returning, Taylor recommended that the U. S. advisory force be enlarged manyfold, that the South Vietnamese army be expanded and given more American training and equipment, and that the United States furnish its Army helicopter companies to carry Vietnamese soldiers to battle against the Communist Viet Cong.

But the general laid the groundwork for further steps, including direct action against North Vietnam. He told Kennedy in his report:

"While we feel that the program recommended represents those measures which should be taken in our present knowledge of the situation in Southeast Asia, I would not suggest that it is the final word.

"If the Hanoi decision is to continue the irregular war declared on South Vietnam in 1959 with continued infiltration and covert support of guerrilla bands in the territory of our ally, we will then have to decide whether to accept as legitimate the continued guidance, training and support of a guerrilla war across an international boundary, while the attacked react only inside their borders.

"It is clear to me that the time may come in our relations to Southeast Asia when we must declare our intention to attack the source of guerrilla aggression in North Vietnam, and impose on the Hanoi government a price for participating in the current war which is commensurate with the damage being inflicted on its neighbors to the south."

Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, currently executive of an electronics firm in Chatsworth, Calif., indicated strongly that he favored bombing North Vietnam as long ago as early 1962. He was Air Force chief of staff at the time. This was about three years before the bombing offensive opened on Feb. 7, 1965.

"We have been using air and naval power in a piddling manner," LeMay told a reporter.

"If we had done what we are doing now five years ago, as I recommended, the shock effect might have stopped then, but it's too late for this now.

"Today, there is only one way of ending the war, and that is to say, 'We're not going to let you invade your neighbor any longer—we'll destroy everything you have if necessary.'

"I don't mean destroy the population but simply to deprive the population of the things they need to carry on their invasion of the South."

LeMay said that "in most cases my advice was not followed.

"I have always wanted to do more than we have done," the former Air Force four-star general said.

SIMILAR STRATEGY

He contended that U. S. strategy in Vietnam has been similar to that used by the British against the Communists in Malaya — "to get the people organized to defend themselves while the regular forces fight the guerrillas."

But the British enjoyed certain geographical and other advantages lacking to the United States in Vietnam, LeMay said, and it still took the British 10 years to suppress the Communists in Malaya.

"We will never be able to clean up Vietnam," he predicted.

"The only way is to make the North Vietnamese stop supporting the invasion of the South. You can do this by invading, or by using air and naval power."

Adm. Anderson said U. S. leaders, during his years on the Joint Chiefs of Staff, hoped a large scale U. S. commitment "never would take place."

Although there were contingency plans, Anderson said, there was no real planning for a buildup beyond those "on the shelf" blueprints.

Anderson said earlier action should have been taken to introduce large American combat forces.

"This should have been done not later than the beginning of 1964," said Anderson, who is on the board of a major airline after serving as U. S. ambassador to Portugal.

"The U. S. should have gone into North Vietnam from the Pacific side, at Vinh," the former Navy boss said. "We could have cut off North Vietnam from South Vietnam. It would have given us the best access into Laos."

Vinh is a key "choke point" on the main supply line to South Vietnam. It lies in the upper part of the North Vietnamese panhandle, about 150 miles from the buffer zone separating the two Vietnams.

Anderson retired July 31, 1963. By that time, he said, there was definite evidence that material was coming down from the North. He couldn't recall whether organized units yet had shown up from the North, but he said "there were North Vietnamese advisers in there.

"We should have committed U. S. combat power when men and equipment began coming down," Anderson asserted.

He refused to say whether he talked that way in the councils of the Joint Chiefs.

VIEWS UNCHANGED

But, Anderson said, "my views on this haven't changed for a long, long time."

Anderson told of the proposal to send U. S. forces into Laos during the 1962 crisis there, saying the objective was to support a coalition government containing Communists. He did not say who made the proposal.

"The military chiefs did not go along with putting in U. S. forces for that kind of political objective," he said.

Other U. S. military men said the reason the chiefs lined up against the idea of committing American troops in Laos was something quite different.

"I certainly did not want to get the Army bogged in a place like Laos," said one former high officer who asked that his name be omitted.

What he meant was that Laos is a logisticians's nightmare. There are very few good roads, no railroads, only a scattering of modern airports. A supply line to support any sizable American force in Laos would have to stretch all the way through Thailand to the Gulf of Siam.

Anderson harked back to the twilight of France's dominance of Indochina, and said that "through a lack of a collective effort, we lost the great opportunity to win a military victory in time."

This, he said, happened in 1964 when the French had their backs to the wall at Dien Bien Phu, in the northwestern part of what is today North Vietnam.

The French appealed to the United States for air power against the Communist Vietminh encircling French troops there.

"President Eisenhower made the decision that the United States would not go in without others," Anderson recalled.

He was with an official American party that went to Europe to sound out the British, then returned with word that Britain would not take part in such an effort.

Sources familiar with the events of those days, 13 years ago, said the Australians and New Zealanders would not participate in any rescue operation unless the British went along.

"If it had been an allied effort, broadly based, Eisenhower would have committed us," Anderson stated.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford was chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff at that time and was a leader of the U. S. group that talked with British government officials about joint intervention.

One source close to Radford said, "It made sense for us to help the French because we would not then have had to put in troops."

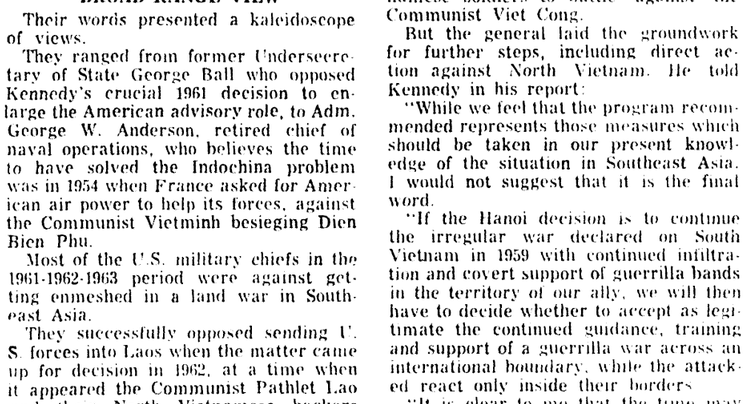
But, this source said, the French wanted a one-time U.S. effort from the air. "We couldn't get in the war and then get out," he added.

At a White House news conference on March 10, 1954, Eisenhower pledged that "There is going to be no involvement of America in war unless it is a result of the constitutional process that is placed upon Congress to declare it."

Three years later, after the Geneva agreement separating Vietnam into Communist and non-Communist halves, Eisenhower backed free Vietnam with a promise of continued U. S. assistance against growing Communist pressure.

Eisenhower joined with Diem, who was visiting Washington in May 1957, in a statement declaring any Red aggression or subversion threatening the political independence of South Vietnam "would be considered as endangering peace and stability" in the area.

He assured Diem "of the willingness of the United States to continue to offer effective assistance within the constitutional process of the United States."



MOST AMERICAN military leaders opposed commitment of U. S. troops to fight in Vietnam in the early 1960's — and few policymakers foresaw such fighting when President Kennedy increased American Military advisers in Vietnam from 700-plus to a contemplated 15,000. Here, on Oct. 2, 1963, President Kennedy gets a report from Gen. Maxwell Taylor, left, then chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara.

Roger Hilsman | George Ball | Adm. George W. Anderson | Frederick Nolting | Gen. David M. Shoup

AS VIETNAM LOOMED bigger and bigger on the American horizon, the men in the government, military and civilian, who advised first President Kennedy and later President Johnson, expressed several different points of view. Today they might be called hawks and doves. In retrospect they also have widely divergent, and sometimes now changed, opinions as to what turns on the twisted road to war were the crucial ones—and those who were responsible. Seen here are 10 of these advisers interviewed recently by the Associated Press. (AP Newsfeatures Photos)

State Department officials cited this Eisenhower statement as one of the significant declarations binding the United States to the fate of South Vietnam.

Gen. David M. Shoup, former Marine Corps commandant who sat on the Joint Chiefs in the early 1960s, said in a recent interview that "I was against getting involved in a ground war in Asia."

"I was in favor of doing anything our commitment would cause us to do up to the point where we put in combat units," said the World War II Medal of Honor winner.

Providing supplies and advice to the South Vietnamese is "a long, long step from destruction of enemy forces," Shoup said.

"As the numbers of advisers increased," he said, "I began to wonder whether pretty soon we would become involved and how we could stop it."

"When they began to put in combatant units whose function was to destroy the enemy," said the retired Marine commandant, "I was very fearful of the outcome of such a commitment."

Did he speak in those terms while on the Joint Chiefs:

"I took an oath that I would never discuss my part in any official JCS discussions," Shoup replied.

Gen. George H. Decker, Army chief of staff in that same period, said that "when I retired in September 1962 I felt restrained optimism."

Decker responded with a "no" when asked whether he felt then that there was any need for U.S. combat forces in Vietnam.

"We were making pretty good progress in training, building up and equipment the South Vietnamese army," said the retired Army chief, now an official of a chemical industry association.

"I didn't think North Vietnam would commit active forces to the South," Decker said. "I felt they would covertly support the Viet Cong.

NO COMMITMENT PLANS

"We had no real plans to commit forces to the kind of war we are in now. Of course, there always were contingency plans for war in Southeast Asia."

Decker said his recommendations were generally accepted, adding:

"They were not controversial in any sense. They dealt largely with logistics, communications and that sort of thing.

"I was not recommending anything that was contrary to government policy."

Decker said that construction of a major logistics base "didn't seem to be indicated at the time."

"There really was no need for anything like that," Decker said. "No rapid buildup or large buildup of American troops was contemplated at the time.

Gen. Paul D. Harkins, who became chief of the greatly expanded U.S. Military assistance operation in February 1962, said "I thought of our stay in Vietnam as advisers as a limited one. I thought the advisers would be there until the South Vietnamese got the guerrillas under control."

Harkins, in retirement in Dallas, Texas, said that in 1963 "if everything had gone according to plans, I felt we would lessen our commitment in 1965."

This jibes with a White House statement issued on Oct. 2, 1963, after McNamara and Taylor had returned from an on-the-spot check of the situation in Vietnam.

That statement - which has haunted both men since-announced to the nation and the world:

"Secretary McNamara and General Taylor reported their judgment that the major part of the U.S. military task can be completed by the end of 1965, although there may be a continuing requirement for a limited number of U.S. training personnel."

Diem was overthrown a month later and the country was thrown into political turmoil that lasted about 18 months, with military coup following coup.

PROJECTION BALKED

Harkins contended the ouster of Diem and the resulting confusion—on which the Viet Cong are generally acknowledged to have capitalized—fouled up the projection that the U.S. commitment could be cut down by the end of 1965.

He said his last recommendation—before giving way to Gen. William C. Westmoreland in June 1964—was to continue the advisory role and aid program much as it had been conducted under Diem.

Harkins asserted he never asked for U.S. fighting troops.

"We had no thought of actually sending in combat troops" throughout the time he was in command in Vietnam, Harkins said. When he left, there were about 20,000 American military men serving as advisers in the country.

Adm. Harry D. Felt, over-all commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific from July 1958 to July 1964, said he doubts in retrospect that the United States would have made any different decisions in the conduct of the Vietnam war.

However, Felt conceded, "we might have made them a little faster."

WEIGHT OF OPINION

The admiral, living in retirement in Honolulu, suggested public opinion figured in what he called a reluctance to move a little faster in making certain decisions.

"It was difficult for a great many people in the general public to understand the real threat and escalation on the part of Hanoi and the Viet Cong," Felt said.

"Our buildup of our advisers came after a lot of hard soul-searching. But whether it would have made a difference in the war effort if the buildup were faster is hard to say."

The former commander-in-chief in the Pacific stressed there never was a conflict between himself and his superiors in Washington over operation of the anti-Communist effort in Vietnam.

In the early part of 1963, he said, the war was "flowing in our favor."

This recalls Felt's prediction in January 1963 that victory over the Communist guerrillas in South Vietnam would come in three years, or early 1966.

Like Harkins and Nolting — as well as a number of other senior military figures including Anderson and Decker — Felt attributed the subsequent setbacks to the chaos flowing from Diem's overthrow.

Former Ambassador Nolting, currently a banker living in Paris, said the "principal error occurred during the last months of the Kennedy Administration" when, he said, some U.S. officials encouraged the ouster of Diem, who was slain by rebellious Vietnamese officers on Nov. 2, 1963.

Some of those U.S. officials "are still in key positions in our government," the former diplomat said. He did not name them.

"President Johnson inherited an extremely grave and deteriorating situation in late 1963," Nolting said. "I think he recognized the blunder that had been made for maneuver by saying so."

In response to questions, the former envoy to South Vietnam expressed "my belief that, had it not been for the overthrow of President Diem, there would never have been the need for the commitment of U.S. combat forces."

Nolting was U.S. ambassador in Saigon from May 1961 to August 1963.

Nolting said he is "not a defeatist about Vietnam."

"Facing the fact that our government was blown off course in 1963 should not weaken our present determination," he said. "On the contrary, it should strengthen it. But we must, I think, draw some lessons from the past—for Vietnam is not likely to be the last challenge of this kind in our generation."

Nolting was replaced by Henry Cabot Lodge only about three months before Diem's over-throw and death. By the time of Nolting's replacement, Diem already was in deep trouble with the Buddhists of his country.

ALIENATED BY METHODS

The Vietnamese president's methods of dealing with the Buddhists and other opponents alienated some top U.S. authorities in Washington.

Lodge resigned in June 1964 to take part in Republican presidential politics that campaign year.

On June 29, Lodge told a news conference:

"I don't see the need for more troops in Vietnam. I think our policy there of relying on the Vietnamese to win with our help is the right policy."

He later returned for a second tour as ambassador.

Gen. Taylor, who had moved from the White House to the chairmanship of the Joint Chiefs in October 1962, was rushed to Saigon as ambassador to replace Lodge in July 1964.

Taylor went to Vietnam, firm in the conviction that U.S. troops should not be committed to the war.

He believed that to do so would amount to a defeat because, in his view, it would put the United States back where the French had been. The French, he felt, had arrayed 400,000 men in Indochina—and still couldn't win over the Vietminh.

In April 1964, a few months earlier, Taylor had said publicly he opposed use of American troops "as the direct means of suppressing the guerrillas."

McNamara saw things essentially the same way. The defense chief said in February that year: "I don't believe that pouring in hundreds of thousands of troops is the solution."

He said, too, that "I simply believe that the war in South Vietnam will be won primarily through Vietnamese effort; it is a Vietnamese war."

While Taylor opposed a U.S. ground troop commitment when he went to Saigon as ambassador in July 1964, he was strongly inclined in favor of retaliatory attacks against North Vietnam in response to any Viet Cong escalation of terrorism in South Vietnam.

He also leaned toward the idea of larger-than-retaliation type bombings of the North as a way of demonstrating the high price the Hanoi regime would have to pay to continue support of the insurgency in the South.

Taylor's outlook on committing U.S. combat forces began to change toward the end of 1964. Three factors contributed to this change, which finally jelled early 1965. They were:

RED STRENGTH INCREASED

1.-Intelligence showed that Communist strength had increased far beyond American and South Vietnamese expectations, South Vietnamese army had diminished-despite U.S. advisers, equipment and 2-meanwhile the effectiveness of the support, and 3-Westmoreland had made a strong case for putting in U.S. troops to protect American bases in South Vietnam.

On Nov. 1, 1964 - just a year after Diem's assassination - the Viet Cong mortared the Bien Hoa air base, killing four Americans, wounding 31 and blowing up six B57 bombers.

From that point on, Taylor recommended bombing the North.

About this time, too, other members of the Joint Chiefs fell in line with LeMay on carrying the war to the North.

They were influenced to a considerable extent by the appearance of more and more North Vietnamese regulars in the South.

The makeup of the Joint Chiefs had changed by this time.

The attack on Bien Hoa intensified the debate at the higher levels of government over whether to escalate the war.

Ball, an unswerving opponent of escalation, submitted a 100 - page memorandum attempting to shoot down the arguments advanced by the activitists in the State and Defense Departments.

About the time of his 1964 resignation, Hilsman forwarded a memo to Johnson, with copies distributed to Rusk, McNamara, the Joint Chiefs and the Central Intelligence Agency.

"In my judgment the major effort had to be to win the population," Hilsman said recently.

"I felt that over-Americanizing the war, using U.S. ground forces, would alienate the population and that over-militarizing the war, bombing the North, would force us to negotiate, which would have brought trouble since the population was not yet sufficiently won over."

Hilsman's memorandum restated his contention that a political approach was the answer, with U.S. military power used to deter the Communist side from escalating.

The memo said:

"In my judgment, significant action against North Vietnam that is taken before we have demonstrated success in our counterinsurgency program will be interpreted by the Communists as an act of desperation and will, therefore, not be effective in persuading the North Vietnamese to cease and desist.

FEAR OF ALARM

"What is worse, I think that premature action will so alarm our friends and allies and a significant segment of domestic opinion that the pressure for neutralization will become formidable."

Hilsman pictured McNamara and Rostow as chief opponents of the Kennedy strategy.

When comment was sought from McNamara, his spokesman gave AP a statement which said:

"Secretary McNamara's position in February 1964 was that the war in Vietnam was a guerrilla war that had to be fought by Vietnamese countering the local Viet Cong guerrillas. He told Congress on Feb. 3, 1964:

"I don't believe we can take on that combat task for them . . . I don't believe we should have our men there to substitute for Vietnamese who are qualified to carry out the task."

"That was the policy of President Kennedy at the time of his death. It was a policy supported by Secretary McNamara not opposed by him.

"The situation changed when North Vietnam introduced combat forces into the war. It was then necessary for the United States to introduce its combat forces to prevent a North Vietnamese-Viet Cong victory.

"Secretary McNamara supported President Johnson's decision to introduce those combat forces."

Rostow, who remained on under Johnson and is a special assistant to the President, declined to be interviewed or to make any statement.

McGeorge Bundy, a top aide to both Kennedy and Johnson, also declined a request for an interview. He is now president of the Ford Foundation, but was recently recalled to government service as a presidential consultant in the Middle East.

The decisive event in changing the character of the war came Feb. 7, 1965, when the Viet Cong mortared the U.S. compound and Camp Holloway at Pleiku in the central highlands of South Vietnam.

U.S. air attacks were launched against North Vietnam within hours. The White House said the action "was in response to provocations ordered and directed by the Hanoi regime." The air war escalated steadily from there.

Labor Leader 'Separation'

Labor leaders in the United States are alarmed at a "separation" process that is going on in labor's ranks. This "separation" is found not only in disagreement among labor chieftains themselves but in the failure of the "working class" in the labor unions to follow the dictates of union officials.

Some of the aspects of the diminishing support among the rank and file of labor union membership have been pointed out by the Wall Street Journal.

Long, New Look

In part, the Wall Street Journal said:

"America's labor union leaders are taking a new, long look in the mirror, and they don't like what they see.

"It's not their own images that bother them but rather the absence of a clear reflection of united support behind them. The looking - glass reveals the distance between labor's leading figures and their constituents.

"Union officials admit much of the membership is failing to follow the leadership on important political, social and economic issues.

"The rank and file, for instance, is holding back on liberalizing Social Security and combatting racial discrimination. The gap between leaders and members has become more apparent in the last few months, union men say."

It was pointed out that last November's rout of Democrats at the polls, weakening labor's political power, touched off a flurry of introspection within the American Federation of Labor - Congress of Industrial Organizations.

One sign of the soul - searching was the post election decision by the Federation's Committee on Political Education to order a poll of union members' attitudes. The findings, though secret in detail, are known to show the gap within the house of labor is wide indeed.

Edicts Not Followed

Failure of union members to follow blindly the edicts of officials is one of the things labor bosses abhor most. These bosses sometimes have revelled in the fact that they could go to political factions and tell these factions if they would grant certain favors to labor the union bosses would guarantee to deliver them so many votes. Having a good union membership doesn't give the labor chieftains the kind of political power they want unless they can guarantee to give the votes of these members — like so many sacks of potatoes — to the candidates from whom they wish to obtain favors.

The poll, which was the broadest measure of rank and file unionists' feelings ever taken, covered thousands of members from about a dozen big unions. It was conducted by the New York polling firm, John F. Kraft, Inc.

Results were so upsetting to labor heads that the one complete copy has remained in the hands of AFL-CIO President George Meany.

"It's still in the safe and may never come out," one AFL - CIO official said. Even some presidents of unions affiliated with the AFL-CIO have complained that they have been unable to look at the findings.

Some officials, aware of at least a part of the poll's results, called the findings "shocking." Another insider said: "It wasn't that the results were so startling. It was just that an outsider, using scientific polling methods, confirmed all our worst fears. It made them hard fact instead of conjecture."

Results Of Poll

Results of the poll showed that labor's traditional legislative goals are far out of line with union members' main interests. Pollsters reported "a very limited interest in unemployment compensation, minimum wage and workmen's compensation benefits," one union staff member said.

The AFL-CIO's No. 1 goal in this session of Congress — boosting Social Security payments — drew more boos than cheers, because of the higher pay roll taxes involved.

Outlawing of state "right-to-work" laws, the goal of last session's big and unsuccessful AFL-CIO drive, "isn't even an issue for most members," another labor strategist said.

Surprise Labor Heads

Surprising to labor chieftains, but not so much so to others, was that rank and file union members has a strongly "conservative" cast. "They are especially concerned with high taxes, especially property taxes," one official stated.

"Crime in the streets" was found to be a big issue too. Anti-Negro overtones accentuated the worry over crime, many union members taking the position that the federal government's lack of concern over crime committed in the name of integration set dangerous patterns. A swing to suburban home - ownership, as revealed by the poll, is prompting uneasiness over the impact of housing integration on property values as property - tax conciousness.

Political findings of the polls were more closely guarded than other results because they were more stunning. They showed almost anyone could beat Lyndon Johnson in 1968, even (Illinois Republican Senator) Charles Percy," said one incredulous union man.

Meredith's Failure

When James Meredith, professional agitator and exhibitionist, ended his recent trek through Mississippi he declared in Canton that the march had been a failure. His admission was surprising, although the failure was an obvious fact.

One reason for Meredith's failure was that he was basing his march on an erroneous premise He claimed the march was for the purpose of ending fear among Negroes but at the end he said he had found fear but had not ended it. The facts were that he did not find fear and that if he had his march would have done nothing to end it.

One assertion made by Meredith was that "If the Negroes ever do overcome fear, the white men has only two choices, to kill them or let them be free." As far as we know, the Negroes are already free and the white man are not killing them and have no desire to do so. If the Negroes are limited in any way by law, we are not aware of that fact.

No crowds welcomed Meredith and his 16 weary supporters as they limped the final 165th mile of the "walk against fear." The town of 9,700 had no more than the usual number of people sauntering on the streets. About 40 Negroes approached slowly as Meredith spoke.

He said that on the entire march he collected a total of $292.64 in small contributions.

A performing bear could have attracted more attention than Meredith received and an itinerate beggar probably could have collected about as much money.

The march by the first Negro to enter the University of Mississippi, under federal armed protection, was a sorry sham. He found neither major resistance nor major support during his march. Neither Negroes nor whites were interested in his wornout exhibition.

Earthquakes in the United States have claimed only 1,500 persons since settlement. Almost half the victims perished in the 1906 San Francisco disaster.

Plans In Vietnam

Port Arthur, Texas

To the Editor:

Upon my recent return to the United States from a sojurn of 18 months in South Vietnam, where have been employed by a large American construction firm, I am surprised at the lack of knowledge currently shown by the American people about the activities, purpose of our military — political and religious commitments and future plans in Vietnam.

The consortium of four large American firms was awarded contracts to build 15 completely modern cities in south Vietnam to offer as bait to induce Buddhists from the north to go south and 'Accept the Christian faith'. This huge civilian and military construction program, the costliest and most gigantic such project ever undertaken, has been under construction for more than four years, and will cost about $100 billions to complete.

Contracts for building these large cities in South Vietnam were awarded to 'Raymond — Morrison & Knudson; Walter Kidde & Co.; J. A. Jones & Co.; and Brown & Root, Houston, Texas, all being financed by American Tax-payer's money.

It was said that the purpose of the GUAM conference was designed to check and evaluate the status, or percentage of completion on the basis of readiness for occupancy of Apartment complexes, as reported by the United States Army Corps of engineers. The War on Poverty and civilian construction in south Vietnam was to be the Topic at the GUAM conference, as released to the Press prior to his departure from the capitol.

Why should our Inspection teams be required to follow 'A Green - line' limited to a narrow strip 5 to 15 miles wide along the Vietnam coast? This system of sealing off and screening operations in the interior has been adopted to keep our Senators and Representatives from contacting and interviewing the more intelligent Buddhist whose testimony might convict Air-Marshall Cao KY of murder and disclose facts which might be of value in bringing this Holy War to an end.

I am still confused about the identity of the real enemy? Viet-Cong; Guerrillas, Communist; of perhaps it is the Buddhist?

Proud Of Sen. Long

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Out of all of the hullabaloo surrounding the censure of the staunch anti - Communist, Senator Dodd, there has emerged this fact of interest to all Louisianians - we have a Senator of whom we can be very proud. I am referring, of course, to Senator Russell Long.

Senator Long, at great personal and political risk, detended Senator Dodd against all comers. He did this for one reason only — Dodd is his friend.

The Pineville News recognized Senator Long's courage in a recent editorial which stated in part: "We thought the 'once-upon - a - time' days had vanished with the knight in shining armor, taking with them that tradition of loyalty to friends and faith in their integrity. That is, we thought it until we saw Russell Long set out to do battle for a man who apparently had the whole world against him because he felt the man was being used."

I am proud that Louisiana has elected such a man to serve in the high office of United States Senator.

Against NCC

Orangeburg, S.C.

To the Editor:

I noted with a great deal of interest the letter to the editor entitled "SBC and NCC." I trust that those concerned Southern Baptists will wake up in time to save the great church that they now have.

The NCC's general secretary in his report to the Seventh General Assembly of the NCC stated, "There has been close collaboration with representatives of the Southern Baptist Convention and the Lutheran Church — Missouri Synod on clinical pastoral education, chaplaincy services, theological education and pastoral care. These churches are also represented by top officials on the Church Executive Development Board.

Southern Baptist schools have repeatedly sponsored speakers who deny the Bible and blaspheme the name of Christ. George Buttrick who is a past Federal Council President lectured at the Louisville Seminary and was the featured speaker at the New Orleans Seminary Pastors' Conference. Duke McCall in his address to the Southern Baptist Press Association and the Executive Secretaries of the state Baptist Convention of Alabama said at Mobile, "we are seeing a great tidal wave coming into our church — a new group of people geared to the idea that Christian unity is more important than our difference."

Southern Baptists, wake up! Don't let your leaders "sell you down the road" to liberalism. Don't let the NCC "speak for you" as they are supposedly doing for 40 million American Protestants, including The Methodist Church of which I was a member. Today however, I am now in the Southern Methodist Church which is true to God and true to the doctrines of John Wesley and is in NO way associated with the NCC or the WCC.

Southern Baptist, you have a choice today. Don't wait until tomorrow, it may be too late. Let your leaders know how you feel about the NCC and urge them to continue in the paths of your forefathers and not down the road to apostasy. "Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you." (II Cor. 6:17)

Ratification Likely For Panama Treaty

ALTHOUGH THE wording of the three treaties between the United States and Panama concerning the future of the Panama Canal is not known and the meaning of that wording will not be explored until hearings are held by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee the belief here is that the treaty will be ratified by the United States Senate.

If the house of Representatives had a vote on the treaties the result probably would be adverse. The temper of the House has been shown on a number of occasions. On February 2, 1960, the House adopted a Resolution by a vote of 381 to 12 that the Panama flag should not fly over the Canal Zone unless a new treaty was signed. President Eisenhower, however, on September 17 of that year ordered the Panama flag to be flown, giving a sort of symbolic sovereignity.

The three treaties which will go before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, possibly late this month, are:

ONE REVISING the 1903 Canal agreement which established United States sovereignity over the 50-mile-long canal and the strip 10 miles wide adjacent to it—5 miles on each side.

One giving the United States the right to build a sea level canal across over the slim isthmus if it desires to do so.

One altering some of the present arrangements for U. S. military bases in Panama for the defense of the canal.

Senator J. William Fulbright, Democrat, Arkansas, Foreign Relations Committee Chairman, after hearing representatives of President Johnson who negotiated the treaties with the representatives of President Robles of Panama, said that the Congressional criticism which greeted the announcement of the treaties, is based on insufficient information as to their content.

ARGUMENTS for the new treaties are that they will improve the relations of the United States not only with Panama but with all Latin America, where there has been criticism that our operation of the canal has been a form of colonialism. Congressional proponents of the treaties also say that unless the pacts are ratified they fear bloody outbreaks such as that in 1964 which resulted in a 3 month severence in diplomatic relations between the United States and Panama.

There is not much doubt that the scrapping of the treaty of 1903 would be a complete reversal of long time isthmian policy. That policy originaly was set out by President Rutherford B. Hayes in a message to Congress on March 8, 1880, asserting that if and when an isthmian canal was constructed it would be under the complete control of the United States.

Under the Hay-Bunna Varilla treaty of 1903 the policy declared by President Hayes was effectuated and the United States accorded complete and exclusive control over the Canal Zone in perpetuity for the construction of the Panama Canal and its permanent maintenance, operation, sanitation and protection. All jurisdiction of the Republic of Panama ceased on exchange of the ratifications of the treaty on February 26, 1904.

UNDER THE TREATY the United States built the 50 - mile-long canal that President Theodore Roosevelt called "a highway of civilization." It lessened the sailing distance for ships between New York and San Francisco by 7,873 nautical miles. It gave an economy to the fever jungle that was Panama.

But Panama quickly wanted more than the $10,000,000 outright we gave it and $250,000 a year rental leading to the charge in Congress that "Panama started gouging before we started digging."

As late as the Coolidge Administration when Panama wanted more say in the Canal management, Secretary of States Charles Evans Hughes wrote:

"It is an absolute futility for the Panamanian Government to expect any Administration, no matter what it was, no President or any Secretary of State at any time, ever to surrender any part of these rights which the United States had acquired under the treaty of 1903."

BUT OVER THE years the United States has made concessions to Panama.

In 1936 with Franklin D. Roosevelt in the White House we gave up the right to intervene in Panama and raised the annual rental to $430,000.

In 1955, in the Eisenhower Administration, Panama asked for ann annual $5,000,000 take. We gave them $1,300,000 yearly and handed over to them $30,000,000 worth of land and installations.

The new pacts are expected to hike the United States payments to Panama to $20,000,000 or more annually.

Congressional sources say that the treaties also will hand over to the Panama government United States facilities worth $600,000,000. Also some Congressional sources say that the U.S. aggregate investment in the Panama Canal in the last 64 years has been $4,889,000,000.

ALLEN and SCOTT

'Squandering' Told In Helicopter Deal

THE ARMY "squandered" more than $5 million on developing a new light-weight helicopter engine at the very time another Army contractor was completing one.

A colonel who had a lot to say in this wasteful transaction admitted under questioning going on hunting parties paid for by the favored company.

These are highlights of a forthcoming report by a House Armed Services subcommittee, headed by Representative Porter Hardy, D-Va. The committee launched an investigation after hearing reports of questionable practices and excessive spending in the production of a new type light observation helicopter (LOH).

The General Accounting Office also probed the matter, and Harold Rubin, associate research director of the agency, was a leading witness in the Hardy committee's inquiry. He testified:

AT THE TIME the Army approved the award of a contract to Continental Aviation and Engineering Corporation for design and development of an alternate engine for the LOH, an engine designed by the Allison Division of General Motors was in an advanced state of development and was scheduled to be ready for production about one year before the Continental engine.

"Continental's efforts in developing the alternate engine the government more than $5 million. On the basis of the examination we have made to date, appears that a dual development program was not warranted because Allison would successfully complete development of an engine which would meet the LOH requirements."

UNSINKABLE CONTRACT — Rubin gave the committee a detailed history of the involved ramifications of this extraordinary backstage affair. He disclosed that:

(1) Despite repeated recommendations by various military authorities that an alternate LOH engine not be developed, a contract for that finally was given Continental; (2) later, that although it was urged this contract be terminated, it was extended four times until the cost mounted to more than $5 million.

Illustrative of this curious favoritism, Rubin cited these instances:

"Responsible officials of the Army and Navy rejected an informal Continental proposal to develop a small, gas-turbine engine to back up and compete with Allison's development program. The Army stated there was no requirement for the proposed engine which could not be met by Allison . . . Based on the discussion, the commanding general recommended that the Chief of Transportation not approve development of an alternate engine.

" (But) a subordinate in the Transportation Office, in an internal memorandum, recommended contracting immediately for a back-up engine . . . Despite Allison's successful completion of the required 50-hour test, efforts were continued to obtain dual development . . . Several months later, Continental was awarded a contract calling for design and development of an engine."

LATER, AN AIR Force evaluation board advised that the Allison engine was at least one year ahead of the Continental, and on the basis of this report the commanding general recommended termination of the latter's contract. But, a few months later, still another review board called for continuance of the program.

That was done, and orders were issued for the purchase of nine additional Continental engines to cost $450,000.

"Subsequently," Rubin told the House subcommittee, "two assistant Army secretaries notified the chief of staff that the Continental engine could not be introduced into production before January 1968, and that its continued development would no longer provide savings from competitive procurement. However, the Army did not cancel its request for procurement of engines for side-by-side testings. As a result, seven more Continental engines were bought."

Concluded Rubin: "The award of a contract to Continental and to increase the contract to approximately $5 million appears questionable in view of the fact that the Allison engine had met test requirements."

PROFITABLE HUNTING — Colonel Alexander Rankin, who wrote the "internal memorandum" urging an immediate Continental contract, was closely questioned by John Reddan, counsel of the Hardy committee.

The Army officer acknowledged his "responsibility" included procurement for the LOH program.

"Did you recommend they go ahead with the parallel development of the Allison and Continental engines?" asked Reddan. Rankin said he did.

"Did you have relations with Continental other than business?" continued Reddan. Again Rankin answered in the affirmative. Reddan asked what they were.

"Well, for many years," said Rankin, "Continental had an annual hunting party in Michigan, and I was a member of that party on occasions."

"Tell us when this started and over what period of time it continued," asked Reddan.

"I think it began around 1957 and continued until 1962 or '63," replied Rankin.

"Have you been there since you have been out of the military service?" continued Reddan. "Have you been invited since them?"

"No, sir," said Rankin.

REPRESENTATIVE Alton Lennon, D-N.C., questioned the propriety of Rankin's accepting the company's hospitality.

"You were a guest of Continental at this hunting lodge at the company's cost," said Lennon. "As I read the list, the other guests consisted of a number of people in the federal government at the requirement and procurement level. Human nature is the same all over the world, isn't it?"

"Yes, I guess it is," said Rankin.

"You know they were motivated by selfish purposes," continued Lennon, "that those contracts would enable them to do a bit more in dealing across the desk. It was recommended that an alternate engine be developed even though there was inadequate justification for that. Also that Continental be the sole selection for this. That was subsequent to your memorandum, wasn't it?"

"Yes, sir," admitted Rankin.

"Who overruled the chief of research and development on all this?" persisted Lennon.

"That would have to be at the level of the chief of staff or secretary of the Army," replied Rankin.

"So we come back to the hunting trip or series of hunting trips," said Lennon. "It gets back to Continental every time, doesn't it?"

"Yes, sir," admitted Rankin.

"It's rather odd, isn't it," observed Lennon, "that after Allison had completed its 150-hour (air) qualifications test, nevertheless, the second phase of Continental's engine was ordered developed at a cost of $2,343,000."

PREDICTIONS — The $600 million military aid provision in President Johnson's $3.126 billion foreign aid budget will be sharply cut by both the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Both are now considering the authorizing legislation, and bipartisan sentiment is strong for slashing military aid. Of the two committees, the Senate cuts will be the steepest. Also virtually certain are tough limitations on more economic aid to Arab and other unfriendly countries . . . The House Education and Labor Committee will bar continuance of the costly Job Corps program in the administration's proposed $2.06 billion anti-poverty budget. Democratic and Republican committeemen view the Job Corps as a costly flop and are Corps as a costly flop and are bent on ditching it. Under the Presidents's budget $295 million is earmarked for continuing the Job Corps.

Sunday Poem

And the Valkyries on their steeds went forth.
There through some battlefield, where men fall fast,
Their horses fetlock-deep in blood, they ride,
And pick the bravest warriors out for death,
Whom they bring back with them at night to Valhalla,
To glad the gods, and feast in Odin's hall . . .

by Matthew Arnold

DID YOU KNOW—Car drivers between the ages of 20 and 25 are twice as likely to get killed in accidents as those between 30 and 50? The death rate is also higher among those who dropped out of high school than among college graduates.

THERE ARE solid reports that the Israeli government is working on a plan to help get Jordan off the hook regarding the captured territory on the West bank of the Jordan river. The proposal, reportedly being made quietly after some of the tension subsides, calls for Israel to give up the territory voluntarily —except for the city of Jerusalem — on the condition that it become an autonomous state under joint Jordanian-Israeli control. For Jordan, the plan would have several advantages, including a partner to share in the economic development of the area. No doubt Syria, which did more of the big talking and less of the fighting in the recent short war, will oppose such a move vigorously.

Whose War Is It Now?

Most Americans who have kept up with any of the facts at all know that United States troops have taken over more and more of the fighting in South Vietnam. But soon they will have statistics, although sorrowful ones, to back them up.

This statistics will be the killed-in-action figures which will belie the argument of some administration defenders that the Saigon government continues to lose more men than the United States.

In 1965, the Army of South Vietnam lost 11,000 dead to the 1,369 for the U.S. In 1966, the ration was 11,000 ARVN lives to 4,729 Americans; in 1967, it appears likely that South Vietnamese casualties will again reach the constant figure of 11,000 (and there is a lot of doubt about their accuracy), whereas American lives are now being lost at a projected annual rate of almost 12,000.

During the bloody fighting from April 30 to June 24 — largely obscured by Middle East and Glassboro headlines — 1,984 U.S. troops died in Vietnam, compared to 1,734 South Vietnamese.

INTERESTING fact: A recent survey showed that one of the hardest of all diseases for many a hard-working doctor to cure is his own melancholy, The survey said the suicide rate among physicians was twice that of the rest of the white male population, and the rate among psychiatrists four times as high.

A SHIFT —Soviet Premier Kosygin reportedly was so impressed by his warm reception at a rural American town that that he told his staff it marked a distinct shift in U.S. attitude toward the Soviet Union. More important, however, than this would be a shift in Soviet attitude toward the United States — for the better.

Financial Gain

A member of the United States Senate — Iowa's Bourke B. Hickenlooper —who learned early in life the value of his name — has admitted without the bat of an eye that use of his name brought financial gain.

"When I was a young boy," he recalled, "I was once sent to the drug store to get an order of asafetidea a remedy which people though could cure colds. I was told to put it on a charge account.

"The clerk asked my name, and I told him 'Hickenlooper.' He looked at me for a moment, then slowly shook his head. 'take it for nothing,' he said. 'I wouldn't even try to spell both asafetida and Hickenlooper for a dime.' "

All Thumbs

The headlines shout that Red China has developed a hydrogen bomb. But they can't eat a hydrogen bomb.

The Middle East, we are constantly reminded, has fabulous oil resources which Europe needs, and upon which we have relied for our requirements in Vietnam. But nobody serves petroleum at the dinner table.

The reality of the world situation in the months immediately ahead is food. Wheat and rice.

Because of drought and habitual mismanagement, the USSR has a drastically reduced wheat harvest. It is going to have to import great tonnages of wheat.

The Arab nations, dependent upon both Moscow and Washington for foodgrains, won't be able to get them from Moscow. And great tonnages are going to be needed.

China's five "breadbasket" provinces have had a disatrous drought. The Red China army has had to take over control of the harvest and the movement of harvested grain to storage centers. Famine is inevitable. Food riots on a scale exceeding anything since 1949 are considered certain. Fantastic amounts of grain will have to be imported.

In India, food riots are threatening to tumble the government already. Emergency shipments of wheat en route from the United States have had to be routed around Africa instead of through the closed Suez Canal. The extra two weeks of shipping time have created a crisis. Additional millions of tons of foodgrains will have to be imported.

In short, at least four massive areas of the world face famine conditions before the end of the calendar year.

There are only five nations which will be in a postition to export foodgrains in quantities sufficient to alleviate these famine conditions: Argentina, Australia, Canada, France and the United States. We have listed the five alphabetically, and not in any order of export capacity France, obviously, will have the least surplus available for export.

The point is that the humanitarian, propaganda and diplomatic leverage of food was never so important in all history as it will be in the months ahead, and throughout 1968, at least.

Yet, in Washington, on June 23, Secretary of Agriculture, Orville L. Freeman, announced a mandatory cut of 13 per cent in the wheat acreage in the United States for next year.

What world can this man possibly be living in?

As a farmer he has ten thumbs; none green.

Soviet Oil Offensive

To our mind the most cogent comment on the Arab-Israeli war has come from Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina. We quote the closing paragraphs of his letter on this subject:

The Soviets doubtless failed to reckon with the speed and daring of Israel's General Moshe Dayan. Events have brought forward little evidence that the Soviets intended to back Egypt with continuing military assistance, in the manner of their support of the Communists in North Vietnam.

"The Soviet grand strategy against the U.S. has been to seek to corner the energy resources of the world. Oil supplies 65 per cent of the energy sources in the developed countries. One-third of the world's oil comes from the Mid-East. At the same time, the Soviet Union has been expanding its own oil-producing capacity at a furious rate. It now produces half as much as the Mid-East alone, most of it being oil designated for export.

"For the past ten years, the Soviets have tried to make Europe dependent upon Soviet oil. Huge pipelines now stretch from Soviet oil fields to Western Europe. All that remains is for the Soviets to parlay Arab hatreds of the West into exclusive oil distribution contracts under Soviet control.

"It is remarkable that the Soviets, so slow to offer Egypt the promised support, had loaded oil tankers enroute to Europe even while the fighting was going on. One contract has been signed already with Spain, and the oil unloaded. Great Britain's economy will receive a severe blow unless supplies from the Mid-East arrive soon; oil shipped from the Western Hemisphere is far more expensive. The Soviets have a good chance of acquiring life-and-death control over the development of Europe.

"The U.S. has been presented with notice to vacate the gigantic Wheelus Air Force Base in Libya, the last American base in northern Africa. Next door is Algeria, the Soviets continue a dangerous arms build-up, including MIG's, light bombers, tanks, troop carriers, self - propelled heavy artillery, SAM missiles, and torpedo boats. Since Algeria's leader, Houari Boumedienne, flew to Moscow 24 hours after the fighting began, another chapter in the Mid-East war may be written soon. The Soviets continue with their drive to make the Mediterranean Sea into a Red Sea."

The World's Week In Focus

DMZ Sector Becomes Bloodiest Battle Ground

By Olin Silk

THERE'S TROUBLE AGAIN IN VIETNAM.

American Marines have been taking a beating below the Demilitarized Zone that separates North from South Vietnam. This, and other problems, prompted the visit of Secretary of Defense McNamara this week-end. It is his ninth.

As before, his return is expected to be followed by an increase in troops.

Just how many, no one can say. General Westmoreland would like to have 200,000 more. The present authorization is for 470,000, which is only 4,000 more than the existing number.

The Johnson Administration shudders at the thought of another increase. Another hike will mean calling up reservists, greatly expanding the defense budget, and will put additional strain on the Vietnamese economy as well as the U. S.-Asian supply line.

The northern provinces where Marines have suffered heavy casualties in recent weeks are under threat of being overrun unless the thinly - spread forces can be strengthened. This will be a major concern of the McNamara - Westmoreland talks. Also 1) pacification 2) the South Vietnamese army and 3) American aid.

U. S. bombers have not been able to silence the heavy artillery, rocket and mortar fire that has been responsible for most of the 8,000 American casualties in the north this year. Dispatches last week described the mountains, rolling hills and flatlands just below the DMZ as Vietnam's bloodiest battleground. Roughly 1,000 Marines have been killed this year in ambushes, pitched battles, artillery barrages, rocket and mortar attacks. About 7,000 have been wounded.

John Wheeler, Associated Press staffer in Saigon, explained the losses this way:

"Because of politics, terrain, and the nature of guerrilla war, the Leathernecks are fighting with severe tactical disadvantages that may get worse as the war goes on."

THE Marines were sent to the border to prevent massive infiltration into South Vietnam by large North Vietnamese regular units. They have not been successful because they have been forced into battle at a time and place picked by the enemy. The fighting around Con Thien last week was a perfect example:

The Marine outpost at Con Thien sits in a boxlike pattern. Lookouts spotted a small enemy force moving south of the border zone. Two Marine companies went out to engage it. The force was bait for a massive ambush.

One Marine company was hit, slashed into three fragments and virtually wiped out. The second also took high casualties.

IN ALL, 58 Americans were killed, 170 wounded, and 27 missing. The 27 proved to be dead, and bait for another enemy trap. When the Marines sought to recover the bodies, the North Vietnamese struck hard again, knocking out two tanks, killing 11 Marines and wounding 17.

The bodies were finally recovered a day later. By that time, the enemy had pulled back to their deep bunkers in the DMZ to plan their next move.

The zone is a tactical dream for the North Vietnamese. Since the area is just over the border, they have a short and solid supply line. The Marines are hundreds of miles from theirs.

The North Vietnamese conceal artillery north of the border, and bombings fail to silence it.

The military believes an offensive could silence the artillery, a la Israel. But the guns are north of the border and political dangers resulting from an American invasion of North Vietnam have precluded such a move.

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, left, held a day - long briefing session with the American military and diplomatic commanders in Saigon Friday. McNamara received reports on the successes and failures on all fronts. Indications were new strategies and more men would be needed and very soon in Vietnam.

THE WAR is not completely one-sided at the border. The Marines have taken a heavy toll of the enemy. But the enemy is changing tactics and using mortar and artillery fire to greater effect. Where they once only lobbed shells at fixed American positions, they now hit moving units, and then adjust their ranges and directions as targets shift.

ON FRIDAY, General Westmoreland remained his optimistic self in talks with McNamara. He said allied forces in Vietnam are winning the war slowly but steadily. Despite the optimism, well-informed sources indicated the conference had a crisis atmosphere.

As for the new pacification program—the latest in an eight-year series — aimed at winning the loyalty of the countryside, no shining light signaled progress. Some 700 pacification workers have been killed or wounded. Whole teams have deserted. Corruption, divisive political maneuvering continue as before. The program, recently placed under military command and thus gaining troops away from critical areas, is clearly sagging.

THE SOUTH Vietnamese Army is still no great shakes as a fighting force despite billions in aid and thousands of American advisers. The soldiers simply have not been built into an effective, aggressive, dedicated military machine. They fight less and less and apparently enjoy it more and more. This is one of the most sugar-coated pills of the war. It is expected that McNamara will seek ways to get them into more showdown engagements with the enemy.

American aid continues to fatten the pockets and stomachs of practically everyone but the peasantry. Reports last week claimed only a small portion of the annual $770 million flowing into the aid program will reach the peasants whose loyalty is considered the key to victory or defeat in Vietnam.

THERE'S LITTLE wonder that a Marine wryly declared last week to a newsman, "This isn't much of a war. But it's the only one we've got."

Domestic Potpourri

There were no crises on the domestic front last week. Merely interesting developments.

As Republican governors bit their nails over the possibility of a bitter struggle for the GOP nomination, Democratic governors met in St. Louis with President Johnson. All but two emerged from a closed caucus before he arrived to announce their support for his domestic and foreign policies, and his re-election bid.

The dissenters were Governors John McKeithen of Louisiana and Lester Maddox of Georgia. McKeithen said he was not prepared to commit himself to any presidential candidate. Maddox said he will not bolt the Democratic party in 1968 even if he decides not to back Johnson.

THE MEETING was in sharp contrast to one held in December following the Republican resurgence. Then, governors blasted the White House for lack of contact with them.

The new "spirit of St. Louis" was music to Johnson's ears and he said so.

In New Hampshire, Governor George Romney tested local sentiment. He faces former Vice President Nixon there in the March primary.

California Gov. Ronald Reagan, meanwhile, pleaded with voters for help in a fiscal war against the Democratic legislature. A tax increase needed to finance Reagan's budget was being delayed. The ex-movie star smelled a trap: a bare-bones tax bill that would force him to ask for another increase during 1968, an election year.

The Democrats were taking their time in passing a tax bill to meet a budget deficit of at least $600 million. Reagan is asking for a record $1 billion tax hike so he can also pay off a $197 million cash debt left over from the previous Democratic administration. He also wants to provide more school aid.

IN WASHINGTON, D.C., the superintendent of schools, Carl Hansen, announced his resignation from the $26,000 a year post. His decision followed a vote by the District of Columbia Board of Education not to allow him to appeal a decision handed down last month by U.S. Circuit Judge J. Skelly Wright.

Wright ordered busing of pupils to end de facto segregation, or racial imbalance, in the schools. He also struck down the aptitude placement system which put brighter students in higher "tracks," and ordered integration of faculties.

Hansen accused the nine-member board — only recently Negroes gained a 5-4 majority — of depriving him of a civil right by denying him the right to appeal to the Supreme Court. He said his would-be appeal hinged on two points: the threat to local management of the public schools inherent in the court opinion, and upon uncertainties in the declaration concerning de facto segregation.

NINE OUT of 10 Washington public school pupils are Negroes. Busing them to other schools to achieve racial balance will apparently mean shuttling them into Maryland and Virginia suburbs.

Wright did not rule that neighborhood schools were unconstitutional as such, but were clearly discriminatory in the case of Washington. This was apparent he said in the teaching, general education, and money spent per pupil.

THE NAVY has discharged 28 sailors so far this year for taking LSD "trips." The hallucinatory drug was banned recently under a new Navy regulation.

The "freedom of information" law went into effect, but nobody was leading a cheering section. Although it will make it easier for people to see records, one official said "no muckraker's paradise" would blossom as a result. Many of the provisions are ambiguous and will spawn litigation. The law represents a 10-year effort.

American Telephone and Telegraph was ordered to cut interstate and foreign service profits. The Federal Communications Commission said that AT&T — which operates the nationwide Bell System — can't earn more than 7.5 per cent on its investment, compared with current earnings of about 8 per cent. The FCC decision climaxed an exhaustive, 20-month investigation of AT&T's financial structure.

Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, a mecca for college students each 4th of July holiday, was turned into a nightmare as police confronted thousands on a beer-happy rampage. Youths stoned the police station, broke windows in buildings and cars, and tore down parking meters. At one time, 5,000 milled through the streets. About 300 were arrested. Disorder broke out after a curfew was imposed in the resort area. Finally, police ordered them off the streets and out of town in one hour. They set up roadblocks to prevent them from coming back. Residents of Lake Geneva (population 5,000) said destruction this year was the worst ever. The town, located between Chicago and Milwaukee, has been a popular spot with students for 10 years.

ON THE labor scene, General Motors served notice that it will fight guaranteed annual income, a pet demand of United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther. GM released a report detailing some income guarantees already given to UAW - represented GM workers. Executives of the largest American automaker scoffed at Reuther's scheme to pay people for not working.

One said, "If a guy can draw his pay even if he isn't working, who would work? I wouldn't."

REUTHER contends a worker must know at the start of the year what his base pay will be for the next 12 months — and that the worker must draw his pay even if laid off. GM's answer to this is that they can't guarantee anybody's income until "somebody can guarantee us a market."

Russians Squelched

THE RUSSIANS lost in the Arabian desert. And they lost again last week in the United Nations.

The 122-nation assembly defeated four resolutions Tuesday calling for Israel to withdraw its troops from land occupied in Egypt, Syria, and Jordan during the June war.

The assembly, however, overwhelmingly approved a resolution calling for Israel to rescind its annexation of the Old City of Jerusalem and a Swedish proposal appealing for aid for Arab refugees and other victims of the war.

Israel defied the U.N., saying it would not give up annexation.

Abba Eban, silver tongued Foreign Minister of Israel, said the squelching of all four resolutions was "a complete vindication of the Israeli view. Every resolution for withdrawal without peace was rejected very substantially."

It was not a good week for the United Nations. Not a single resolution was adopted bearing on the six-day Middle East war.

ONE UNITED Nations newsman said this: "If the Arabs felt the Russians let them down by failing to send them military aid during the war with Israel, they must have felt similar frustration when Moscow proved unable to muster any action in the assembly."

Russia wanted Israeli withdrawal, condemnation as the aggressor, and payment of reparations. In the end, both Russia and her Arab friends would have settled for withdrawal, but were even unable to get that.

ASSEMBLY PRESIDENT adjourned the world forum until next Wednesday when he hopes to "bring about something that we might be able to refer to as a fruitful result."

Meantime, Israel was having an internal problem. General Moshe Dayan assumed more and more of a political stance as he spoke out on matters beyond his authority. The blowup came when he told newsmen he thought the Gaza Strip should be an integral part of Israel. The Israel delegation at the U.N. disavowed the statement. So did the defense ministry. One opponent of Dayan said, "He already acts and speaks as if he were prime minister." There was no doubt the hero of the desert blitz had the job in mind.

Egypt was in the throes of economic despair. President Nasser remained in seclusion. The Egyptian officer corps took to wearing street clothes home from military bases. They did so to avoid scorn heaped upon them by civilians. Officers have been the target of jeers and uncomplimentary remarks because of their poor showing against the Israeli. Latest figures indicated that Egypt and Jordan alone lost more than 15 times as many killed or missing as Israel.

The Week's Twin Cities-Area News In Review

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

The skyrockets fired Tuesday by the Monroe Jaycees for the Fourth of July were impressive, but far from the week's only pyrotechnics.

Whistles and bangs of their own in a Yankee Doodle Dandy display of another kind were supplied by top news stories on beauty pageants, post offices, bond issues, sales taxes, dedications and industrial developments.

TYLER

There was even an Iguana thrown in for good measure as, from the first of the week to the last, events in the Twin City area stepped to a rousing Independence Day march.

The pace to come was obvious last weekend. On successive nights, a new Miss Louisiana was crowned, capping a four-day, Jaycee-sponsored pageant aimed at the Miss America finals in Atlantic City, and the Monroe Civic Center dedicated its $100,000 Symphonic Color-Fall.

Ahead at the center is grand opening Labor Day weekend. Tickets already have gone on sale for a three-show series of touring Broadway hits, with ducats in preparation for Holiday on Ice, the premiere production due for the center's arena.

An announcement is expected this week on the coming appearance of a major entertainment personality who will headline the center theater's first attraction.

THERE SHE IS

So Sunday was a big day. But should the preceding Saturday take a back seat? Hardly, since it and part of Sunday, as well, belonged to a new Miss Louisiana on the local, state and national news pages.

Winner after four highly-charged and nerve-shattering days of competition against a large field was Miss Genevieve Del Gallo of New Orleans. The radiant Creole country entry, also the pageant's grand talent winner, claimed both a $1,000 and a $100 scholarship, a $1,000 wardrobe, new luggage and the use a new car for a year.

The presentations were made at brunch Sunday, along with scholarships to the show's most glamorous also-rans: first runnerup, Debbie Swartz, Louisiana Watermelon Queen; second runnerup, Becky Butler, Miss Northeast Louisiana State College; third runnerup, Linda Leoty, Miss Northeast Louisiana Stock Show; and fourth runnerup, Donna Lynn Barnes, Miss Franklin Parish.

Tuesday being the Fourth, the fireworks, as stated, were literal ones as the Jaycees helped locals commemorate the nation's 191st birthday in a traditionstudded and highly successful way. Crowds which turned out for the festivities were estimated to number 8,000 persons.

Then the figurative fireworks resumed. Scheduled by the calendar to meet on the holiday, the Ouachita Parish School Board gathered Thursday night instead and made formal their liking for an idea deliberated unofficially before.

The board, in common with others in the Fifth District, left holding a dwindling purse by the defeat June 10 of a one-cent sales tax for educational, parish and municipal uses, favored a half-cent sales levy in Ouachita for education only. Acting behind its finance committee, the board proposed an election on the tax for Aug. 22 or, alternatively, Aug. 29, then turned to watch the Monroe City School Board, which was meeting Friday morning.

The local option tax law on which their proposal was based requires concurrent resolutions by both school boards in the three Louisiana parishes where dual systems exist, making the Monroe board's action critical. There was none forthcoming, however, and obviously, unless minds are changed, the parish's suggested election dates will wander in limbo.

The tax wasn't discussed in formal session, but officials confirmed to the press apparent reasons for the city board's reluctance. President W. S. Gannaway, inclined to favor such a tax and emphasizing the need for money from some source, called a step now "premature," while adding that one might be expected around September. Members, recalling that the system's teachers never formally backed the defeated tax, also want an expression from them and other employes.

Both board meetings contained items of interest too numerous to cover in this format, but, briefly, the officials shared the complexities of starting school in the fall under full desegragation court orders. Mind-taxing at the moment appears to be the discussions of teacher assignment.

Also briefly, the parish board rejected 9-8 its state authorization to boost individual member's pay-per-regular-meeting from $30 to $40. The city board was concerning itself with filling the seat of resigned member Billy Hargiss who, this month, moves to Dumas, Ark. A list of three nominees — one of whom will be selected for the post by Gov. John McKeithen — was under preparation Friday and it is not unlikely that something concrete resulted this weekend.

WEST SIDE MOVING

Coincidentally or not, after a recent water shortage scare, West Monroe apparently was firmly on the speedway with plans to improve and expand its system, simultaneous with, following years of floundering, construction of a sewage treatment plant.

Mayor Bert Hatten capped long months of preparation Friday with announcement of his naming of a 38-member citizens' advisory committee, similar in purpose, at least, to such a group now defunct these three or more years. After elucidation on the city's plans at a meeting next Thursday evening, the committee will be asked to use its good offices in telling the public of the need for the improvements.

A bond issue, probably in the multi-million-dollar range, will be required to fund the needed work, but Hatten has a strong case evidently. In water storage alone, the city's capacity of three million gallons would be hiked by 50 per cent. The pressure on the city, meanwhile, from state and national health authorities to end the dumping of raw sewage into the Ouachita River is a frequently and, from Hatten's point of view, painfully-documented fact.

The West Monroe mayor, in the interim, continued a struggle, it appeared, with might and main to trim any remaining fat from operating procedures. Having just received a requested pay cut, he instituted a new program of centralized purchasing which will route all requisitions through the mayor's office. Bids, reportedly, on every item the city uses have been taken in year's-supply quantities.

BIG BUILDING

Big building, meantime, was reported underway or in prospect locally and in the area. Heading the news in this field of inquiry was fresh word from the Fifth District's U.S. Rep. Otto E. Passman on Monroe's new $1-million post office building.

Confirmation of an okay for its construction, of course, was released last fall, but Passman last week announced Post Office Department approval of a site. The 35,000-square-foot structure will be located on an approximately 20,000-square-foot lot on the northwest corner of the U.S. 165 — Armand Street intersection. In other words, the two-story facility will be about three blocks north of the Louisville Avenue and Sterlington Road juncture.

Construction, the representative said, will be "expedited," with federal funds underwriting the whole procedure. However, the low-bidding contractor, in a "free enterprise" undertaking, will reimburse the government later, then grant a long-term lease to Uncle Sam. The idea is to get the property on local, parish and state tax rolls, as well as provide for insurance by agents in the private sector.

Highway builders also were active last week, led by the awarding of a $208,645 contract to the Pamper Corporation of Crowville for rebuilding of Thomas Road from the Interstate-20 Interchange to U.S. 80 — a distance of approximately one-half mile. Work kicked off Wednesday with the windup due in four and one-half months.

Major building, at the same time, was reported underway throughout the town of Jonesboro. A new 18,000-square-foot store was among the work, along with a new air-conditioned 1,020-seat auditorium at Jonesboro-Hodge High School and remodeling at Jonesboro Elementary. Further work was listed as progressing in the remodeling of Jackson Parish's courthouse and jail building.

Meanwhile, a five-man Caddo Parish delegation, in Ouachita Parish and Monroe on Thursday for a day-long tour of incraceration facilities, was readying construction recommendations for presentation to the Caddo Police Jury in four to six months. Caddo, probably through a bond issue, soon will move, enlarge and improve its penal farm, while building an entirely new jail, delegation members said. Tour leader T. W. Humphries, Ouachita Police Jury president, and other received high praise for continement plans Caddo hopes to imitate.

OUT OF ORDINARY

At least two items from the pages of last week's papers were well out of the ordinary. That is to say, they won't happen again in a month of Sunday reviews.

Leonard Pratt, a Bastrop insurance agency owner, late Tuesday was the unknowing object of a search by some 300 men around Talladega, Ala., where his plane, obviously mistakenly, was believed to have crashed. The first Pratt knew of the search — an unsuccessful one, by the way — was when he called his secretary late Wednesday from Yazoo City, Miss., to say he would reach Bastrop Thursday. The Bastrop man was flying from Macon, Ga., to Alexander City, Ala. in that leg of his return home. Just north, a plane believed Pratts started its runway approach at Talladega, turned sharply and disappeared into a nearby wooded area.

Wooded areas figured prominently in the other story of reference, which one national wire service called "The Day of the Iguana." Its theatrical paraphrasing dealt with the finding and subsequent investigation near Farmerville of a four and one-half foot female iguana — a critter normally found in Central and South America, but never before in the waters of D'Arbonne Lake.

A will-'o-the-wisp with a reputation to match, the whip-tailed reptile had been reported sighted by fishermen over a period of approximately two years. While pulling of the iguana from D'Arbonne provided dead but solid evidence of the veracity of a number of suspected fish stories, rumors continued to flourish. Some said more than one had been seen. The body went to a lab at Northeast Louisiana State College, but by Friday the possibility of a hoax had not been ruled out.

War Sorrows Come To Quiet Town In U.S. Heartland

Like ever-expanding ripples, the war in Vietnam enters more and more American homes. In the big cities, death may go without wide notice. But it is in the small towns in the heartland of America, that Vietnam becomes an all-encompassing thing when the young men die. One such town is Ontonagon, Mich., where everyone knows one another, and tragedy is shared by all.

By JOHN BARBOUR

ONTONAGON, Mich. (AP) — This is a town where children grow lean in winter woods and build campfires on the Lake Superior shore, where people know each other's names, lock doors only when they leave and where the weekly newspaper prints personal notes of visitors on the front page. It is a town with open hearts.

So on a cold night in April Vietnam came to Ontonagon with brutal suddenness. A message was made two years ago. Sound knocked softly on two doors. The words were brief, the news new.

It had happened the day before on the other side of the world. In one month the nation's military fatalities rose. Two young men, Ernest Mark Skinner III and William Lundberg Jr.

ON A LONG LIST

Their names were on the long list of casualties issued in Washington that day, but a list is just a list. It is the town in which people make the decisions of everyday living that gives names to numbers and faces to statistics.

Ernie and Billy were a popular pair of people in Ontonagon, a community of 2,500 people set on the edge of a wilderness. Ernie was the son of a lumber company executive. Billy's father was a retired Army sergeant who had been stationed at Fort Custer near Battle Creek.

Ernie was a tall, rangy youth with a ready smile and a quick mind. He was a good student, a fine athlete and a leader among his friends.

Billy was a year behind Ernie in school. He was quiet, always ready to help a friend. He didn't say much. He wasn't full of wisecracks. He didn't hang around groups of boys. He was always just Billy.

A Small School Produces Heroes

Small towns know each other's business. They know each other's joys and sorrows. They know each other's children. Ernie was born in 1944. Billy came here in 1954.

Ernie was a big man on the high school football team. Billy was a cheerleader. Ernie was a member of the student council. Billy was a member of the Pep Club.

Ernie was a leader. Billy was a follower. It was not that Billy lacked confidence. He was simply content to be Billy. He was a good student. He was popular with girls and boys alike.

Ernie was a good student, too, but he was more outgoing. He was a natural leader. He was president of his class in his junior year. He was a member of the Key Club, a service group. He was a member of the Ski Club. He was a member of the Letterman's Club.

He was a member of the Methodist Church. He was a member of the Methodist Youth Fellowship. He was a member of the choir. He was a member of the Kindergarten Mothers Club.

She and her husband who died in 1959 had one ambition, to see Ernie and his youngest sister, Sara, graduate from high school. Mrs. Noble and Sara still live in the white frame home west of town, where Ernie grew up. Sara's husband, Tom, was brought home from duty in Thailand for Ernie's funeral.

Ernie worked at various high school jobs. Wagner's Restaurant, then at the Lee Theatre, where owner Henry Hoist gave members his freedom and his confidence and his hard work.

He had especially had faith in Billy because he worried what he was and knew what he was like. Sometimes Ernie suggested at the check-out counter: And when you have two boys from a town as small as this — that's success.

At the local chapter of the United Brotherhood of Pipefitters & Pipeworkers Union, where Billy belonged, they called the chapter in Dallas. And they remembered Billy. His seriousness. And how he was trying to be a success. And how he was thought he would be when he grew up.

Billy's mother, Mrs. Robert Lundberg, said Billy spoke of Ernie often. She has Billy's younger brother and sister, Freddie and Nora, at home as well as two children from her present marriage. Billy's sister Linda was in town at last weekend, coming to Monroe Mariner's Day at home in Iowa where she made people smile. Billy had a part-time job at Lee Theatre. They called him Super Bill. He was 20.

The Rev. Father J. Wenzel, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church where Billy attended services, recalled the boy.

"Billy was quiet. He was a boy who did his work and did it well. He was a good boy. He was a fine boy. He was a boy who was going places. He was a boy who would have made a fine citizen. He was a boy who would have made a fine husband and father. He was a boy who would have made a fine man. He was a boy who would have made a fine contribution to his community. He was a boy who would have made a fine contribution to his country. He was a boy who would have made a fine contribution to his church. He was a boy who would have made a fine contribution to his family. He was a boy who would have made a fine contribution to his friends. He was a boy who would have made a fine contribution to his neighbors

THE ASSOCIATED Press average of 60 stocks made its first weekly gain in three weeks when it closed today at 327.2 from 323.0 a week ago. The Dow Jones averages of 30 industrials closed today at 869.05, a gain from 860.26 a week ago. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Good Advance Shown By Financial Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's first week of the last half of 1967 began with a pretty good advance, breaking off a sequence of two straight weekly declines.

The recovery was carried out despite weakness in American Telephone due to unfavorable news and a holiday week in which there were only three normal trading days.

The markets were closed Tuesday, July 4, and Monday was a session in which semi-holiday conditions prevailed.

Wednesday and Friday were strong market days, punctuated by Thursday when the trend was irregular.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 8.79 points to 869.05, recovering about a third of the 24.74 points it lost in the preceding two weeks.

Volume for the four-day trading week was 36,811,210 shares compared with 44,940,110 for the full five days of the previous week.

Of 1,577 issues traded, 968 rose and 447 fell.

The advance was accounted for by normal reinvestment demand following the profit-taking and switching that occurred as the half year ended.

The market was able to rise despite a real body blow in the form of news that AT&T must trim its rate of return on interstate business to a maximum of 7½ per cent, meaning an annual revenue slash of some $120 million.

AT&T common stock fell to a new low for the year and took a net loss of 3¼ as the week's most-active stock. This meant a big paper loss to 3 million shareholders, the largest corporate family in the world.

Analysts looked with favor on the market's ability to advance despite this handicap.

Woolworth rose 2, Pan American World Airways 1⅝, Eastern Air Lines 7⅜ and American Machine & Foundry 2⅝.

Treasury bond prices showed their first gains in any week since June with advances of up to a point.

New issues of corporate bonds sold well with yields declining about 10 basis points, according to Salomon Brothers & Hutzler, a leading Wall Street investment firm.

Prices were up on new corporate bonds by ¾ to 1½ points.

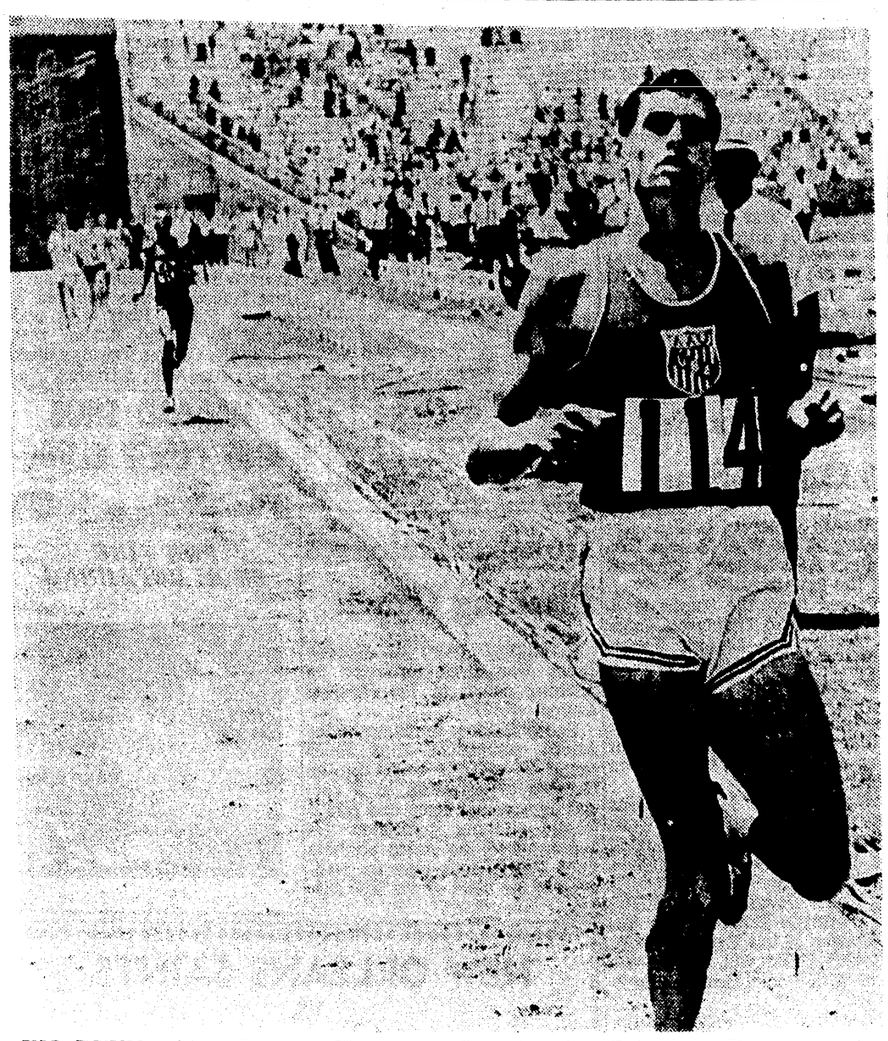
Causey's Sacrifice Drops Twins, 1-0



JIM RYUN whips Kenya's Kipchoge Keino by nearly 25 yards as he shatters the seven-year-old record for 1500 meters during the United States-British Commonwealth track and field meet in Los Angeles Saturday. Ryun ran the metric mile in 3:33.1, beating the old world record held by Australia's Herb Elliott of 3:35.6. (AP Wirephoto)

John Limits Minnesota To Only Three Singles

CHICAGO (AP) — Tommy John pitched a brilliant three-hitter and Wayne Causey's ninth inning sacrifice fly drove in the only run of the game as the Chicago White Sox blanked Minnesota 1-0 Saturday.

John Allowed only three singles by Tony Oliva—two of them bloops—and hurled his fifth shutout of the season, raising his record to 8-5. He struck out four and walked two.

Causey's sacrifice fly pushed the winning run across against loser Jim Merritt, who dropped his first game after six victories.

Rooke Dick Kenworthy opened the ninth with a double. Jim Stewart ran for Kenworthy and Merritt walked Ken Berry intentionally. Ron Hansen moved the runners along with a sacrifice and then Charlie Bradford was intentionally walked, loading the bases.

Then Causey, a native of Monroe, La., flied to Ted Uhlaender and Stewart raced home after the catch.

John was in trouble only twice. He walked Harmon Killebrew with one out in the seventh and Oliva's second hit dropped in front of Berry. Then Bob Allison walked, loading the bases.

But John got Richie Rollins on a fly ball.

In the ninth, with two out, Killebrew walked and Oliva lined his third hit of the day. But John got Allison to bounce into a forceout.

It was the second straight one-run, ninth inning victory for the first place White Sox over the Twins, who brought an eight-game winning streak into Chicago Friday night.

Panthers Open Drills Monday

The Twin City Panthers, member of the Southern Football League which begins play for the first time this year, opens its summer football drills Monday night at St. Frederick High School practice field.

According to Cecil Pirkey, the Panthers' head coach, all players from last year are expected to be at this workout and any other persons wanting to play are urged to attend the workout.

The Panthers open a three - game exhibition slate August 19 against the Shreveport Trojans in the State Fair Stadium. On Aug. 27, they travel to Gonzales to meet the Hammond Eagles with a bout against the Texarkana Titans in Texarkana set Sept. 2.

The first home game will be Sept. 30 against Lake Charles.

According to Pirkey, the late home start has in hopes of attaining Northeast State College Stadium for home games, but now have been turned down. He said the Panthers are still trying to locate a high school stadium to play in or possibly return to Saul Adler Memorial Stadium in Bernstein Park, which is a baseball stadium

The complete schedule:

Sept. 16	New Roads	Away
Sept. 30	Lake Charles	Home
Oct. 7	Shreveport	Away
Oct. 14	Texarkana	Away
Oct. 21	Hammond	Away
Oct. 28	Texarkana	Home
Nov. 4	Shreveport	Home
Nov. 18	Pas Point	Home.

Champs Back For Shot At Second Titles

Teri Arthur and Padg Bolton, defending champions in the 18 and under divisions for boys and girls, respectively, last year, will be back to for another shot at their titles in the third annual Monroe Invitational Tennis Tournament Friday through Sunday.

Entry deadline for the tournament is 5 p.m. Thursday, with entries taken at the Monroe Chamber of Commerce or by Mrs. Charlotte Bolton, tournament director, at 325-0046.

An added division which has drawn plenty of enthusiasm already is the men's singles and doubles. Already entered are Dr. William Hardcastle, a former member of the Tulane tennis team; Sargent Sam Cook, men's singles champion from Fort Polk; two former members of the Northeast tennis team, Richard Campbell and Henry Reno; and Dr. Paul Steel.

SPTS 3-3 BILLIE JEAN

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Billie Jean King established herself as the world's No. 1 woman tennis player in sweeping to three titles Saturday in the Wimbledon Championships.

The bouncy, 23-year-old Long Beach, Calif., housewife first crushed Britain's veteran Ann Haydon Jones 6-3, 6-4 for the women's singles title—her second in succession—and then shared the women's doubles and mixed doubles crowns in a feat last achieved 16 years ago.

The last player to score Wimbledon's rare triple was Doris Hart of the U.S. in 1951.

Billie Jean and 18-year-old Rosemary Casals of San Francisco scored a comeback 9-11, 6-4, 6-2 triumph over defending champions Maria Bueno of Brazil and Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., in women's doubles.

In the final match of a long, exhausting day the bespectacled Californian paired with Australia's Owen Davidson in beating Miss Bueno and Ken Fletcher of Australia 7-5, 6-2 for the mixed doubles crown.

Mrs. King's three finals kept her on the center court for a total of more than 3½ hours—and she was as jaunty at the end as at the beginning.

In the next-to-last game of the mixed doubles she won her service game to love, hitting a clear ace and two find volleys.

A packed gallery of 17,000 gave the American girl a standing ovation.

In the men's doubles final, South Africans Bob Hewitt and Frew McMillan scored an upset over favored Roy Emerson and Fletcher of Australia 6-2, 6-3, 6-4. John Newcombe of Australia won the men's singles title Friday.

It was Mrs. King's unrelenting net attack that cut down the seasoned, 28-year-old Mrs. Jones, a left-hander, and it was the Californian's ability to score key points that decided the women's doubles and mixed doubles.

The women's singles final, first on the program lasted only 60 minutes.

The result was inevitable from the second game of the opening set, when Billie Jean's volleying settled down into its punchy groove. The top-ranked American made errors and she never was able to impose much authority on her service. But she was streets ahead of the British girl, who prefers the slower pace of clay courts, in mobility and penetration.

Billie Jean nearly dropped service on the opening game, a probing operation pure and simple, but from then on she was firmly in control and only her lack of penetration in service saved the match from becoming a rout.

Altogether during the match Billie Jean double-faulted five times, and at least a dozen times the British girl had chances of breaking her. But the mark of a champion is her ability to raise her game at the crucial moments, and each time Billie Jean did just that.

The capacity center court crowd, frantically hopeing for a British victory to cheer a dull and windy day, had little to enthuse about. Billie Jean won because she moved about court quicker, got to the net sooner, volleyed more crisply, and lobbed more accurately.

Mrs. Jones, striving for the openings like a chess player, fought doggedly but without inspiration and was too often caught out of position when Billie Jean suddenly popped up at the net to punch away intended passing shots.

The British girl, who beat Rosemary Casals of San Francisco in the semifinal by getting to net first and forcing the errors, tried the same tactics in the early stages but found little Billie Jean much too quick for her and much too accurate with her lobbing.

Angels Defeat KC With Rally

ANAHEIM (AP) — Don Mincher tripled home three runs and Jimmy Hall followed with a two-run homer as California rallied for five runs in the fifth inning and overcame Kansas City 5-3 Saturday night for the Angels' 24th victory in 32 games.

Loser Jim Nash had struck out nine and held a 3-0 lead entering the fifth before the Angels jumped on him. With one out, reliever Clyde Wright, who blanked the A's on one hit the last 6 1-2 innings for the victory, ignited the rally with the first of his two doubles.

After another strike out, Nash walked Roger Repoz and Jim Fregosi beat out an infield hhit. Mincher followed with hhis trippl to tie the game and Hall hit hhis 11th homer.

Wright, 3-2, got the victory, the fifth straight for the Angels, who moved into fourth place in the American League.

Ryun Clips 1,500-Meter Mark In States-Commonwealth Meet

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sensational Jim Ryun smashed the world record for the 1,500-meter run Saturday by 2½ seconds as he ran the metric mile in 3 minutes, 33.1 seconds in the United States-British Commonwealth Track and Field Meet.

The 19-year-old University of Kansas sophomore, already holder of the world record for the mile at 3:51.1, whipped Kenya's Kipchoge Keino by nearly 25 yards with a tremendous finishing kick.

Ryun smashed the 3:35.6 world record set by Australian Herb Elliott in the 1960 Olympics.

Ryun's lap times were 60.9, 1:57.5 and 2:55. He took the lead from Keino on the final lap. After the first lap when Canada's Dave Bailey set the pace with Keino and Ryun at the rear of the six-man group, the race became a two-man affair.

Keino set a fast pace trying to wear out Ryun, but the Kansan stayed right with him. When Ryun made his big move, he drew quickly away. Keino finished in 3:37.3 with Alan Simpson of England third in 3:41.7 and Bailey next at 3:43.6.

"My plan was just to follow Keino," said Ryun. "I felt quite confident after the half mile, and thought that I would win. When I moved, I felt very strong. I felt a little sick after the race from the heat."

Statisticians figured the 1,500-meter time is the equivalent of a 3:48.5 for a mile, 120 yards longer.

The United States 400-meter relay team of Earl McCullouch, Jerry Bright, Ron Copeland and Jim Hines equalled the listed world record of 39.0 seconds before a crowd of 23,786.

Madeline Manning lowered her American record to 2:01.6 as the American girls' team showed more strength than expected in this international event at the Los Angeles Coliseum and led 59-58 at the end of the opening day's events in this two-day meet.

Paul Wilson won the pole vault at 17-5 but missed while trying to boost his world record to 17-9.

Lennox Miller of Jamaica, who attends the University of Southern California, grabbed the initial first place for the Commonwealth with a 10.1 timing in the 100-meter dash, a race marred by false starts. Both Hines and Willie Turner were ruled out for jumping the gun twice.

Kenya's Naftali Temu made a runaway of the 10,000 meters as he won in 29:01.8, more than a half minute faster than his nearest competitor, Van Nelson of St. Cloud, Minn., who was timed in 29:36.0.

The special decathlon competition lost its top attraction when West Germany's Kurt Bendlin, who set a world record this year, was scratched because of a muscle injury. Then former record holder Russ Hodge of the United States was hurt long jumping.

McLain's 4-Hitter Bests Sox

DETROIT (AP) — Denny McLain fired a four-hitter and set up Detroit's first run with a key single as the Detroit Tigers blanked the Boston Red Sox 2-0 Saturday.

It was the sixth straight victory for the second place Tigers. Boston has dropped four in a row.

The Tigers bunched two of their five hits and pushed across an unearned run off Lee Stange in the third.

Rico Petrocelli booted Ray Oyler's grounder with one out. McLain singled and Lenny Green followed with a base hit, pushing Oyler around.

McLain, who won his 10th game, was in trouble only in the fourth inning when Carl Yastrzemski opened with a double and moved to third on Tony Conigliaro's long fly. McLain struck out George Scott, walked Petrocelli and then got Reggie Smith, ending the inning.

Spurrier Pass Paces East To 12-9 Comeback Win

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Steve Spurrier, the Heisman Trophy winner from Florida, saved the day for the favored East with a 40-yard touchdown pass to Michigan State's Gene Washington Saturday night in a 12-9 victory over the stubborn West in the Coaches All-America football game.

Spurrier fans in the crowd of 29,145 at Atlanta Stadium had little to cheer about early in the game when John Brittenum of Arkansas completely overshadowed Spurrier and Purdue's Bob Griese. In fact, Brittenum, a scrambling quarterback, was voted the most valuable player in the game.

Suddenly Spurrier found his targets in the battle, and struck with two quick passes for 53 yards, a 13-yard gainer to Tom Francisco of Virginia Tech and then the 40-yard winner to Washington with only 3:24 to play.

Brittenum tried gamely to pull it out in the final seconds but he was smothered by Michigan State's George Webster on a fourth down play and had to give up the ball deep in his own territory.

The 6-foot, 190-pound Arkansas quarterback completed five passes in a 75-yard scoring drive after the West received the opening kickoff. Mel Farr of UCLA climaxed the drive by smashing home from the two but the conversion attempt by Nebraska's Larry Wachholtz was wide.

Nursing a 6-5 lead in the third period, Brittenum hit with five more passes to move the West within range with a 25-yard field goal by Wachholtz.

The East's first score came on a brak when a Spurrier pass was intercepted by Bob Howard of San Diego State on the West two, and he was forced into the end zone for a safety when tackled by Washington.

The officials ruled the interception had been made in the field of play, and the defender then had been driven back into the end zone.

Griese, the Big Ten whiz, booted a 29-yard field goal early in the second period after a drive that had been helped by penalties against the West for pass interference and grabbing a face mask.

Brittenum completed 21 of 40 passes for 244 yards in a superior effort that is sure to earn him a warm welcome from Coach George Wilson of the Miami Dolphins when he reports to the American Football League team for preseason practice.

Despite Spurrier's game-winning show, he completed only three of 14 for a total of 60 yards and was intercepted once. Griese, used sparingly by Coach Tom Cahill of Army, hit with only one of five for 15 yards.

Farr, a future Detroit Lion, was the top runner with 59 yards for the West in 15 carries. Floyd Little of Syracuse, who now will join the Denver Broncos of the AFL, led the East with 45 yards on 12 carries.

Brittenum's favorite targets, were Dave Williams of Washington, who caught eight for 62 yards, Rod Sherman of Southern California, with five for 69 yards and Tom Beer of Houston with five for 75 yards.

Javier's Inside Homer Takes St. Louis Over Phillies, 6-4

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Julian Javier lined a three-run inside-the-park home run with two out in the 11th inning, propelling the National League leading St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-4 victory over Philadelphia Saturday night.

Javier, who doubled home a run in the third inning, circled the blases when his shot off Dick Hall got past center fielder John Briggs after Lou Brock reached base on Gary Sutherland's throwing error and Eddie Bressoud singled. It was his eighth homer.

John Callison's 10th homer leading off the ninth against Bob Gibson pulled Philadelphia into a 3-3 tie.

Orlando Cepeda of the Cardinals had broken a 1-1 deadlock in the sixth by touching Chris Short for his 12th homer with a man on. The Phillies closed within one run in their half of the inning on two singles and Callison's double play.

Houston Releases Pitching Coach

HOUSTON (AP) — Gordon Jones was fired Saturday as pitching coach of the Houston Astros.

Grady Hatton, manager of the Astros, announced that Jones would be offered a job in the Houston organization as a special assignment scout and minor league pitching instructor. He had coached the Astro pitchers since Hatton took over as manager at the start of the 1966 season.

the regularly scheduled game starting no earlier than 5:30 p.m.

In the Saturday opener, Curt Blefary had a double and a two-run homer for Baltimore, and threw Joe Pepitone out at the plate after catching a seventh-inning fly ball.

Dave Johnson drove in three runs and Paul Balir and Curt Motton knocked in two each for the Orioles, who rallied after trailing 4-1 in the second.

The Yanks rapped Baltimore starter Tom Phoebus for seven hits before he was relieved by winner Eddie Watt with none out in the second. Barber, traded by the Orioles Tuesday drove in two runs with a triple.

COMIN' UP AFIELD

Lafourche Lagnaippe

With Paul Martin

Archers of this section of the country invade Monroe next Sunday for the Lafourche Lagniappe, first annual invitational field archery tournament to be sponsored by Lafourche Bowmen of Monroe.

Lafourche Bowmen, who will host the second annual Louisiana Bowhunters Tournament in September for the Louisiana Field Archery Association, will be making "The Lagniappe" their big event, offering archers of Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi a chance to sew the new field range just east of Monroe. Lafourche had earlier constructed a broadhead range and conducted the first LFAA bowhunter meet last year.

"We're awfully proud of our range," declared member Jack E. Bell, Monroe, who is president of the LFAA. "We have 14 lighted field targets for night shooting, a Louisiana first, something a lot of places outside Louisiana can't boast."

Lafourche Lagniappe will be a one - day 56 - target event calling for 14 animal, 14 hunter and 28 field rounds.

Pre - registrations are accepted through Wednesday at a savings to archers at $4 adult, $3 non - adult, or $9 family. Pre -registration fees are returnable if entries are not able to participate. On - the - scene registration fees next Sunday morning, 6:45 to 8:45 o'clock, will be $5 adult, $4 non - adult, $11 family.

Registrations through Wednesday are to be made with Mrs. Marilyn McMahan, 102 Lakeshore Circle, Monroe. She's secretary for Lafourche which is headed by Tom McMahan, her husband.

Shooting begins at 8:45 a.m. next Sunday. Afternoon events begin at 1:45.

A regular Lafourche club meeting is dated for tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock at Wossman Recreation Center. Final plans for the tourney will be polished.

Aside from the tournament, and of interest to bowmen, is news that they'll be hunting again this season without official count as to their numbers.

Louisiana bowhunters asked the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission last month that a $1 license be charged the state bowhunters separate from the gun license.

"This is the first time we ever heard of any group begging to be taxed," was the comment from some commissioners and other sportsmen attending. But the archers were told license fees are set by state legislature.

Bell, among about 35 other archers in attendance at the meeting, said the license is the only accurate way to show to the public the popularity of bowhunting. Too many hunters are not members of archery clubs.

"The commission might estimate there are 2,000 bowhunters when actually there may be 20,000," Bell said. "As an example, Pennsylvania, one of our biggest bowhunter states, shows an average 2,000 members of archery clubs, yet when archery permits were sold to hunters the figure was 80,000."

Louisiana bowhunters simply want to prove their strength.

Another archery event today is a classification shoot at Tupawek Bowmen's range out of West Monroe. Club meeting at 1:30. Shooting starts for 28 targets at 2 p.m.

There is probably no more purely sports fisherman in these parts than ZELL SMITH, Monroe Hardware Company executive. His Hideaway — that's what he calls the den at his to his fishing skill.

But — if a story making the rounds is true — one fish he won't forget is the trophy he had already weighed at an even three pounds and a good pound better than the fish which E. S. JOINER registered to win the first month's crappie division in the Ouachita Wildlife Unit's summer fishing contest.

Fishing out of Payne's Boat Dock in Black Bayou Lake, so the story goes (four telephone calls to Smith's home failed to find him available for confirmation), Smith boated a really nice specimen. Realizing he had a big one, he proceeded to weigh the fish from the boat with the hand scales from the tackle box. He held up the scales to check the three - pound pull when the perch, with one more surge of battle in a sudden flounce, jerked loose and headed for the deep taking the hand scales hanging from a lip.

Carnival barkers used to bill them as "dragons," and Bernstein park zoo, we seem to recall, has at least one iguana, that South American and Pacific island lizard that grows up to five or six feet long. The dead iguana found in Lake D'Arbonne near Farmerville on Thursday stirred up quite a few comments. H. J. CASSANOVA, Monroe, says he's not positive what he first thought was a young alligator he spotted in Bayou DeSiard was in reality an iguana, because of spines along the back he had thought odd for a gator at the time; and I. B. MAZZANTI, West Monroe, said his young son, TONY, had reported about two months ago that he and another youth had seen such a lizard in Bayou Tupawek.

The Outdoor Scoreboard

Getting with the fishermen: SAM LADART and BILLY NUBLES took bass limits two straight days at Black Bayou Lake. JOE WILKINS had speckled perch limits two days. Limits also went to SAM BASS, Clinton, Miss., for bass, one six and a half pounds, and ROBERT DECELLE and L. L. DECELLE for crappie. J. B. MCKEITHEN and R. L .FARRAR took 12 bass, one of seven pounds, one ounce. GLEN SCHULTZ and JIMMY SMITH, Tallulah, strung 20 bass. CHARLES COWLES showed 76 bream, and BUDDY PARKS, Phoenix, Ariz., 75 bream and ten bass.

L. C. and MRS. DAVIDSON, Homer; LESTER and MRS. WHITE, Alexandria, and DR. and MRS. CHARLES DANIELS and R. C. and M R S. EDWARDS, El Dorado, Ark., took crappie limits at Larto Lake. Concordia Lake yielded bass limits for Alexandria's VIRGIL WHITE, "PEE WEE" BROWN and GENE DELRIE. R. T. KUHN and ROSCOE HOLCOMBE, West Monroe, took bass limits at Bussey Brake. So did JAMES FITZGERALD, Bastrop, and RUSSELL WHITE, West Monroe.

J. B. HOLLEY and son, BOYD, Bastrop, took 23 Bussey bass. The REV. E. CRUTHIRDS and family, fishing Bussey for the first time on the Fourth of July, took 125 bream. The CLAUDE MANN family, Bastrop, caught 100 bream.

J. C. BARNETT, FRED CLINE, A. A. HUNT, J. A. HUNT, Haynesville, took crappie limits out of D'Arbonne Village area of D'Arbonne Lake. A.H. HUNT, Haynesville, took 40 crappie. MRS. CARRIE BROWN, El Dorado, with R. C. MOORE as guide, caught 43.

MRS. BLAKE HEMPHILL, Athens, took the bream limit. JIMMY and MRS. HALL, Monroe, took 50 bream; CARL THOMPSON, Springhill took 170 in two days; JACK and MRS. SIMPSON, El Dorado, caught 65, and C. F. LYLES, DAVIS LYLES and FORTNEY MOODY, Homer, showed 120 bream.

The second annual drawdown for Cheniere Lake out of West Monroe began Wednesday.

Sign No. 1

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Jets of the American Football League have signed their No. 1 draft choice, offensive lineman Paul Seiler of Notre Dame. No terms were revealed.

In making the announcement Saturday, the Jets said the 255-pound, 6-foot-4½ player from Algona, Iowa, would report Wednesday to the team's training camp in Peekskill, N.Y. Then he will take off the next day to prepare for the All-Star game in Chicago.

Ernie Terrell Said Best In WBA Playoff

HOUSTON (Special) — Ernie Terrell is called "the best of the lot" in the new eight - man World's Heavyweight Boxing Championship tournament which gets under way Saturday afternoon, August 5, in the Astrodome, and the Jimmy Ellis-Leotis Martin bout is termed "possibly the most interesting and exciting fight."

These are the evaluations of Sports Illustrated in its new "size - up" of the scramble for Cassius Clay's title as champion. SI's expert, Tex Maule, calls the tournament a good one, and terms complaints against the tourney by would - be competing promoters as "sour grapes."

Terrell is set to fight Thad Spencer in one 12-rounder, then Ellis and Martin make up the second part of the twin bill. Winners then are to fight, according to SI, (November 11 and December 2 in the Astrodome) against victors of the Floyd Patterson - Jerry Quarry and Karl Mildenberger - Oscar Bonavena brawls.

All permanent cushioned upholstered seats in the Astrodome will be just $5.00 while temporary ringside seats will be $10 and $25. Children 12 and under can get the $5 seats for $2.50.

SI calls Terrell, "at 28. . .mature without having lost anything to age." It is sparse in compliments for the 25-year old Spencer, "other than a propensity for conservation second only to Ali's."

Ellis and Martin both have grown up from middleweights and maintained their speed and power. They fought each other twice as middleweights, with Martin winning the first decision and Ellis the second.

Muny Greens Get Top Job

The greens at Monroe's Municipal golf course are due for a revamping Monday.

Professional Johnny Myers said the course will be closed until 1 p.m. Monday for verdti cutting, fertilizing and top dressing of the greens.

Junior golfers, who are usually able to play the course free on Monday mornings will have the benefit of no green fees Tuesday morning, according to Myers.

Top Team Beats All-Star Squad

Monroe Sand & Gravel, leading the Girl's League in West Monroe Softball, defeated an all-star team from the remaining teams in the loop, 10-8, Saturday night.

Smith had two doubles and a single and Waldrop a double to lead the winner's attack. Blazier led the loser's batting attack with Wood and Louis suffering the setback.

R. H. SIKES sinks a birdie putt on the first hole in third round play of the Speedway Open Golf Tournament Saturday. The slender swinger matched par Friday and was tied for second place at the start of the third round. The tournament ends today. (AP Wirephoto)

Sisk Hurls 10-Hitter As Pirates Top Reds

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Tommie Sisk scattered 10 hits and Willie Stargell keyed two Pittsburgh rallies with doubles as the Pirates whipped Cincinnati 6-1 Saturday.

Stargell's first double launched a two-run Pirate rally in the fourth and his second drove in Gene Alley in the fifth.

Manny Mota stroked three straight hits and Bill Mazeroski delivered a pair of sacrifice flies as Sisk won his seventh game in 13 decisions.

Mazeroski's first sacrifice fly and a two-out single by Donn Clendenon drove in two Pirate runs in the first against Cincinnati starter Gerry Arrigo.

Mota singled in the third and came around on Roberto Clemente's single and Mazeroski's second sacrifice fly.

Then Stargell doubled and scored on Jerry May's hit in fourth, May came in on a wild pitch and an error.

Golfer Qualifies For British Open

HOYLAKE, England (AP) — Deane Beman of Bethseda, Md., won a place in the British Open Golf field Saturday by shooting a three-under-par 67 in his second qualifying round for an aggregate of 137.

The Open starts Wednesday at Hoylake. Before then 80 players will have to qualify. They will join the 50 star pros exempted from qualifying rounds.

Beman, winner of the British amateur championship in 1959 and the U.S. Amateur twice now is a professional. Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, the defending champion, is a close friend.

Beman had a 70 in his first qualifying round Friday over the 6,287-yard Delamere Forest course. His 67 was achieved on the 6,556-yard Sandiway course.

Funseth Protects 2-Shot Lead As Beard Moves Into 2nd Spot

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Rod Funseth protected his two-stroke lead in the $100,000 Speedway Open Golf Tournament with a third-round 71 Saturday, and Frank Beard moved into the challenger's spot with a three-under-par 69.

Funseth's one-under-par round left him eight under at 208 for 54 holes. Beard moved into second place ahead of R. H. Sikes. Beard's 54-hole total was 210.

Sikes matched the Speedway course par of 72 and fell three strokes back at 211.

Gene Littler shot a one-over-par 73 for 212. Bobby Nichols carded 69 and charged into a tie with Littler for fourth place.

Defending champion Billy Casper, eight shots behind Funseth finished with 70 for 215.

Jacky Cupit had the hottest round of the day, a five-under-par 32-35—67, but it brought him only to even par 216.

Sikes rubbed out Funseth's two-stroke margin on the first two holes as he birdied the first and Funseth took a bogey on the second, but Sikes lost a stroke on the fourth and Funseth birdied the sixth to go two shots ahead again.

Funseth had a three-stroke lead going to the 18th green but missed a one-foot birdie putt there. He had dropped a 35-footer on the 17th hole for a par 3 after putting his tee shot in a trap.

Two of Funseth's four birdies came on two-putt greens as he reached the 503-yard seventh and the 557-yard 11th in two shots each. He missed six greens but saved his pars on three of them.

Indians Capture Senators On Walk

CLEVELAND (AP) — Lee Maye drew a bases-loaded, two out walk in the bottom of the 10th inning, forcing home Chico Salmon with the winning run as the Cleveland Indians nipped Washington 4-3 Saturday.

Salmon had walked with one out in the 10th and scooted to third on Joe Azcue's single. After Larry Brown was retired, reliever Casey Cox walked pinch hitter Fred Whitfield intentionally, loading the bases. Then Cox walked Maye and Salmon trotted home with the winning run.

Frank Howard's 22nd home run of the year tied it for the Senators in the eighth.

Tony Horton had given the Indians the lead in the third with a bases-empty homer and Luis tiant protected the margin until Howard connected.

Both teams scored twice in the second inning. Washington starter Joe Coleman drove in the senators' runs with a bases-loaded single and Azcue's triple, a double by Tiant and a single by Maye produced two for Cleveland.

Still Smarting National League Seeks 5th Straight All Star Win

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) —The favored National League, still smarting from the 1966 World Series disaster, takes dead aim at a record fifth straight All-Star game victory over the American League Tuesday in a unique twilight game at Anaheim Stadium.

In an effort to gain wider fan appeal, Commissioner William D. Eckert has set a 4:15 p.m., PDT (7:15 p.m. edt) starting time for the contest. That will take the telecast over NBC into prime evening hours in the eastern section of the country.

Willie Mays and Mickey Mangle will play unusual walk-on roles as substitutes when the teams renew their midsummer rivalry with the 38th of the series. The National League, once outdistanced and humiliated by the American League, now owns a 19-17-1 edge and boasts a four-game winning streak.

Walter Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Hank Bauer of the Baltimore Orioles, the managers of last year's Series rivals, meet again under somewhat different circumstances. Both the Dodgers and the Orioles have been rolling around in the second division most of the year. If both make it to the Series again, it will be a shocking upset.

Just as has been the case all year, Alston no longer has Sandy Koufax to fall back on as a starting pitcher. Sandy's role probably will be taken by Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants although Alston has a fine eight-man staff, and he might decide to go to Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs, Bob Gibson of St. Louis or even Tom Seaver, the New York Mets' precocious rookie.

Don Drysdale of the Dodgers, a starter in four All-Star games, also is available.

Because both teams are light on left-handed batters in their starting line-ups, Bauer also is expected to go to a right-handed starter. Prime candidates are Dean Chance, the ex-Angel now pitching for Minnesota, Joe Horlen of the Chicago White Sox, Jim Lonborg of Boston or, perhaps, rookie Jim McGlothlin of the home town Angeles.

The American League is crippled by the loss of Al Kaline, Detroit's fine right fielder who suffered a broken bone in his hand when he hit a bat rack in a fit of anger after striking out. Kaline, the top vote getter with 242 of a possible 2347 votes, has been replaced in the starting line-up by Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins.

The American League is crippled by the loss of star outfielders, Al Kaline of Detroit and Frank Robinson of Baltimore.

Kaline suffered a broken bone in his hand when he hit a bat rack in a fit of anger after striking out. Kaline, the top vote getter with 242, has been replaced in the starting line-up by Tony Oliva of Minnesota. Robinson, bothered by double vision since a June 27 baseline collision, scratched himself from the All-Star game after taking batting practice Friday night. His replacement will be Ken Berry of the White Sox.

Anaheim Stadium, with its symmetrical layout of 333-foot foul lines, 375-foot power alleys in left and right center and 406 feet in center, is not an easy home run park, neither is it as difficult as some. It takes a powerful shot to clear the barriers.

The $24 million triple-decked park, opened last year, will be hosting its first All-Star game.

It is located in the heart of fast growing Orange County, a hop, skip and a jump away from Disneyland.

Pittsburgh has three men in the National's starting line-up, including the Pirates' dazzling double play combination of Bill Mazeroski at second base and Gene Alley at shortstop. Alley led all the players with 250 of a possible 258 votes.

Roberto Clemente will open in the outfield with Hank Aaron of Atlanta and Lou Brock of St. Louis. It will be up to Alston to place the outfielders by position. The rest of the infield will have Orlando Cepeda of St. Louis at first and Richie Allen of Philadelphia at third. Joe Torre of Atlanta, back in action after missing several games due to injuries, will be the catcher.

Bauer has two Orioles in his starting line-up, the Robinson boys. Brooks Robinson will be at third base with Rico Petrocelli of Boston at shortstop, rookie Rod Carew of Minnesota at second and Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota at first. Bill Freehan of Detroit is the catcher.

The American League's revised outfield will consist of Frank Robinson, Carl Yastrzemski of Boston and Oliva.

Bauer's reserves include catchers Paul Nova of Washington and Andy Etchebarren of Baltimore, first baseman Don Mincher of California, second baseman Dick McAuliffe of Detroit, shortstop Jim Fregosi of California, third baseman Max Alvis of Cleveland, Mickey Mantle of the Yanks, and outfielders Tommie Agee of Chicago and Tony Conigliaro of Boston.

The National reserves includes Mays, who has been a starter every year since 1957, and both Jim Wynn and Rusty Staub of Houston in the outfield. The reserve catchers are Tom Haller of San Francisco and Tim McCarver of St.Louis.

In addition to first baseman Ernie Banks of Chicago, currently injured, Alston picked three versatile Cincinnati Reds —Tony Perez, Tommy Helms and Pete Rose, who can play any infield posts and the outfield if needed.

Each club breaks down the same way with 18 right-handed batters, six left-handers and one switch hitter among the 25 on the squad. There must be at least one player from each team on the squad.

Replacement

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Chris Short of the Philadelphia Phils was named Saturday by National League Manager Walt Alston to replace Denny Lemaster for Tuesday's All-Star game in Anaheim.

Giants Rip Dodgers, 8-4; Marichal First To Win 12

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jim Hart drove in five runs on a pair of homers and Juan Marichal became the major leagues' first 12-game winner as San Francisco ripped Los Angeles 8-4 Saturday.

The Dodgers had hopped on Marichal, 12-7, for a quick 4-0 lead on two-run homers by Lou Johnson and Ron Fairly but Hart led the Giants' charge back.

Ollie Brown singled two runs home off Don Drysdale in the third and then Hart smashed a three-run homer and wiped out the Dodger lead in the fifth. Bob Schroder singled and Willie McCovey was hit by a pitch before Hart tagged his 13th homer.

Tom Haller followed that shot with a bases-empty homer, giving the Giants a 6-4 edge.

In the seventh, Hart connected again. The five RBI gave Hart 21 in the last 10 games. The fifth inning homer was the 100th of his major league career.

Marshal retired 17 straight batters after Fairly's fourth inning homer and finished with a four-hitter.

Jets Ink Seiler

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Jets of the American Football League have signed their No. 1 draft choice, offensive lineman Paul Seiler of Notre Dame. No terms were revealed.

In making the announcement Saturday, the Jets said the 255-pound, 6-foot-4½ player from Algona, Iowa, would report Wednesday to the team's training camp in Peekskill, N.Y. Then he will take off the next day to prepare for the All-Star game in Chicago.

Saints Close Week With Long Drill

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Coach Tom Fears wound up the first week of the New Orleans Saints' training camp Saturday with a 92-play scrimmage lasting 1½ hours.

Quarterbacks Gary Cuozzo and Bill Kilmer shared offensive duties in the workout, the last for many of the 56 rookies. With 36 veterans reporting, Fears and his staff will reduce the roster substantially Sunday morning after viewing films of the scrimmage.

Cuozzo, who subbed for Johnny Unitas as a Baltimore Colts quarterback and Kilmer, lost by the San Francisco 49ers in the expansion draft, each passed for four-yard touchdowns.

Kilmer connected with Ken McLean, a rookie receiver from Texas A&M. Cuozzo hit Dan Abramowicz, a promising flanker from Xavier, Ohio.

Cuozzo set up his touchdown with a 25-yard pass completion to halfback John Gilliam from South Carolina State, and a 42-yard pass to back Mike Spratt from Houston.

The quarterback was intercepted twice, once by defensive back Bruce Cortez from Parsons College, and again by Tracy Hodges, a defensive back from South Carolina State. Cortez returned his interception 40 yards fr a touchdown.

Gary Wood, the Saints' other quarterback candidate, missed the scrimmage, having flown to Chicago to attend a National Football League Player Representatives meeting.

Cuozzo completed 11 of 19 passes for 180 yards, and Kilmer clicked on 9 of 14 attempts for 100 yards. M. C. Reynolds hit n eight of nine aerials for 81 yards.

"We had a real good first week," Coach Fears said.

"The players have worked hard and hustled 100 per cent. We're making good progress."

King Shooting For Grand Slam

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Billie Jean King collected her second Wimbledon tennis title Saturday and then declared: "Now for the Grand Slam."

The bouncy, bespectacled Californian had just come off the center court after outclassing Ann Jones of Britain 6-3, 6-4 in the women's final.

"My serve won me the match but I was pretty nervous out there and I had to work to stop my temper getting the better of me," she said.

"My next ambition is to win the Grand Slam next year. I think my game has improved somewhat."

Winning the Grand Slam means taking the Australian, French, Wimbledon and U.S. tennis titles in one year—the dream of every top amateur.

Mrs. King, from Long Beach, said she will open her campaign by going to Australia for next January's championships. It will be only her second trip there.

Mrs. Jones, who was third-seeded, praised Billie Jean as "a good champion—but she's not head and shoulders above the rest of us."

Gershwin Still Popular Today, But Will His Music Continue?

EDITOR'S NOTE — While the critics may ponder just where he resides in the roll call of musical giants, three decades after his death people still stir to his music. A Gershwin tune has its mark and its impact and what better testimony is there than the fact that somewhere at this very moment a Gershwin song is working magic. But will Gershwin endure? Here is an assessment of his stature — on the 30th anniversary of his death.

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In shirtsleeves, sweater or bathrobe, the slender young man trilled and thundered an apartment piano for three weeks.

"Make it good, George," his businessman father urged. "It might be important."

When he finished, George Gershwin had composed a blazing blend of jazz and symphony — "The Rhapsody in Blue" — that rocketed his name into the musical firmament.

Thirteen years later, at 38, after a torrential output of standards ranging from "I Got Rhythm" to "It Ain't Necessarily So," George Gershwin died.

He died July 11, 1937, in a Hollywood hospital a few hours after surgery for a brain tumor. The anniversary will itself have no sad commemorations. But there will be the usual 40 plus U.S. and European all Gershwin memorial summer concerts, mostly in July, including one in Hollywood Bowl.

In the perspective of three decades, what is the musical stature of the onetime Tin Pan Alley song plugger, a son of Russian Jewish immigrants?

"Controversial in this country, solid in Europe," says Ira Gershwin, now 70, George's brother and lyricist on many unforgettable hits such as "Embraceable You," "Fascinatin' Rhythm" and "Nice Work If You Can Get It."

Sitting in his beautiful Beverly Hills home, looking like a plump Buddha or banker, a cigar in the middle of his mouth, Ira added: "In Europe, 'Porgy and Bess' is considered a great opera. In this country a few critics still say it isn't Bach or Beethoven.

"But more and more, George becomes respected. Louis Untermeyer wrote a book two years ago about the 100 greatest people of the 20th century. He included four composers, and George was one of them."

Paul Whiteman, the onetime "King of Jazz," for whom Gershwin wrote "Rhapsody in Blue," said at his home in New Hope, Pa.: "I don't want by any means to take anything away from the many fine symphonic composers we have had, but Gershwin was the finest.

"He was the first to take the jazz feeling and combine it in symphonic form and still respect the symphony. He has had a bigger impact on symphonic music across the world than almost any modern composer."

Ferde Grofe picked up Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" pages as he wrote them orchestrated them for Whiteman's 18 men and played second piano to Gershwin's first at that premier performance in New York in 1924.

The portly, 75-year-old composer has "Grand Canyon Suite" is played throughout the world and at his Santa Monica, Calif., home "Gershwin carved out a niche for himself that nobody else has matched. He couldn't write anything that didn't have a great tune. 'Rhapsody in Blue' is a blend of beautiful melody and syncopation. I believe it will live through the ages."

The great popular song writer Irving Berlin, "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Always," "White Christmas," "Remember," "God Bless America" said in New York: "The best, truest thing anyone can say of Gershwin's work, after the passage of 30 years, is that it is fresher and more popular than when he was alive."

Song writer Hoagy Carmichael — "Stardust" — remembers him as a dear friend, tennis partner who was "just as thorough about trying to win as he was about writing fine music," and generous musical advice-giver.

Gershwin, who never married, was born Sept. 28, 1898, in Brooklyn, the second son of Morris and Rose Gershwin — originally Gershowitz. They named him Jacob but called him George. The family changed the spelling to Gershwin after George did upon starting his musical career.

Brother Ira recalls their boyhood on Manhattan's Lower East Side: "Our father went from one business to another: cigar store, pool parlor, Turkish bath, restaurants. At the end he went broke. He liked the opera and could hum a few arias."

In school the violin playing of a fellow student aroused George's interest in music. He studied piano diligently. At 14 he could transpose any tune into any key and at 15 he was hired by J.H. Remick & Co., a music publishing firm, as a song plugger, demonstrating new tunes for vaudeville acts. He also began writing popular songs. The first, published, in 1916: "When You Want 'Em, You Can't Get 'Em."

"A lot of people think George was brash, but he wasn't," said Ira. "The main thing about him was his vitality. He was always working."

George's first entire musical comedy score was "La, La, Lucille" in 1919. Soon he wrote the hit "Swanee," sung by Al Jolson in the musical "Sinbad."

"George would finish one show and go right on to another," said Ira. "I didn't have that kind of energy."

At New York's City College, Ira wrote a humor column, "Gargoyle Gargles," named for the school's architectural trimmings, and contributed quips to the newspaper columns of Franklin P. Adams and Don Marquis.

THIRTY YEARS after his death, George Gershwin is very much alive in his music, played in many parts of the world. He died at age 38 in a Hollywood hospital July 11, 1937—a few hours after surgery for a brain tumor and 13 years after he won lasting fame with his "Rhapsody in Blue." Here Gershwin works on his opera "Porgy and Bess" at his home in White Plains, N. Y., July 21, 1935. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

In the '20s and '30s Ira wrote the lyrics to George's melodies for some of Broadway's biggest musical hits. A partial list: "Lady, Be Good including the song "The Man I Love"; "Oh, Kay!" "Someone to Watch Over Me"; "Funny Face" "S'wonderful"; "Girl Crazy" "But Not for Me," "Bidin' My Time"; "Strike Up the Band": "Of Thee I Sing" "Love is Sweeping the Country," "Wintergreen for President".

He also collaborated on the lyrics with DuBose Heyward who wrote the libretto for George's folk opera "Porgy and Bess," including "It Ain't Necessarily So," "I Got Plenty of Nuthin'," and "Summertime."

Ira won a Pulitzer Prize, the first to a lyricist, for "Of Thee I Sing" in 1932. Why didn't George?

"Because at that time they didn't give the Pulitzer to music, only to words," Ira said.

Said Ira: "Most of the time I'd write to the tune. I had to have a tune to challenge me. He'd write a couple of bars of music and I'd write a couple of bars of lyrics. 'I Got Rhythm' took me three weeks, deciding where to put the emphasis on what notes."

Whiteman called his concert at New York's old Aeolian Hall on the afternoon of Feb. 12, 1924, "An Experiment in American Music." He asked Gershwin to contribute an extended work that "would be symphonic and have the stamp of American jazz."

Grofe took the subway almost daily to the Gershwins' apartment to pick up a sheet or two of George's manuscript for orchestration. Grofe still has the composer's priceless pages, their staffs, labeled "Jazz Band" and "Piano Solo," note-sprinkled in India ink below the hand-printed title: "A Rhapsody in Blue." Grofe's original score is in the Library of Congress.

Grofe told Gershwin his main theme sounded like Mozart and wasn't in keeping with his past work.

"George started playing a theme he said he'd written about five years earlier while working for Remick. I went home and couldn't sleep that night, this thing was so beautiful.

"George said it was too trite and sentimental, but after long argument, Ira and I convinced him to use it."

Whiteman recalls the premiere performance: "When we started to play it, I had tears in my eyes and by about page 20 in my score I was weeping. Later, Gershwin said his reaction was similar, although I don't know if he wept."

After 1935's "Porgy and Bess" the Gershwins came to Hollywood and wrote for movies: "Shall We Dance?" — Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers with its "They Can't Take That Away From Me," "They All Laughed" and, "Let's Call the Whole Thing Off." And "A Damsel in Distress" with it's "A Foggy Day in London Town" and, "Nice Work If You Can Get It."

Gershwin's last composition was "Love Is Here to Stay," written for "The Goldwyn Follies" in 1938 and sung again 12 years later by Gene Kelly to Leslie Caron in "An American in Paris."

A blackout of several seconds while he was playing with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, first heralded Gershwin's fatal illness. Later, he suffered agonizing headaches.

Ira recently granted to the Museum of the City of New York some Gershwin memorabilia — a desk George designed to fit against his piano, a piano roll of George playing "Rhapsody in Blue," his gold-headed cane, etc.

Each year Ira sends the Library of Congress more of George's old manuscripts.

"My brother also left 50 to 75 rich, unpublished tunes," said Ira. "We have to decide what publisher controls them.

I think this year will settle the problem of their disposition."

BLUE PEARLS FADE

Shopping note: A cultured pearl expert does not recommend the currently fashionable blue, gray or black pearls "because they can turn color." Morton A. Lippman, who is chairman of public relations for the industry, does recommend complete matching of size, luster, color and quality in a necklace. "It spells the difference between a fine necklace and a random collection of strung-together pearls."

Fall Bridal Gowns Continue In Long, Romantic Fashion

Bridal dresses for fall will continue to be long and romantic. In this traditional manner, the most daring innovation is probably Murray Hamburger's gold mesh gown with gold brocade waistband for bridesmaids.

But some designers are garnering publicity, if not sales, with miniskirt bridal dresses and even bridal pants. One house does a lace culotte dress with a drawstring coat. Another does a mini with fringed hem and fringed pants below. In long pants, there is a skimmer dress for the wedding which is quickly removed to show pajamas under neath.

Few of the designers seem to realize that pants of any kind aren't usually worn in most churches, and that most girls, no matter how usually mini, want a "great day" dress for their weddings.

MRS. ROYCE LEE NORMAN

Mary Katherine Richmond Weds Royce Lee Norman

In a double ring ceremony Saturday, July 8 in First Presbyterian Church of Ruston, Miss Mary Katherine Richmond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fred Richmond Sr., became the bride of Royce Lee Norman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waymon F. Gray Jr., all of Ruston.

Flickering cathedral tapers in brass candelabra formed a background setting for the exchange of vows with large arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums on either side of the altar. Rev. James W. Lipscomb performed the vows at 7:30 p.m. with traditional organ music by Jim Lipscomb.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie featuring a Sabrina neckline outlined with Alencon lace medallions reembroidered with iridescents and long tapered sleeves of Alencon lace. Her fingertip veil, bordered in lace, was held in place by a Dior bow. She carried a white Bible crested with an orchid and streamers caught with stephanotis blossoms.

Miss Joyce Norman, sister of the groom, who served as maid of honor, wore a floor length A-line gown of pale pistachio green with matching lace sleeves. A self fabric Dior bow headdress and matching shoes completed her attire and she carried a crescent bouquet of pale yellow spider chrysanthemums backed with emerald green leaves. Miss Madeline Calhoun, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. John Fred Richmond Jr., her sister-in-law, were dressed identically to the honor attendant.

Mr. Gray served as best man and groomsmen were John Fred Richmond Jr., brother of the bride and Alvin Norman, brother of the groom.

RECEPTION

At the reception which followed in the church reception hall, Mrs. Richmond received her guests wearing an avocado silk A-line frock with belled sleeves and matching shoes. Her corsage was of pale yellow spider mums. Mrs. Norman, mother of the groom, wore a pink model with accessories to match and a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

Centering the bride's table, covered in white linen, was a white candelabra holding emerald green votive candles, based with English ivy, white blossoms and tulle. Garlands of ivy and white blossoms extended the length of the table which held the punch bowl and tiered wedding cake.

Mrs. Alton E. Calhoun and Mrs. Henry B. Smith, aunts of the bride, presided at the punch bowl. Serving the cake were Mrs. Edward H. Chandler and Mrs. William Darland.

A memory candle, wreathed in English ivy and white blossoms was displayed on the bride's book table which was presided over by Mrs. Robert E. Richmond, also an aunt of the bride.

It does not make any difference, according to a study of three and four-year olds by the Pennsylvania State University.

Nancy K. Hultz, who made the study, found that neither age nor sex made any difference in which side of the body a child favors.

She studies 40 subjects, 30 of which were right-handed and eight ambidextrous.

The two southpaws were left-eyed but one favored his right foot and the other showed no preference. Five right-handers were left-eyed and 62.5 per cent of the children were both right-handed and right-eyed.

Miss Hultz developed a group of tests, eliminating items to which 80 per cent of the children showed consistent response. Measures of hand preference which she retained included hammering, placing marbles and pegs, drawing a man and turning an eggbeater.

The children peeped through a kaleidoscope, peered at a shoe box peep show and reported the observations while looking at a folded paper cone in measurements of eye preferences. To gauge foot use, Miss Hultz noted which one a youngster used in stepping off and up, or with which he kicked a ball and pushed around a block.

Lt. Julian Mehl, Bride On Wedding Trip To Acapulco

Vows uniting in marriage Miss Nancy Lynn Riklin and Lt. Julian Mehl, United States Army, were solemnized Sunday, July 2 at Agudas Achim Synagogue in San Antonio, Texas.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Riklin of San Antonio and parents of Lt. Mehl are Mr. and Mrs. Nate Mehl, 220 Lakeside Drive, Monroe.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of ivory peau de soie. Appliques of pearl encrusted Alencon lace detailed the bodice and bell-shaped floor length skirt. She wore a long matching lace mantilla and carried a bouquet of stephanotis and lily of the valley. Her shoes were appliqued with pearl-frosted Alencon lace to match her gown.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Frank H. Lichtenstein Jr. Serving as maid of honor was Miss Heidi Frank of San Antonio. Bridesmaids included Miss Jacquelyn Mehl, Monroe, sister of the groom; Miss Wendy Flatow, San Antonio and Miss Vicki Held of Dallas. The attendants wore long cage gowns of green chiffon featuring flowing back panels. Their headpieces were bows of matching velvet and they carried clusters of tangerine carnations on a single long stem.

Jerry Mehl, brother of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Frank H. Lichtenstein Jr., Lee Lichtenstein, both of San Antonio; George Smelser, Sterlington and Van Stewart of Alexandria. Ushers were Lee Maltzman, Dallas and Larry Riklin.

The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Amram Prero under a net canopy covered with large clusters of white stock, carnations and peonies. On either side of the canopy were topiary trees of greenery and white stock. Tall arrangements of greenery decorated the bridal aisle.

A program of nuptial music was presented by soloist, John McDonald and organist, Mrs. Leora Worsham.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception in the Anacacho Room at St. Anthony Hotel. The bride's table, covered with an antique lace cloth, featured a tall silver compote with an arrangement of stock, carnations and peonies. Larry Herman and his orchestra provided music throughout the evening.

Assisting in the reception courtesies were Mrs. Frank Lichtenstein Sr., Mrs. David Cohen, Mrs. Arthur Riklin, Mrs. Seymour Flatow, Mrs. Sam Susser, Mrs. Norman Riemer, Mrs. Sam Maltzman, Mrs. Adolph Schwartz, Mrs. Rose Goldstein, Mrs. Adolph Lidsky, Mrs. Emma Jane Ullman, Mrs. Louis Minkin, Mrs. Charles Melugin, Miss Dale Talley, Mrs. Arthur Schecter, Mrs. Edward Riklin and Mrs. Sam Riklin. Alternating at the bride's book were Misses Nancy Lauterstein, Sandra Schwartz, Cindy Cohen and Carol Lidsky.

For their wedding trip to Acapulco, Mexico, the bride changed to a pale gray Alaskeen dress with white jacket and contrasting trim. Completing her ensemble were white lizard accessories and a corsage of agapantha lilies and miniature elegance carnations.

The couple will be at home in San Antonio until September when they will move to Dallas where Lt. Mehl will be associated with a drug firm.

QUICKY LUNCHES

Every working woman also can identify herself with the results of a study made by the American Girl Service, a temporary office help agency. Most of the girls surveyed DO EAT LUNCH on their lunch hours, but it is a hurried, inexpensive, low - calorie affair. That means more time and money for shopping, browsing or even reading.

Double Ring Vows Unite Candy Bruce, James Goldman

Nuptial Mass at high noon Saturday, July 8 in Our Lady Help of Christians Catholic Church, Jennings, united in marriage Miss Nelia Karen "Candy" Bruce of Jennings and James Oliver Goldman of Monroe.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bruce of Jennings and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Goldman, 3600 Deborah Drive, Monroe.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was The Rev. Father Warren Larroque of Monroe, assisted by Monsignor Charles Marin of Jennings. Appropriate nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. John Liesch of Jennings, organist and Jerry Roberts, West Monroe, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a traditional gown of champagne ice crepe fashioned on an A - line sheath silhouette with a collar of lace. A cathedral length train of the crepe was trimmed in matching lace. Her veil was a fingertip length mantilla of champagne ice tulle, enhanced with lace applique patterns. She carried a bouquet of cymbidium orchids and greenery.

Mrs. J. R. Kibodeaux of Freeport, Texas, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Huff of Jennings, also her sister and Miss Marylin Goldman of Monroe, sister of the groom. They wore identical A - line gowns of pale yellow crepe. Their headpieces were rose clusters centered with seed pearls and they carried bouquets of yellow calla lilies.

Mitchell Goldman, Monroe, attended his brother as best man and groomsmen were Philip Goldman, Atlanta, Ga., and Clifford Worley of Monroe. Serving as ushers were Richard Kibodeaux, Bruce Kibodeaux and Randy Kibodeaux of Freeport, Tex., Robert Huff and Brady Huff of Jennings.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Bruce wore a pale blue suit featuring a fingertip length coat, a blue feather hat and other accessories of blue. Mrs. Goldman, mother of the groom, wore a petal pink Alaskine sheath with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of cattleya orchids.

Following the ceremony a reception was given by the bride's parents at the Jeff Davis Country Club in Jennings. The bride's table was covered with a ruffled net cloth and adorned with two candelabra holding yellow tapers and garlands of greenery on either side of the wedding cake. Miss Myra Kibodeaux, niece of the bride and Miss Glenda Grant of Mansfield, served the wedding cake and presiding at the coffee and punch services were Mrs. Kenneth Roy of Lake Charles and Miss Stanley Cresap, Jennings. Mrs. Philip Goldman of Atlanta, Ga., presided at the guest book.

MRS. CRAIG LORING STETSON

Elizabeth Mooney Becomes Bride Of Lt. Craig Stetson

Lt. Stetson is the son of Mrs. Catherine Stetson of Shreveport and Col. (Ret.) Loring F. Stetson, Anacortes, Wash.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore an A-line dress of white imported Swiss voile in afternoon length. The dress featured a scoop neckline and long full sleeves with wide cuffs of lace. Her headpiece was a mantilla of the voile, bordered with matching lace. She carried a bouquet of three phalaenopsis orchids with stephanotis and ivy atop a white Bible.

Mrs. J. D. Grecco, matron of honor, and only attendant for the bride, wore a yellow street length dress and carried a bouquet of daisies and ivy, with white ribbon streamers.

Serving as best man for his brother was Dale Stetson.

For her daughter's wedding and reception which followed in their home Mrs. Mooney was wearing a nubby silk A - line model of pale mint green with matching shoes and a white glamellia corsage. Mrs. Stetson chose a pale blue linen two piece ensemble with matching shoes and a white glamellia corsage.

Centering the bride's table, covered in an ivory cutwork linen cloth, was an arrangement of white daisies and yellow roses in a crystal epergne. Mrs. Grady Leachman and Mrs. Donald S. Mooney served the white cake decorated with yellow roses and sparkling yellow punch. The bride's book was placed on a table with a wedding candle, wreathed in ivy.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip to Washington State and Montana, the bride was wearing a hot pink silk ensemble with wide flat bow at the neckline, complemented by shoes and bag in two shades of pink. Her corsage was of orchids from her bouquet. The couple will be at home in Glasgow, Mont., where Lt. Stetson is stationed.

The bride was graduated from Ruston high school and from Louisiana Tech. Lt. Stetson graduated from Byrd high school and from Louisiana Tech, where he was a member of Kappa Alpha, Delta Sigma Pi and is listed in Who's Who.

MRS. HAROLD RICHARD MOORE

Moore-Kennedy Vows Read In Setting Of Blue, White

An arch of greenery decorated with wedding bells, and flanked by white tapers in wrought iron candelabra and baskets of white gladioli formed a setting in North Monroe Baptist Church Friday, June 30 for the wedding of Miss Wanda Gail Kennedy and Harold Richard Moore.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene L. Kennedy, 1804 Filhiol Road and parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Moore, Prairie Road, Monroe.

Rev. Glenn Pippens performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. following prenuptial vocal selections by Miss Carol Craft of Baton Rouge, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Judy Matkins, Sterlington.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a full length gown of white satin and Chantilly lace, styled with bell sleeves and scalloped neckline. A Watteau train of lace extended cathedral length from the shoulders over the belled skirt. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a cluster of white satin roses. She carried a bouquet of assorted white flowers.

Wearing floor length empire style gowns of pale blue bonded crepe were the bride's attendants, Miss Janie Hicks, maid of honor and bridesmaids, Misses Joan Turnage and Terry Head. Their headpieces were blue maline attached to self fabric wedding bands. They wore matching accessories and each carried a single white rose.

Flower girl was Miss Karen Griffith, Shreveport, who also wore a pale blue frock and carried a single white rose. Candlelighters were cousins of the bride, Miss Cathy Kennedy and Greg Kennedy of Start.

Serving as best man was Donnie Newcomer and ushers were Johnny Turnage and Robert Moore, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Kennedy chose for her daughter's wedding a yellow orlon dress trimmed in matching lace with yellow accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother was wearing a beige bonded lace A-line dress with accessories to match and a white carnation corsage.

Assisting with hostess courtesies for the reception were Mrs. Joe Newcomer, Mrs. Charles Whitard and Mrs. William Matkins. Mrs. Jim Trichel served the cake and Mrs. Charles Walker presided at the punch bowl.

A white memory candle, wreathed with ivy adorned the guest book table which was presided over by Miss Debbie Newcomer. Rice bags were presented guests by Misses Kim Ann Spencer, Tammy Spencer and Trudy Cumpton, cousins of the bride.

Paper Knit Dresses Longer Lasting

Elisa Daggs, one of the few designers who has been seriously working with paper nonwoven fabrics, has now come out with a collection of paper knitted dresses.

Paper knit has long been quite practical to make, but wasn't in demand for clothes. Now that paper has become something of a small rage, designers like Miss Daggs think paper knits are a natural.

Shiny Zippers Reappearing In High Fashion

By FLORENCE DE SANTIS

A couple of years ago, there was a brief flurry in sportswear and junior clothes over using large-size shiny metal zippers, what are called in the trade "industrial" zippers.

The fad, originally from Paris' Emannuelle Khanh, seemed to die out, but the fadeaway was largely caused by lack of zippers. After all, the zipper people were busy getting rid of metal zippers, and had just succeeded! They were all for tiny, nylon-teeth zippers.

This season, the shiny metal zippers are having another go, and there are enough of them. Hats, handbags, gloves and even belts are trimmed with zippers. Even more surprising, all the high-fashion collections have zip-front dresses, suits and coats.

Bath Oil Protects Against Dryness

Recent surveys show that half of the adult women in the United States use a bath oil to protect against dryness. Right now is the best time for use of a bath oil. It leaves a light film on the skin that gives protection against dehydration all day (or night) long. It also helps replenish natural oils that the bath or shower normally wash away. And it smooths the skin surface, keeps it emollient and imparts a long-lasting, delicate fragrance.

MRS. SAMMY ROBERSON

Roberson-Caldwell Nuptials Read In Candlelight Scene

Wrought iron candelabra garlanded with English ivy and arrangements of white gladioli beneath an arch of ivy formed a setting in Trinity Baptist Church, West Monroe for the wedding of Miss Frances Caldwell and Sammy Roberson on Friday, June 30.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Caldwell, West Monroe and Mr. Roberson is the son of Mrs. Phala Roberson, of Monroe.

Rev. James B. White performed the double ring ceremony following organ selections by Mrs. Steve Boyette and vocal selections by Miss Pat Brothers.

The bride, escorted by her father, was wearing a gown of white peau de soie with lace overlay, featuring long tapered sleeves and scalloped Sabrina neckline. Inverted pleats at either side of the full skirt extended to form a chapel train. Appliques of the lace were repeated on the train. A crown of pearls held in place her veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white bride's roses with stephanotis encircling two white orchids.

Miss Mackie Lynn Alexander, maid of honor and bridesmaids, Miss Jenny Lynn Lambert and Mrs. Carol Bishop, wore short gowns of blue peau de soie with brief sleeves and bell skirts. Their headdresses were Dior bows of blue peau de soie with matching veils. They wore blue shoes and short white gloves and carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums tied with blue ribbons.

Flower girl, Miss Joan Caldwell, cousin of the bride, was dressed like the other attendants and carried a basket of flower petals.

Candlelighters were Raymond Chapman and Deborah Lewis.

Ronnie Hamilton served as best man and groomsmen were Robert Roberson, brother of the groom and Gene Atchison. Ushers were Kenny Wilson and Jerry Moore and acting as ring bearer was Bobby Caldwell, cousin of the bride.

A reception followed in the church social room. Mrs. Caldwell received her guests wearing an ice blue silk suit with small blue ribbon hat and matching accessories. The groom's mother wore a beige lace sheath with full length lace coat, beige and gold hat and bag.

Miss Theresa Gaskin presided at the bride's book on a table where the memory candle was displayed. Mrs. Mildred Chapman served the bride's cake and Mrs. Evelyn Bledsoe presided at the punch bowl. Groom's cake was served by Mrs. A. R. Robinson and Mrs. Oudia Cady. Tea girls were Misses Cherie Noble and Terri Redd, cousins of the bride.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Monroe where both are employed. For going away the bride wore a yellow silk suit with white accessories and the orchid from her bouquet.

The bride-elect has chosen her sisters, Miss Carolyn Ann Sharp and Mrs. Jerry G. Gates, to serve as maid and matron of honor, respectively. Candlelighter will be Miss Karen Kim Gentry.

Mr. Folk will attend his son as best man and named as groomsman is Lewis Love. Serving as ushers will be Billy Ray Adney, Mike P. Collins and Reg Cassibry.

A graduate of West Monroe high school, Miss Sharp attended Northeast Louisiana State College and is presently attending Louisiana Tech.

Her fiance is a student in civil engineering at Tech where he is a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon.

Michele Varnado, Fiance Set August Vows In Natchitoches

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Varnado, 411 Beasley St., Monroe, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Miss Michele Varnado to Robert Townsend, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Townsend of Baton Rouge. The wedding will be an event of August 26 at 2 p.m. in First Methodist Church, Natchitoches.

Miss Varnado has chosen her sister, Mrs. Charles Heard as her matron of honor and Miss Sally Dorr of New Iberia and Miss Susan Massey of Shreveport, as bridesmaids. Mr Townsend will attend his son as best man and named as groomsmen are Mickey Stringfield of Baton Rouge and immy Ouzts of Natchitoches.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Savage of West Monroe and the late Mr. and Mrs. Connor C. Varnado of Kentwood. A graduate of Neville high school, she is now a senior at Northwestern State College in Natchitoches where she will graduate in January with a degree in Sociology. Miss Varnado is a member of Sigma Kappa sorority.

Her fiance was graduated from Lee high school in Baton Rouge and is also a senior at Northwestern State College, majoring in history. Mr. Townsend is the grandson of Mrs. Lucy Townsend and the late R. Townsend of Baton Rouge and Mr. and Mrs. M.M. McGhee of Ville Platte.

Following their marriage the couple will reside in Natchitoches where they will continue their studies.

Fashion Briefs

Headed for sand, sun and fun? Forget that bikini for a moment and think of your feet . . . you'll be exposed, you know. It's smart now to accessorize them: try an ankle bracelet of triple discs in hot colors, or a skeleton sandal of large white sequins dangling from a plastic chain.

If you discover a truly great hairdo that looks tremendous on you, have your hairdresser make you a diagram of it, plus full directions for cutting and setting. If you travel, for a weekend, or for a month, just give your diagram to any strange hairdresser for a super-set.

Sandra Maddox Becomes Bride Of Thomas A. Dukes

White tapers in six - branched candelabra entwined with magnolia foliage and flanked by baskets of pink traveler gladioli formed a background setting on the altar of Southside Methodist Church Friday, July 7 for the wedding of Miss Sandra Joyce Maddox and Thomas Arthur Dukes.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Maddox, 801 South Ninth St., and Mr. and Mrs. Hilton H. Dukes, 1515 Parkview Drive, all of Monroe.

Pink satin bows marked family pews. Candles were lighted preceding the ceremony by the groomsmen, Lewis Dukes, brother of the groom and Carl Suomi.

Mrs. Elaine Chapman, organist, presented a prenuptial concert and accompanied Mrs. Mary Lou Perkins, who sang prior to the double ring ceremony performed by Rev. Lea Joyner, at 8 p.m.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie featuring a scooped necked line and long tapered sleeves. Lace motifs with seed pearls adorned the neckline and were repeated at the hem of the belled skirt, from the waist of which her chapel train fell. Two white peau roses held in place her elbow length veil of silk illusion. She carried a fuchsia throated white orchid in a bouquet of fleur d'amour and greenery.

Miss Judy Maddox, sister of the bride, who served as maid of honor, wore a floor length gown of princess pink peau de soie, styled with scoop neckline, cap sleeves and an A-line skirt falling from an Empire waist. The skirt was accented by imported English lace trim. Her headdress was one large matching peau rose and she wore matching pink shoes. Dressed identically to the honor attendant were the bridesmaids, Mrs. Richard Maddox, Miss Judy Hunt, Miss Linda Hunt and Miss Kathy Davis. Each carried a long stemmed pink rose tied with pink streamers.

Mr. Dukes was best man for his son and ushers were Richard Maddox, brother of the bride and Larry Bays of Shreveport.

Mrs. Maddox chose for her daughter's wedding a pale pink crepe model featuring long sleeves and cowl collar with a matching lace coat and pink lace pillbox. Her other accessories were white and she wore a white carnation corsage. The groom's mother, Mrs. Dukes, wore a dark beige A-line shift with ecru silk organza collar and cuffs, bone accessories and a matching lace pillbox. Her corsage was of yellow carnations.

Pink gladioli were featured throughout the church social room for the reception which followed the ceremony. A table covered with a white organza cloth held a glowing memory candle wreathed with leatherleaf and the bride's book, which was presided over by Mrs. Kenneth Pace, aunt of the bride.

The bride's table was covered with an organza cloth and centered with a silver epergne of pink carnations and white stock. Presiding at the crystal punch bowl were Miss Judy May, cousin of the groom and Mrs. Leo Wall. Mrs. Jack May, aunt of the groom, served the wedding cake.

Others assisting with courtesies were Mrs. Walter Wilhite and Mrs. Wesley Davis. Tea girls were Misses Cindi Pace, Brenda Brasfield, cousins of the bride and Anne Matthews, cousin of the groom. Dale Maddox, brother of the bride, presented rice bags.

Special guests were Mrs. J. E. Brasfield, grandmother of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Dukes, grandparents of the groom.

Upon return from a wedding trip to New Orleans the couple will be at home at 3511 Madison. For travel the bride wore a light pink ensemble with white accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. The bride was graduated from Ouachita Parish high school. A graduate of Neville high school, Mr. Dukes is presently attending Northeast State College where he is a member of Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity.

Pants Suit For Fall Can Be Elegant Or Sportively Casual

By FLORENCE DE SANTIS

For next fall, the pants suit will become very elegant, or it will be sportively casual. Italian designers came up with such city ideas as a rain pants suit in orange poplin with a molded-look waist inset of bright yellow.

The jacket, with fly front and stand-up collar, has a slightly military look.

COVER STROLLER

If Baby's stroller must be left on the porch, cover it with a plastic cover made for wringer-type washers. Fits beautifully.

Naturally...

upon learning of the bereavement of anyone close to you, your first instinct is to express your sympathy as eloquently as possible.

There's A Church Home For You in the Twin Cities...

Anyone desiring to know the location of a church of any denomination in the Twin Cities and the time of its Sunday services may call The Morning World at 323-2070, 323-3660, 323-0501 and ask for the church service directory. We'll be glad to supply you the information.

Churches Owning Business Firms Face New Tax Drives

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government shortly will ask Congress to curb the tax exemptions that permit churches and charities to buy up going firms to be operated in competition with taxpaying businesses.

The wave of church purchases of unrelated businesses—such as the acquisition of the Real Form Girdle Co., Brooklyn, by the Cathedral of Tomorrow of Akron, Ohio—has raised alarms at the U.S. Treasury and among small business organizations.

Simultaneously, some cities and states are moving cautiously to restrict real estate tax exemptions on religious property which, across the country, is valued at an estimated $79.5 billion.

One authority has estimated that state and local governments are foregoing $1.6 billion in revenue annually under the property tax exemption—or $32 a year for every taxpaying family.

There are stirrings of sentiment among some religious groups in favor of voluntary tax contributions by churches, probably at lower rates than the regular levy. A few churches even have begun making such payments and the topic is alive in the religious press.

But that's a matter, most people agree, for long-term solutions. By contrast, the Treasury wants enactment this session of its proposed crackdown on the tax-exempt business investments of churches, charities and foundations.

How much revenue would this produce? The Treasury says it doesn't know. No one else does either, because churches and religious orders are not required to report their income.

A similar tax-tightening proposal failed last year. The new one, said a Treasury spokesman, will be modified in some respects. It will go to Congress separately from, and in advance of, the general package of tax "reform" proposals promised by President Johnson. On the latter, action is not expected until 1968.

The immediate targets are arrangements that tax lawyers call bootstrap sales and leasebacks. They are devices by which tax-favored groups can trade on, or capitalize, their exemptions.

Under the sale-and-leaseback arrangement, a church or charity buys a business, financing the purchase with a five-year mortgage. It then leases the plant back to the same operators.

It takes most of the earnings —say 800 per cent—of the business as rent, on which it is not taxed. It pays for the business by installments, out of the rent collections. Thus the term "bootstrap"; the business in effect buys itself.

MORE FROSTING

The Supreme Court put more frosting on the cake in 1965. In the case of one Clay B. Brown, who sold out his lumber mill to an institute for cancer research, the court held that Brown could treat the profits from the sale as capital gains, taxable at far below the income tax rate.

So everyone wins except Uncle Sam—Uncle Sam being all the other taxpayers, whose burden is increased.

To the charity or church, income from interest, dividends or royalties are in the tax-exempt category along with rentals received.

The church thus realizes greater earnings than a taxpaying operator could. It therefore can offer a higher price for a business. It takes no risk and needs little if any cash investment. There are numerous variations, but the bootstrap sale usually pays out in five years or less.

In the Brown case, the high court's majority said the remedy, if one is needed, is up to Congress.

The three judges who dissented, holding that the transaction was not a genuine sale, nevertheless agreed that congressional action is needed.

Otherwise, said their minority opinion: "The tax avoidance routes opened by the court's opinion will surely result in large-scale ownership of private businesses by tax-exempt organizations."

RUSH TO FULFILL

There's been a rush to make that prediction come true. Charities, churches and foundations have retained brokers to find businesses that will sell out. The Treasury has collected a display of advertisements from business papers—offers by institutions to buy going businesses.

Stanley S. Surrey, assistant secretary of the Treasury says the Treasury is "alarmed by this exploitation of the tax exemption privilege" and expresses hope for early congressional action to nip bootstrap sales.

The Treasury's plan is nearly ready. It would tax the income which charities, churches and other exempt organizations receive from property bought or improved with borrowed money, if the income is not related to the purpose on which the tax exemption was based.

The bill would not affect investments made out of a charity's own funds. Nor would it affect any borrowing that was intended to further the exempt purpose; for example, a church's borrowing to build a parish hall.

Neither would the bill after the situation which was the nub of the Clay B. Brown case—the grant of capital gains treatment to the seller. The Treasury feels this would take care of itself, if the bootstrap loophole were closed.

Other tax privileges could help churches amass formidable economic power, authorities have pointed out. For instance, the accumulation of investment wealth is not interrupted by inheritance taxes, for churches do not die. And real estate taxes are not payable on property used for church purposes; in many places, such purposes are liberally defined.

A warning that churches might be able to control the whole economy of the nation within the predictable future was sounded this spring by Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike. Writing in Playboy magazine, he proposed a formula for progressively steeper taxation of church property. Unless such steps are taken, he suggested, the church could again become "the target of revolutionary expropriation" by governments—as in ages past."

A Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. Richard Grider wrote in a widely quoted Wall Street Jornal article: "The Catholic church must be the biggest corporation in the United States. Our assets and real estate holdings must exceed those of Standard Oil, AT&T and U.S. Steel combined."

The Baptist Foundation of Texas—according to reports cited by Bishop Pike—increased its assets from $20 million to $53 million in 10 years by encouraging its tax-exempt capital to multiply.

Protestant, Orthodox, Mormon and Jewish church groups, like Catholics, can be found as owners of hotels, textile mills, factories, department stores and so on—down to car washes and second hand stores. In Chicago, one church group undertook to operate a garbage dump.

"How Firm a Foundation" was the headline used by the monthly Protestant magazine "Church and State" in reporting the 1965 purchase of Brooklyn's Real Form Girdle Co. by the nondenominational Cathedral of Tomorrow in Akron.

"If the Catholics, the Baptists, the Episcopalians weren't doing it, we wouldn't do it," said the Cathedral's Rev. Rex Humbard, as quoted in "Church and State." And the president of Unity Electronics agreed that the Cathedral had merely outbid a Catholic church in acquiring his company.

THE REV. RICHARD POWERS

Ordination Of Pastor Scheduled

The Rev. Richard C. Powers, a recent graduate from Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, who has accepted a call to become pastor of the Highland Presbyterian Church, West Monroe, will be ordained and installed today.

A commission appointed by Red River Presbytery on June 27 will perform the ordination and installation in Highland sanctuary today at 7 p.m.

The chairman of the commission is the Rev. William Hatcher, Red River Presbytery stated clerk. Dr. D. L. O'Neal, executive secretary of Presbytery, Choudrant, is a member of the commission.

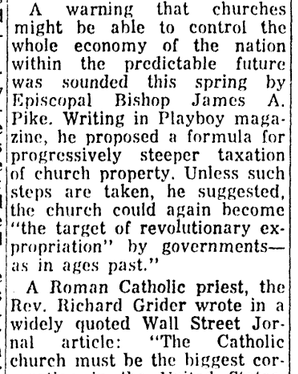
Other commission members are the Rev. G. P. Brown, First Presbyterian Church, Monroe, chosen to preach the sermon; the Rev. Robert M. Rogers, Rayville, to charge the congregation with its responsibilities; the Rev. Jeff Bean, Jonesville, to give the ordination prayer; and Ruling Elder R. S. Powers, Dallas, Texas, father of the new pastor, to charge the new pastor with his responsibilities. Other Ruling Elders of the commission are Noel Grower, Westminister; Nelson Abel, First Church, Monroe; Jesse McDonald, Covenant; and D. W. Reighney, Memorial West Monroe.

Following the ordination and installation, there is to be a reception for the new pastor and his wife, Carol, in Fellowship Hall of the church, under the direction of Advisory Deacon Mrs. D. C. Frantom, and the wives of the deacons.

Receiving the guests with the Rev. and Mrs. Powers will be Russell Wilson, elder and clerk of session; James V. Newburn, chairman of deacons; and Mrs. Harry Liner, president of the Women of the Church.

The Rev. Mr. Powers will be the second pastor of Highland since its organization in November, 1959. He received his bachelor of arts degree from the University of Texas in 1963, formerly attended Austin College in Sherman, and at the university, he was president of Westminster Student Fellowship. During the summer of 1965, he was a student pastor in Nashville, Arkansas. He and his wife are former members of the First Presbyterian Church in Dallas, Texas, and are residing in the manse at 1500 Elizabeth Street, West Monroe.

The elders and deacons have extended an invitation to all Presbyterians of this area to attend the ordination and installation and reception.



RICHARD ROGERS

R. Rogers Speaker For Campaign

The White's Ferry Road church of Christ in West Monroe will conduct a "Let the Bible Speak" Campaign, starting today and continuing through Sunday, July 23. The services will begin at 7:30 P.M. daily. Richard Rogers of Lubbock, Texas, will be the campaign speaker.

"The local television program Let the Bible Speak, sponsored by the White's Ferry Road church of Christ, has shown such interest and growth the church realized how much the area needed and wanted to hear more of the Bible preached," church officials said.

Mr. Rogers, a teacher of preachers, is an outstanding Bible scholar. Accompanying him will be approximately 30 of his preacher students from the Sunset School of Preaching.

Eight special, "Let the Bible Speak" television programs have been arranged so Mr. Rogers can assist by answering Bible questions, live, on television.

Spencer Baptists Set Homecoming

Spencer Baptist Church will hold its annual homecoming observance today. Lunch will be served at the regular noon hour.

Starting Monday, and continuing through Sunday, July 16, there will be a summer revival series. Services will start daily at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Troy Chapman is pastor of the church. The Rev. H. P. Tarpley of Fairbanks will be evangelist, and Glyn Ward will direct singing.

Churches Seek Survey Workers

Area Baptist churches will continue today enlisting volunteers to conduct a religious survey of the Twin Cities area by telephone later this month.

The Rev. A. C. Cantrell, pastor of New Chapel Hill Baptist Church and census committee chairman, said that a thousand persons are being sought to assist in making the survey. The volunteers will serve as telephoners, typists and processors in the effort to determine religious affiliations or preferences of parish residents.

Confident Living Daily Formula

Failure Is Not Necessary

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

It is amazing how some people insist on failing in life. I have seen many cases of perfectly competent people who got some compulsive failure complex and rode it to just that — failure. They did not understand why they were that way, and other people were aghast that anyone with potential ability could throw it away.

There was such a man in Nebraska. His wife was puzzled and almost beside herself. Her husband's ability was such that his business was, as she put it, "like an airplane ready to take off and fly. But just when everything is going good he does something that takes all the altitude out of it. And," she added, "he is far from dumb, but he does things so stupid that it almost gives the appearance of being deliberate."

PEALE

As a matter of fact, the so-called dumb things that he did were deliberate, unconsciously deliberate. When a person has a deep inner feeling of failure, but begins to succeed, the profound failure feeling sometimes does everything possible to protect itself and prevent potential success. Its method of operation is the employment of irrational actions designed to nip success and induce failure results.

WANTED TO BE EDUCATOR

Going into this case we found that this man's father had been forced to be a farmer, when actually he had wanted to be an educator. This made him a bitter spirit-broken person, and the son grew up in this atmosphere. The father noted in his son those sensitive quick - minded characteristics which made him a replica of himself. And by some devious, shall I say devilish, quirk of mind he also saw in the boy a rival who could be what he himself had wanted to be and he determined to break him. This was, of course, an unconscious attitude not admitted rationally.

Indeed now and then he actually showed a bit of love for his son. But he sneered at the boy calling him "stupid," "clumsy," "inept" — and since the boy was "dumb" it was a waste of time and money to send him to college. He was good only to be a handyman around the farm and not too handy at that. This emotionally sick father drove into the boy's consciousness a certainty that he would be a failure. So deeply imbedded was this conviction that, long after his father's death, and in a business of his own — one that had every potential — he often revealed the destructive ineptness that he had been assured he possessed.

UNDERSTANDING

When we acquainted this man with the curious psychological mechanism so long dominant in his mind he began for the first time to understand himself. And also he had a new understanding of his father that developed into compassion for a man who had suffered so acutely from emotional ill health. We taught him to view his father not as a father but as a pathetic and unhappy human being. Then came forgiveness of his conflicted parent. No sooner had the forgiveness been expressed than peace came to his mind.

"Your father wanted to succeed but failed so I suggest that you get busy and succeed — succeed for your father as well as for yourself. Maybe somewhere in the afterlife the unhappy man will be at peace and take pride in you."

Tears welled up in his eyes. "That is what I always wanted — my father to be proud of me."

"He was not really a cruel man," I said, "only a mixed-up, terribly unhappy person. But that is now in the past if you will leave it there."

Well, he did leave it there and went on to achieve the success of which he was eminently capable. Naturally the psychological wounds of a lifetime did not heal instantly but the twin factors of self-understanding and compassionate forgiveness eventually cured this man of inflicting failure upon himself.

If you are experiencing failure or if a greater success might be expected as a result of your effort and ability, make an in-depth study of yourself. Determine whether an unhealthy thought pattern may be defeating you. And if so, remember that it can be changed. Failure is not necessary.

Monroe Area Lab School Scheduled

The First Presbyterian Church of Monroe, Stubbs at N. 14th, will serve as host to the Monroe Children's Laboratory School starting Sunday, July 16, and continuing through Friday, July 21.

The Rev. G. Preston Brown is pastor of the host church, and Mrs. John Cale is director of christian education.

Attendance is open to present and prospective leaders, men and women, of pre-school (nursery and kindergarten) and elementary (grades 1-2, 3-4, and 5-6) children in the Presbyterian Synod of Louisiana. It also will be open to pastors and directors of Christian education. However, officials pointed out, visitors will not be permitted.

Children from the local church will be the lab students in the school. However, child care will not be provided as a part of the laboratory, officials said.

LABORATORY DIRECTOR

Miss Louanna Roach, special field representative, Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, Richmond, Va., will be educational director of the laboratory.

The Rev. George H. Ricks, regional director of christian education, Synod of Louisiana, Baton Rouge, will serve as administrator.

The team chairmen and teachers who will be on the laboratory staff include:

Nursery, Miss Mamie Heinz, Atlanta, Ga., chairman; Mrs. Dale Johnson, New Orleans, Kindergarten, Mrs. August Schmitt, New Orleans, chairman; Miss Amelia Hough, Shreveport. Grades 1-2, Mrs. C. K. Langham, New Orleans, chairman; Mrs. William Hefelfinger, Springhill, La. Grades 3-4, Mrs. E. K. Rudolph, Jacksonville, Fla., chairman; Mrs. H. D. Tucker, Shreveport. Grades 5-6, Mrs. Ed McCracken, Baton Rouge, chairman; the Rev. James Phillips, McGehee, Ark.

The 1967-68 Covenant Life Curriculum materials will be used in the laboratory school.

Registration will open at 3 p.m. on the first day of the school. The opening session will be at 4 p.m. on that day, Sunday, July 16, and orientation and planning for age groups will be from 4:15 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Sessions will start at 8:50 a.m. Monday through Friday during the school, and on Monday through Thursday will close at 3:30 p.m. Lunch will be served during the weekdays from 12:45 to 1:30 p.m. The school will close on Friday, July 21, following lunch.

Downsville Area Revival Slated

A series of revival meetings will start today at Downsville Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m. The services will continue twice daily Monday through Friday at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Isaac Patton, pastor of Brownville Methodist Church, West Monroe, will serve as evangelist. The Rev. Paul Cassels will be song leader. Pastor of the church, which is located on Highway 151, Downsville, is the Rev. Joe McLain.

HOMECOMING, REVIVAL

Litroe Baptist Church, Litroe, will hold its annual homecoming, Sunday, July 16. A series of revival services will be conducted during the period of July 17 - 23. Visiting evangelist will be the Rev. Fred W. Cory.

Dr. R. Dale Thomas, assistant professor of botony at Northeast Louisiana State College, will deliver messages today at 10:40 a.m. and 7 p.m. worship services at Lakeshore Baptist Church of Monroe, at Lakeshore and Camellia.

He is a native of Tennessee, and attended the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, and Carson Newman College, Jefferson City, Tenn. where he received his B.S. degree in 1958. In September 1958 he entered Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Wake Forest, N. C. After finishing Southeastern and some interim work he was accepted into the graduate school at the University of Tennessee where he received his Ph.D. in plant taxonomy (botony) in 1966.

PASTORAL WORK

Dr. Thomas was ordained to the Gospel Ministry in 1959 by the Antioch Baptist Church in Sevierville, Tenn. He did pastoral and mission work in Idaho during the summers of his seminary training. While doing his graduate work in Knoxville and prior to coming to Northeast in September 1966, he pastored the Mooresburg Baptist Church, Hawkins County, Tenn.

He is married to the former Barbara Gilliam who is also a native of Tennessee. They have two sons, Steven Dale Thomas and Scott Daniel Thomas. They live at 704 Camellia Drive and are members of the Lakeshore Baptist Church.

Guest Speaker Is Announced

Guest speaker for 11 a.m. service today at Memorial Presbyterian Church, N. 4th and Mill, West Monroe, will be Dr. D. L. O'Neal, Choudrant, executive secretary of Red River Presbytery.

The 7 p.m. service will not be held today, to allow members of the congregation to attend the ordination, installation, and reception of the Rev. Richard Powers at Highland Presbyterian Church in West Monroe.

EVANGELIST NETTIE PARHAM of Thomston, Ga., will be featured preacher in an old fashion Holy Ghost revival starting today at 7:30 p.m. and continuing daily at that time through Sunday, July 23. She will sing, preach and pray for the sick. Pastor of the church is the Rev. Leonard Sapp.

Rev. T. Mitchell Speaker Here

The Rev. A. T. Mitchell will fill the pulpit of the Southside Baptist Church in Monroe today for both morning and evening services. The Rev. L. E. Traxler, Sr., pastor of the church is on a vacation for a few days.

Having just completed serving for several months as interim pastor of the Columbia Heights Baptist church at Columbia, the Rev. Mr. Mitchell will fill pulpits of Monroe Baptist churches for the next few weeks.

Name Speakers

Guest speakers have been announced for today in three area Baptist churches.

Wade B. East, superintendent of the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home, will be pulpit guest at McClendon Baptist Church. Clarence Powell, director of cottage life at the Home, will be speaking at Ridge Avenue Baptist Church. Earl D. Mercer, Home public relations director, speaks at Rocky Branch Baptist Church.

Churches Generating More Pleas For Peace

NEW YORK (AP) — The churches are generating a swelling chorus in behalf of peace in Vietnam, many of them calling for a halt to the American bombing of North Vietnam.

Those urging an end to the bombardment range from Pope Paul VI to a growing succession of Protestant denominational conventions, in addition to the interdenominational National Council and World Council of Churches.

However, some communions have voiced support of U.S. policy in the war.

Others have appealed for renewed efforts at negotiations. Several have asked a stop by both sides to troop build-ups. Some have simply raised an anxious question mark.

It is a gnawing issue at meetings of governing bodies of the churches which assert a responsibility to reinforce the moral stance of the nation.

The subject also has caused sharp debate and keen friction in many religious bodies, including the withdrawal of at least one Jewish congregation from its national organization.

From several religious quarters, including the Methodist Council of Bishops, have come calls for a world summit meeting of religious leaders to join their influence in seeking to end the Southeast Asia conflict.

Also urging such an assemblage, Rabbi Dr. Marc H. Tanenbaum, of the American Jewish Committee, says it could "symbolize dramatically that the universal conscience of the people of the world cries out for an end to the war."

If it continues much longer, predicts the Rev. Dr. John C. Bennett, president of New York's Union Theological Seminary, "we shall have the greatest conflict between the churches and our government that we have ever had in time of war."

However, the war also produced sharp difference between churches, and in them. American Roman Catholic bishops have cited these differences, saying the U.S. position could be reasonably justified, but adding their "plea for peace."

The big Southern Baptist Convention last month backed continued U.S. military efforts in Vietnam until "an honorable and just peace" could be established.

Earlier, the Standing Conference of Eastern Orthodox Bishops expressed support for American policy in the war, saying it "is directed against the spreading of totalitarian, atheistic ideology and is justified as such."

However, numerous other denominations, in conventions this spring and early summer, have criticized conduct of the war.

The United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. voiced "deep misgivings at the policy of military escalation" and said, "It appears that the immediate need is an alternative to the bombing of North Vietnam."

The American Baptist Convention urged the United States to "stop the bombing" and asked both sides to halt "the build-up of troops" in the south.

The United Church of Christ, including Congregationalists, at its general synod, urged a "serious reappraisal" of the bombing and asked both sides to quit sending in more troops.

The Presbyterian Church U.S. (Southern) simply sounded a number of questions about present policy.

Pope Paul declared recently it was "necessary that bombing over the territory of the north should cease and it was necessary that at the same time the infiltration of arms and war materials into the south should cease."

The policy-making General Board of the National Council of Churches, a cooperative body of 34 American denominations with a total of 42 million members, called the bombing of the north "a block to negotiations."

"We therefore ask the U.S. government to stop this bombing," the board said, and also urged that the war issues be submitted to "collective, international judgment and action" through the United Nations.

The Executive Committee of the World Council of Churches, that includes 223 member denominations with a total of more than 350 million members, similarly called for a bombing halt, saying this might "break the current impasse" and lead to negotiations.

DR. LUMAN DOUGLAS

Southside Homecoming Observance

The director of the Methodist Area Council office of the Louisiana Conference, Dr. Luman E. Douglas, will be guest speaker today for the 15th homecoming observance at Southside Methodist Church, S. 4th at Temple Dr., it was announced by the Rev. Lea Joyner, pastor.

Dr. Douglas was instrumental in helping the church to be the first recipient of funds from the Thousand Club, and he has helped the church in many other ways, the pastor said.

Church officials issued the following statement for the event:

"The Fifteenth Homecoming is of great significance to the membership of this church. It has grown to a membership of 1218 averaging more than 50 on Profession of Faith each year. The property is now valued at approximately $260,000.00 with an indebtedness of $39,500.00. The Rev. Lea Joyner has been the pastor since the organization of the church.

"The church is fully organized according to the Discipline of the Methodist Church. The people are showing a continual spirit of dedication to Christ and His Church. This dedication is reflected in the attendance, lay participation, interest in the community activities, as well as in the decision of four young men who are in the process of becoming ministers of the gospel. Leadership on both district and conference levels has come from this church for which we are grateful.

"Southside Methodist Church, organized July 13, 1952, has continued to have a ministry to the people of this area. The church now has four preaching services each Sunday with an active Church School and five M.Y.F. groups in the afternoon. We have already begun to think about plans for a new sanctuary which is increasingly becoming a need.

"We hope many of our friends will join us for the services at 10:50 A.M. with Dr. Douglas preaching. There will not be an 8:30 service this particular day.

"At 12:30, dinner, prepared by the membership of the church, will be served to our many guests inside the building.

"Beginning at 1:30 p.m. a musical program, directed by Jack Hesketh, will be presented. The five choirs of the church will participate."

GOSPEL MEETINGS

A series of Gospel meetings will be held at the Church of Christ at Haile, starting Monday and continuing through Sunday, July 16. The local evangelist, V. W. Hayhurst, will do the preaching, using charts, blackboard and flannelgraph. Services will start daily at 7:30 p.m.

Home-Garden Week Planned

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

You, Mrs. Gardner, are invited to attend two days of gardening programs at Home and Garden Week August 22 - 24 on LSU campus. So be sure to mark these dates on your August calendar. The gardening programs will take place in the lovely LSU Union Theater which is air conditioned. The dormitories are available for you to stay overnight. . The only cost is a registration fee of $1.00. Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock there will be a guest flower arranger and at 3:45 p.m. there will be a tea in the Cotillion Ballroom.

The Wednesday program consists of lecture and demonstration at 8:30 a.m. on Community Beautification. At 10 a.m. Misses Sandra Andries and Mary Douglas will give a demonstration on charming House Plants. Fred Schmitz deals with Staghorn Ferns and Mrs. A. C. Lambard will give a demonstration on the Ballad of the Tri Color. There will be a tour in the afternoon.

Thursday a.m. at 8:30, Stan Tatum will give a demonstration on Planning and Developing the Living Terrace. Mrs. Mable Hillsmeyer will give a lecture on Furniture and Accessories for the living terrace. At 10 a.m. Mrs. Stanely Callais will give instructions on Patio Decorating and Entertaining. Bill Welch, Extension assistant horticulturist, is in charge of the gardening program and I know you, Mrs. Gardener, will enjoy the demonstrations and lectures which he has planned for you.

FREEZING

Many, many homemakers have been calling our office regarding blanching vegetables. Someone has given information quite contrary to our research information. We do not have information except that all vegetables must be blanched (scalded) in boiling water. Practically every vegetable, except green pepper, maintains better quality in frozen storage if heated (blanched) before packaging. Blanching also stops the action of enzymes. Until vegetables are ready to pick, enzymes help them grow and mature. If vegetables are not blanched (scalded) the enzymes continue to be active during frozen storage. This will cause off - flavors, loss of color and loss of texture. So if you, Mrs. Homemaker, want a good quality of frozen vegetables, be sure to blanch them.

CLEANING UPHOLSTERY

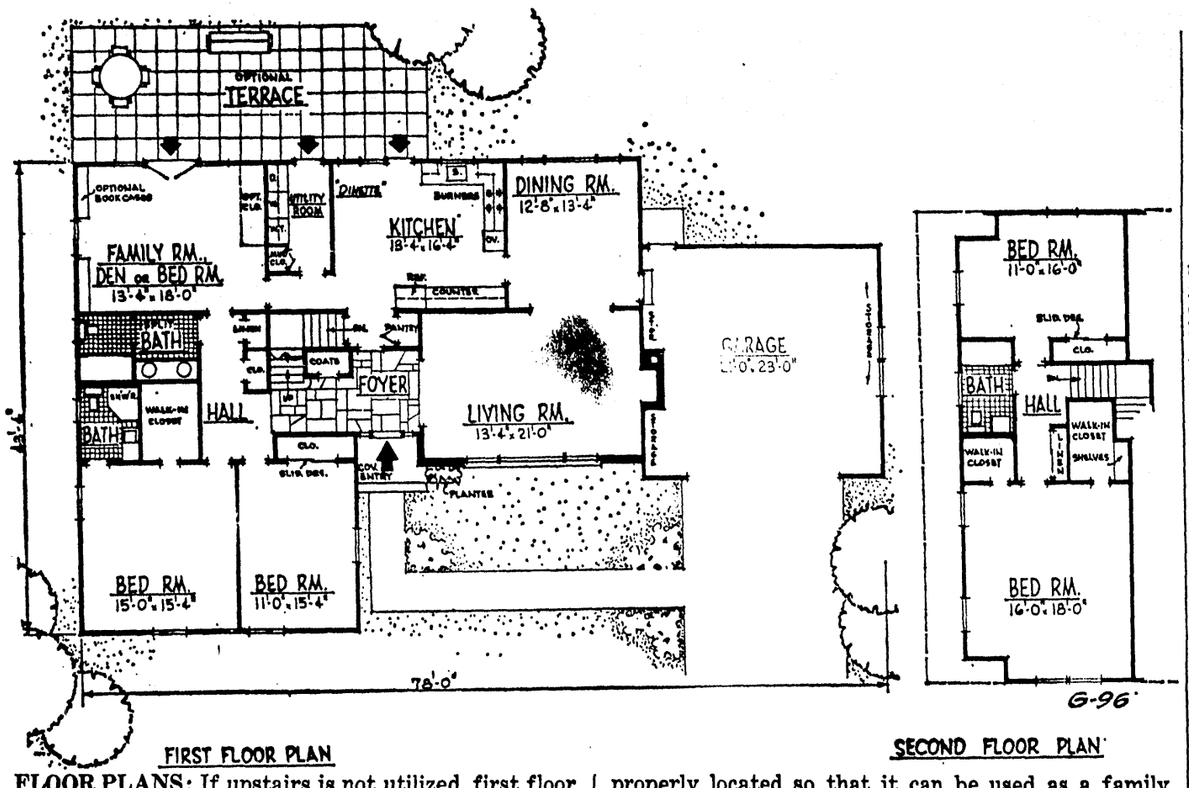
Cleaning upholstered furniture in the home is not a hard job if you know your fabric and follow recommended cleaning methods. All upholstered fabric should be vacuumed first to remove loose dirt. After thoroughly vacuuming pile fabrics, brush against the nap with a whisk broom or brush. If the fabric is of a fast color, sponge with a clean cloth dipped in a solution of warm water and detergent. Then wipe lightly with a cloth dampened with warm water. To get the nap back to the upright position, brush the surface in the direction of the nap. Flat surfaces should not be cleaned with soap and water. After the surface has been vacuumed, go over the piece lightly with a cloth dampened with a solvent cleaner.

TIPS ON TANNING

Guard your complexion from the drying effects of sun and windburn because tanning ages the skin. Try this: Wash your face with soapsuds to remove perspiration, oil and stale cosmetics which can clog pores and produce blemishes. Then mix some baby oil with soap lather for a lubricating masque. Massage this over your face gently with upward motions and let it remain for five minutes or so, then rinse it away with warm water, ending up with a cold splash.

A THOUGHT

It's right to be contented with what you have but never with what you are.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN — SECOND FLOOR PLAN

FLOOR PLANS: If upstairs is not utilized, first floor of this house is well laid - out for a family requiring only two or three bedrooms. Room at rear left is properly located so that it can be used as a family room, den or an extra bedroom.

Old Tradition Carried On Via Stamps

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newsfeatures

Although located on the island of Formosa, the Republic of China postal authorities still carry on the traditions and heritage of their ancient civilization via its postage stamps.

This was noted on the latest set of four stamps issued by the Republic of China to honor four of China's most famous poets in commemoration of "Poets Day," reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. Poets Day is celebrated on the fifth day of the fifth moon (it was June 12 this year) — the anniversary of the death of poet Chu Yuan.

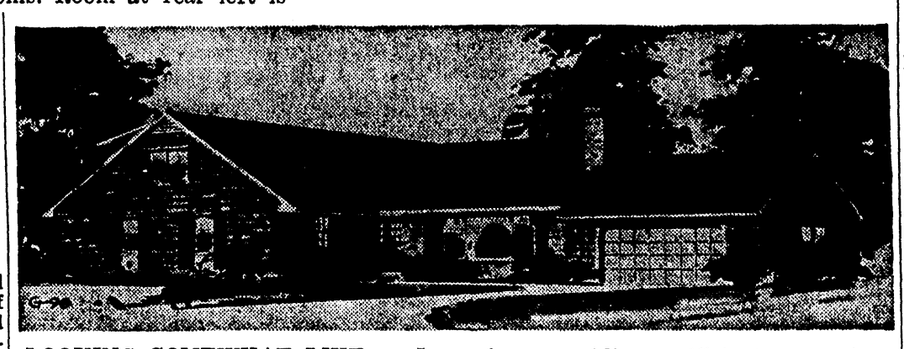
The set consists of a $1 (Taiwan currency) picturing Chu Yuan (322-295 BC), a $2 depicting Li Po (705-762 AD), a $2.50 showing Tu Fu (712-770 AD) a a $3 illustrating Po Chu-i (772-846).

These stamps are available at your local stamp dealer.

A Bermuda stamp issued in 1861 was purchased in London recently for $5,500. The stamp is known as the "Perot Crowned Circle" and there are only five such stamps known to be in existence. The stamp is so rare that Queen Elizabeth's collection, considered to be one of the finest in the world, does not have one. Oddly enough, the stamp was said to have been discovered in a deed box within an envelope marked "1861 stamp."

Canada will mark the 50th anniversary of the Canadian Press by issuing a new 5 cent stamp on Aug. 31. The new stamp will feature an oblate spheroid in which is contained a map centering the western hemisphere. Superimposed on this area is a strip, pointed at each end, on which appears "Anniversary 50 Anniversaire." The word "Canada" appears atop the stamp and the words "The Canadian Press" and La Presse Canadienne" can be seen at the bottom.

Pakistan has issued a new 15 paisa stamp to celebrate the awarding of the Hilal-i-Isteqlal citation to the city of Lahore by the President of Pakistan and to the cities by Sialkot and Sargodha by the governor of West Pakistan. The coveted Pakistani award was presented for valor by the cities mentioned during the Indo-Pakistan War in September 1965.



LOOKING SOMEWHAT LIKE an L-shaped ranch, this inviting house actually is a partial two-story, with the second floor only over the bedroom wing, providing sufficient expansion area for a family needing two extra bedrooms.

Sufficient Expansion Area In Partial Two-Story House

By ANDY LANG

The L shape of this house not only adds interest to the exterior, but makes possible what might be called an economical expansion.

With the bedroom wing running the depth of the house, architect Herman H. York has provided an expansion area above that wing. The remainder of the house, comprising the living room, dining room, kitchen and foyer, is really a one-story unit, avoiding the extra expense that would be incurred if there were a full second-story.

The net result of all this is an extremely flexible arrangement, permitting a family to have two, three, four or five bedrooms as it desired. If it required only two bedrooms on the first floor, it could use the unfinished attic for storage or, if necessary, add two upstairs bedrooms at a later date. If three bedrooms on one floor were the requirement, the room designated on the floor plan as "family room, den or bedroom" would be utilized for sleeping. It is strategically located for any purpose, being at one end of the bedroom hall and near the main bath, yet accessible to both the kitchen and the rear terrace.

SPACE APLENTY

A walk-in closet and a private bath are in the sizable master bedroom. Even the smallest bedroom has 168 square feet of floor area.

Moving through the covered entry into the spacious foyer, the view to the right includes the full living room, with a fireplace at the far end, and a portion of the adjacent dining room. Although the kitchen lies directly behind the foyer, only the dinette area is immediately visible, the working part of the kitchen being hidden from view. Between the kitchen and the family room is a laundry large enough for a washer, dryer, tub and mud closet, as well as space for an ironing board. There are three entrances to the rear terrace — from the family room, laundry area and kitchen.

Two bedrooms, a bath and a large amount of closet space are planned upstairs. One of the bedrooms is 16' by 11', with the other a big 18' by 16'.

SUGGESTED USE

Architect York has suggested the exterior use of masonry, either brick or stone, in the center between the bedroom and garage projections. He points out that stopping the brick on an inside corner has an advantage in that it does not reveal the depth of the material as it does on an outside corner. If a limited amount of brick is desirable, it should be used as a simple large rectangular pattern rather than spread along below the windows.

Wood shingles, either sawn or lightly hand-split, should contrast with the brick; that is, if the brick is dark, the shingles might be painted white, or if light brick or stone is used, the shingles might be left in their natural cedar color.

The roof can be either light or dark, depending for contrast on the color of the sidewalls. In any case, simplicity should be the keynote when color and texture are involved.

Dimensions of the basic house are 55' by 43'4", with the two-car garage shown in the floor plan adding 23' to the width.

Garden Center Notes

Yule Theme In Summer

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

"Christmas in July" was the theme of last Wednesday's program for the Fifth District Garden Center located at Sear's, 1501 Louisville Ave.

This was a repeat program, by popular request, from one that was presented just exactly a year ago. The Christmas Wreath made from tin can lids proved to be quite sensational. I feel that it has created so much interest that I should devote the column to it entirely. So here are the directions for you if you are one of the interested ones and hope to get started now so that your finished wreath will be ready to display for Christmas.

DIRECTIONS

1. Save all lids (tops and bottoms) from all sizes of cans. Save a few whole cans (leaves are made from the sides of the can).
2. Carefully wash and dry thoroughly each lid as it is collected and toss in a cardboard box. If stored wet they will rust and you cannot use them.
3. Collect buttons that are decorative (with rhinestones or bright colors) with the shank on back for wire to go through. Old costume jewelry (pins and ear screws) is good to use.
4. A roll of heavy household wire is needed to fasten the lid petals together and stick flowers into the styrafoam wreath.
5. A styrafoam wreath, 16, 18, or 20 inches, with square or flat surface.
6. Needle nose pliers (for shaping petals after cut).
7. Tin cutters with special cushioned handles (don't economize on this tool).
8. Small hammer (wooden or plastic) with ice pick to stick holes in center of lid. Place on small wooden block, two by three inches. Make two holes near center of lid.
9. Soft work gloves to protect hands.
10. White household glue. All stems are placed in the glue before sticking them into wreath. Pour glue into small deep glass to make work easier.
11. Crystal clear spray, paint (clear shellac). Spray all flowers before placing them into wreath to protect against rust. Two coats are sufficient.
12. Ninety or more flowers are needed for an 18 inch wreath. About 150 leaves are needed for this size wreath to fill in around the flowers. The leaves are made from the sides of the cans, then shaped with the pliers to make them more natural. Stick the ends into the glue before sticking into wreath.
13. Two packages of crepe paper 20 inches wide by five feet long, gold fireproof. Cut into four inch strips and wrap the wreath after wiring on a cardboard back and wrapping a strong wire around and looped for hanging. Use florist's staples to fasten paper to wreath. These should also be placed into the glue beforehand.

OTHER DETAILS

General directions for making the flowers: Cut wires about five inches in length for each flower. String button on first. Next, string on a small piece of the curly type brass cleaning pad. Next string on the petals beginning with the smaller group graduating each round of petals having the outer around the largest. Some flowers have three to five rows of petals. For a rose there should be from three to five rows of petals. Dogwood blooms would require only one lid. Be creative and make up your own flower designs. Each wreath should contain an assortment of many kinds of flowers as well as many different sizes.

Mrs. Gates displayed two wreaths on the program. The last was one that took her only one month to make. The more you work with them the quicker you are able to put them together—so just keep trying. Enjoy each step as you work. Working with a friend makes it more enjoyable — like a quilting party.

A 12 - inch size wreath was displayed on the program by Mrs. Evelyn Smith of Monroe. This is a lovely wreath, a true work of art that would be lovely on a dinner table as well as for a door decoration. Mrs. Smith said she truly enjoyed making this wreath in her spare time. I'm sure she has already started on her second one.

For further information about the making of this wreath come into the center during the hours of 10 A.M. to 4 P.M., Tuesday through Friday — or give me a call.

Meeting announced: All club presidents of Fifth District Federation please attend a meeting in Columbia, July 25th, at the Columbia Height's Baptist Church, at 2 p.m. Mrs. W. M. Causey, fifth district director, will preside. Also, all district chairmen are urged to attend this meeting.

If you have not already done so please send in the name of your new club president to Mrs. W. M. Causey, Columbia, La., and to Mrs. John Tolar, Fifth District Garden Center, c-o Sears, 1501 Louisville Ave., Monroe.

Southern Gardener

More Beauty In Lily Realm

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

All kinds of flowers are called "lilies", but botanically speaking, only the Genus Lilium are true lilies. Daylilies are hemerocallises. Red spiderlilies are lycorises. Our wild white spiderlilies that bloom in wet places in summer are hymenocallises. Writers used to indicate the non-lilies by using a hyphen between the two parts of these names, e. g., spider-lily, but Standardized Plant Names seems to have done away with this useful convenience. As a matter of fact, Standardized Plant Names ignores our southern names for a lot of things. Thank goodness we southerners refuse to be standaridized!

Recently I attended the International Lily Show at the botanical garden in Norfolk. The leaders of the lily world were there. The west coast people like Jan de Graff had shipped gorgeous stalks of their finest new creations to Norfolk and then made them open for us. All of those luscious yellows they are bringing out these days with green outsides are the ones that get me. They look like Pan, just stepping out of the woods. Gardening magazines carry beautiful pictures of them all through the year, but the real flowers are too much to believe.

NEW LILIES

We heard a lecture on the breeding of new lilies from the common old Chinese tiger lily introduced by the British East India Company to England. To us gardeners, especially to us in the south, this is one of the few really tough lilies that we can grow. However, lily lovers know that this old favorite must go from your garden if you wish to grow certain other fine lilies because our old friend is a "carrier" of a virus disease to which it is immune, but which the other lilies will catch from it!

TO RESCUE

The gorgeous old tiger lily is now going to come to our rescue in the form of disease-free hybrids that will grow well here in the South without harming the other lilies.

Southern gardens have been full of the different forms of the Easter lily since its introduction by our great grandparents. The madonna lily had always been popular, too. Next in popularity was the tiger mentioned above. Then came the regal lily and then the Philippine lily in its tall and its low forms at the end of summer. Now the lily breeders have begun to offer us more and more kinds that will succeed in our hot climate. They are all worth trying in your garden.

Lilies are more like perennials than they are like bulbs. They are tougher than you think. They can be taken up with their soil and moved about in the garden like a clump of dahlias or irises. Next week, we shall discuss some of their soil requirements.

Art On Your Walls Can Be Your Project

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature Writer

Here's a thought for stay - at-home vacationers: Discover your artistic quotient and decorate your home with your own interpretation of art.

Why not? People are paying fantastic prices for what is laughingly referred to as "art." Your efforts might be more acceptable to your neighborhood and friends than the expensive canvasses loaded with dots, lines, circles or squares that your own social set doesn't dig.

You can't paint, sculpt, draw, but you can use paper, scissors and a pot of paste. For example, the art of decoupage and collage offer unlimited opportunities to imaginative homemakers.

Libraries have books outlining the procedures. Decoupage and collage are similar. Decoupage is the use of cutouts to embellish something, and was used early in Europe where screens, furniture and boxes were decorated over-all with designs. It is used also with a variety of materials to envolve a scene. Birthday cards, lace doilies, sea shells, sands and even cigar bands may be blended to form the design.

Collage involves using papers, fabrics and other materials put on a picture surface. Museums exhibit street scenes, seascapes, birds in flight and so on, all done by evolving the design with paper or other materials.

BEAUTIFUL WORKS

Comtemporary artists — Jean Miro, Picasso, Jean Arp, Matisse and many others have evolved beautiful works in collage, drawing, of course, on their great knowledge of composition.

An artist gets an idea and instead of using his paint brush to execute it, he uses other materials, pasting them down to create his picture, often impressionistic or abstract.

If you want a big work of art for your fireplace, collage may provide the answer.

One homemaker, observing the geometrical designs in colors used to create design at one museum, tried her own hand at it. The background was papered in a midnight blue and the design was a rainbow of small opalescent colored discs of tissue paper about the size of 50-cent pieces overlapping in an arc shape. It is really quite exciting. Many artists use newspapers, wrapping paper. textured and gift wrap papers to formulate artistic expression.

"LIVEN" WALLS

Many talented homemakers have used decoupage to liven up their walls by decorating paper plates. When these intricate designs are done painstakingly and lacquered, they look like very rare porcelain plates and make very interesting decoration when grouped on a wall.

You don't need to put all your artistic effort on the wall to enjoy it.

A few years ago, a manufacturer of lamps did some very lovely lamp bases by employing decoupage called potichomania used in France and England in the 18th Century.

The decoupage used in these were lined with pasted cutouts by people who wanted to portray the illusion of handsomely decorated ware they couldn't afford. The American manufacturer used very delicate looking flowers in his glass containers. This idea could be very useful in doing a glass-topped coffee table. The cutouts should be put on a background that is complimentary to the design before being affixed to glass.

If you are good at using colors, you may evolve a simple abstract design on canvas by using just two or three colors in a composition. If you think it is good, that is all that matters. Some years ago people spent days admiring a painting at a well-known museum, until one onlooker discovered that the painting was upside down.

...On Dit...

by Marillyn Taylor

Long hot summertime — and what better time for entertaining visitors from out of town? Monroe's renowned hospitality combined with watery days at D'Arbonne and on the Ouachita make hot weather memorable for guests.

Popular visitors here this week were FAY and J. D. WINK, former Monroyans here with their respective mothers, MRS. E. B. TODD and MRS. IVYE WINK. With their sons, JAY and KEVIN, the Winks now live in Westfield, New Jersey.

A monthly couples' card club which formerly included the Winks met with them for dinner last Saturday night at the home of CHARLOTTIE and BILL DENT. Guests were seated at two tables: a larger one for eight, plus a quartet table nearby. Centering the large table was a hurricane glass on its side holding horizontal arrangement of summer flowers in pink, yellow, and white. A smaller nosegay of the same blossoms decorated the other table. Decoration in the den was a large glass compote filled with white gladioli, stock, and mums.

Menu served to twelve included turkey with dressing, seasoned green beans, apricot and strawberry congealed salad, French bread, and for dessert, luscious mocha cake.

Former neighbors of the Winks were invited for Sunday night supper at the home of CHARLOTTE and ROBERT BRIGHT on Spencer. Ten adults were seated at the dining room table, which was covered with a cut work cloth and centered with summer flowers in shades of yellow and white. Six young people made up the party at the family dining table. Charlotte served barbecue beef with all the trimmings, parfait for dessert.

Thursday evening, DIB RLE and BARNEY PATE invited some fifteen couples to a dessert and coffee party honoring the Winks. The affair was held in the Pate home on Francis Place. Dessert buffet was served from the family dining table, which was decorated with a fresh fruit arrangement using green grapes, lemons and limes. Chocolate cake, lemon supreme, and "pluck ing cake" comprised the selection.

An open house at the JIM FAUCETT residence was planned by the Faucetts and MARGE and JOHN MULLENS as compliment to the Winks and to PAT and JACK MADDEN, visiting here from Brevard, North Carolina. About one hundred guests were invited to the affair from seven until nine on Friday evening.

A silver and crystal epergne filled with pink roses, gladioli, and crepe myrtle centered the dining table. Yellow zinnias and gladioli decorated the den. Goodies served included ham balls, cheese roll, chocolate squares, lemon slices, and jelly drop cookies.

Another former Monroe couple, FRAN and FED McCROCKLIN visiting from Sao Paulo, Brazil were honored at a supper last Friday evening. GINNY and BUD COLLETT, Margie and John Mullens were co-hosts for the party at the Collett home on Lake D'Arbonne. The McCrocklins who have been in town off and on for the past three weeks, are now visiting relatives in Mansfield, plan to return to Brazil next week.

Twenty-four guests were seated at two tables for twelve. Each table was covered with a white cloth bordered with hot pink, orange, and yellow flowers. Centering each was an arrangement of dahlias and zinnias in shades of pink, orange, and yellow.

These chosen colors were also repeated in candles in black iron holders and in the bright napkins at each place. The menu featuring Southern specialties included baked ham, cheese grits, fresh green beans, marinated tomatoes and cucumbers, and cheese biscuits. For dessert, angel food cake topped with ice cream and fresh peaches.

Some thirty members of the soon to be college set gathered at convenient spots last Saturday afternoon at the home of [illegible] SHAW on Loop Road for entertained compliment honoring her guest, ELEANOR GOLDMAN, from Miami, Watermelon was the menu.

Gathering the dining room as it was a perfect setting for the with pink and green cake [illegible] leaves. With bottles of [illegible] a variety of cheese [illegible] sandwiches, chocolate mint squares, pecan cookies, cheese straws, and Ritz bits.

Past members of the college set were on hand to greet the [illegible] JUNE PHELPS last Saturday afternoon. SNOW ARMSTRONG was hostess at her home on Stubbs Road honoring her houseguests, [illegible] left for home in Clio and Selma on Wednesday after a week's visit here.

Here as guests of MARY ALICE and D. A. COPPEN were her sister, JENA SHACKHAM, with son BILL SHACKHAM and CHERYL WILLETTS, all of New Orleans. They arrived last Saturday, were here until Wednesday.

Highlight of their visit was a [illegible] party at the JACK TOM JACKSON camp on D'Arbonne. In addition to the out of town guests, ten children and all the [illegible] spent the day with the Jackson. Picnic buffet, which ran throughout the day, included fried fish, Cole slaw, Brownies, butterscotch squares, and assorted cakes.

Another favorite spot for outdoor types over the Fourth was, as always, the Ouachita river. MARTHA and STEWART SCOTT were hosts for a spend-the-day party aboard their boat. Other families included in the outing were the BILL DURRETTS, E. P. CHAPMANS, and BOB ANDERSONS.

Off this week for a fabulous trip are CECIL and ARMAND BREARD. They are to meet their party in Denver, and are scheduled to depart Wednesday by chartered jet for the British Isles, travelling the Great Circle route. First stop is to be Dublin, Ireland, where they will stop at the Hilton Intercontinental and visit the Lakes of Killarney, Dublin castle, and St. Patrick's cathedral.

From there, they plan to fly to Edinburgh headquarters from a swing through Scotland, seeing various points of interest. They will stay at Gleneagles, castle-turned-hotel, famous for its golf greens.

In London, they have reservations at the London Hilton, and plans to visit all the outstanding places in town and nearby villages, Oxford, Stratford, and Warwick. Even their evening entertainment is planned, with a night at the Palladium Music Hall, and dinner and floor-show at the Talk of the Town scheduled. This is the fourth trip (out of a possible five) to be won by the Breards, who will be travelling as guests of a business machine company.

Home again after a trip to that children's paradise, Six Flags over Texas, are ANN and ROBERT RIDDLE, their son DAVID RIDDLE, and guest JACKIE RATLIFF. The four went over last weekend and were guests at the Howard Johnson motel while visiting the amusement park.

Invitations were in the mail this week for the annual summer party of MONROE CITY PANHELLENIC. This organization, made up of alumnae of national Panhellenic sororities, entertains each year those girls who will be entering colleges with chapters of their respective groups. Representatives of each sorority will be present to talk with the girls. This year's party is planned for this coming Tuesday afternoon, July 11, at Bayou DeSiard Country club, 3 p.m.

The reward of a thing well done is to have done it.

The only gift is a portion of theyself.

Whoso would be a man must be a non-conformist.

There is a best way of doing everything, if it be to boil an egg.

The things taught in collges schools are not an education, but a means of education.

The years teach much which the days never know.

Though we travel the world over to find the beautiful, we must carry it with us or we find it not.

The days come and go like muffled and veiled figures sent from a distant friendly party; but they say nothing, and if we do not use the gifts they bring, the carry them as silently away.

A LITTLE three - man submarine—only 17 feet long—is one of the few deep-diving submersibles exploring the ocean's depths. The Deepstar 4,000 can withstand depths up to 4,000 feet. Here Robert Bradley, a Depstar pilot, right, oversees the Deepstar, with three men aboard, being hoisted by crane back onto its surface support vessel, Search Tide, after a dive 1,000 feet down to the bottom of an undersea canyon in the Gulf of Mexico 70 miles southwest of Panama City, Fla. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Studies Of Gulf Of Mexico Are Turning Up Vital Information

By JIM STROTHMAN

ABOARD THE DEEPSTAR 4,000 (AP) — Oozing over a filmy, furrowed sea bottom 1,000 feet deep in a Gulf of Mexico canyon, the egg-shaped submarine slid down the side of a steep pit.

"We have found an enormous hole, six to eight feet deep and eight to ten feet across," submarine pilot Ronald Church calmly reports into a tape recorder microphone. "It's almost incredible — certainly caused by some type of current action."

Church put the sumbarine's twin propeller motors in reverse. The vessel backed out of the pit as smooth as silk, then headed another direction to continue its scientific search amid grotesque, yet beautiful, marine life found only at great depths.

It's a typical day aboard the Deepstar 4,000, the first in a family of free-swimming submersibles built by Westinghouse Electric Corp.'s Underseas Division. The three-man submarine gets its name from the fact that it can work at depths up to 4,000 feet.

The submersible, built to withstand 2,000 pounds of pressure per square inch, is one of only a few deep-diving scientific vessels now in existence.

The men who pilot these submarines know they are only beginning to uncover the vast scientific knowledge waiting to be found deep in the world's oceans.

"Everytime we go down there we see something new," said Robert Bradley, another Deepstar pilot.

On this particular day Deepstar's goal was the abyss of the DeSoto Undersea Canyon 1,000 feet below the Gulf of Mexico surface about 70 miles southwest of Panama City, Fla. It was a 20-minute plunge.

Using bottom-sounding instruments as a guide, the pilot releases a hunk of lead 160 feet above the sea floor — making Deepstar 4,000 about 50 pounds lighter and almost buoyant. The ship levels off, then settles slowly to the ocean bottom.

The Gulf of Mexico floor is a barren desert, looking much like the pocked surface of the moon as seen in pictures taken by lunar-landing spacecraft.

Marine life had adapted to this desolate existence. The most common fish have narrow eel-like bodies that need little food to support. Their heads are large so when food does swim by, they rarely miss snatching it in their big mouths.

"There are twice as many fish in deep waters of the gulf than there are in the Pacific," observed Church, who piloted many lengthy dives in both places. "But the Pacific is more prolific with marine life near the surface, probably because the gulf gets sediment and silt" from rivers and communities encircling it.

Deepstar pilots said they spotted giant broadbill swordfish on previous dives in the same area and speculated that this information "could lead to a new swordfish fishery" on Florida's West Coast.

Deepstar 4,000-like many scientific submersibles — is equipped with a mechanical arm and flower-petal-shaped hand that can snatch starfish, shellfish or other specimens from the sea floor and drop them into an extendable basket outside the submarine.

Church said information is freely swapped among ocean scientists around the nation.

"Once you dive down there," one Deepstar technican observed, "you fall in love with the sea. It's exciting. It's beautiful. It's like a woman you never want to leave."

"I'm basically a biologist," added Church. "Deep-diving is one thing most biologists don't get. I can observe behavior of fish never before known. There's one species, for example, which marine scientists previously thought sat upright on the ocean bottom. I went down there and discovered it squashes out on the bottom like a pancake."

Church, an expert photographer, started in the diving business 15 years ago as a scientific diver with Scripps Institution of Oceanography at the University of California. When he is off at sea, his wife stays at their San Diego, Calif., home near where Westinghouse's Underseas Division builds and tests its submersibles.

"You never see the same situation twice," Church explained.

"There is a distinct difference in marine life everywhere you dive. A different variety will live at a spot just two miles away from one type of fish, and different varieties live at different depths."

"The biggest restriction today is that the industry is young and the cost of operating these submersibles high," D.K. Ela, Deepstar program manager for Westinghouse, said in an interview.

"But the potential is enormous for geological, archeological and biological studies. Submersibles can investigate the bottom structure and the water between the bottom and the surface," Ella noed.

"And if we're ever going to exploit resources in the ocean-oil, fish harvests, minerals—then the ocean bottom has to be surveyed," he said.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Taxing The Wages Of Sin

Have you swindled anyone lately? Collected any ransom? Taken any illegal kickbacks? Embezzled any cash? Then, in addition to whatever other problems you may have with the law, you also owe income tax to the federal government.

It may seem strange for the government to levy an income tax on such ill-gotten gains. Indeed, wrongdoers have carried their objections into the courtroom, arguing —as did the proprietress of a bawdyhouse—that the wages of sin are not taxable.

But the government retorts that, if honest people have to pay a tax on their income, so should dishonest people. In the words of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes:

"Congress may tax what it also forbids."

Of course, a lawbreaker may not report—or even keep records of—his income. Nevertheless, the government has various ways of establishing its case. For example:

one gambler's income was proven by his bank deposits;

another's gambler's income was proven by the commissions he paid to his confederates;

If a wrongdoer must pay a tax on his income, may he at least deduct his expenses? If they are "Ordinary and necessary" costs of doing business, they may usually be deducted — even if the business is illegal. Thus, a court held that a bookmaker was entitled to deduct costs of rent and wages in figuring his net income.

But suppose the expense itself is illegal, like paying a bribe to a public official. That kind of an expense is not deductible.

The government takes the position that it would be bad public policy to let a person cut down his tax bill on the basis of his own unlawful act.

By the same token, a fine paid for violating a state or a federal law is also not a deductible expense (although the attorney's fee is). True, paying the fine may be one of the costs of doing business. But, as the United States Supreme Court put it, allowing the fine to be deducted would take some of the 'sting" out of the punishment.

Papal Audiences

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI will suspend special and private audiences for the summer starting July 16, the Vatican announced, but general weekly audiences will continue to be held at 11 a.m. Wednesdays. These will be in the courtyard in his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo after he goes there toward the end of July to stay until around Sept. 10.

Jim Garrison Reciprocates This Week

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison, whose assassination investigation has been the target of recent criticism, may have most of the say this week.

Garrison laid the groundwork for a busy week Friday and Saturday by issuing one arrest warrant and two grand jury subpoenas and agreeing to appear on a national television program.

In quick succession, Garrison:

—Obtained an arrest warrant for Walter Sheridan, a key investigator in a National Broadcasting Company report critical of Garrison.

—Issued subpoenas to William Gurvich, his own former investigator, and to prisoner John Cancler, both critics of the probe.

—Agreed to accept a half hour of television time next Saturday night to answer NBC statements about his investigation.

NBC last month produced a special report in which it said that its own investigation showed Garrison had used false testimony and phony evidence to obtain an indictment against businessman Clay L. Shaw.

Garrison said that Sheridan attempted to bribe Perry Raymond Russo, the Baton Rouge, La., insurance salesman who testified against Shaw in a preliminary hearing last March.

Shaw is expected to go to trial in early September. He was indicted in March on a charge of conspiring with the late David W. Ferrie and Lee Harvey Oswald to kill President Kennedy in 1963.

Sheridan was not believed to be in New Orleans. NBC issued a statement in New York denying that Sheridan had attempted to bribe Russo.

Egypt Income Takes Big Dip During Year

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt's income from exports in the new fiscal year was estimated Saturday at $563.5 million, which would mean a drop of $29.9 million from the previous year.

The newspaper Al Ahram said exports of $276 million in cotton were expected. A year ago cotton exports were $333.5 million.

Egypt's fiscal year runs from July 1 to June 30.

Al Ahram, which is closely linked to the government, said the new foreign-exchange budget reflected the government's closure of the Suez Canal and a slump in tourist traffic because of the Middle East crisis.

Diplomatic experts estimate that the Suez closure cost Egypt a monthly total of $22 million in hard-currency gross revenue. Until the war, tourism bolstered the hard currency income by $9 million additional monthly.

FALCONRY, once Britain's greatest sport, is being revived, and even has followers in the United States —but England's current Hereditary Grand Falconer does nothing for the title. Neither does the Falconer, Charles Frederic Aubrey De Vere Beauclerk, 13th Duke of St. Albans receive the healthy annual sum —3,000 pounds ($8,400)—paid by the crown to his earlier ancestors. Here the duke, who is a busy businessman and also with his wife operates a smart art gallery, is seen in his London apartment recently. The painting is a portrait by Sir Godfrey Kneller of the 1st Duke of St. Albans (1670-1726.) (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Falconry Not Great Sport It Once Was

LONDON (AP) — As England's Hereditary Grand Falconer, Charles Frederick Aubrey de Vere Beauclerk, 13th Duke of St. Albans, does absolutely nothing. Nothing?

"Yes, nothing," he chuckled. "That's about what it amounts to now."

Although he spends no time at being the Hereditary Grand Falconer, His Grace—whose family name is pronounced Bo-Clare—is a busy businessman, as well as operator with the Duchess of St. Albans of London's smart Upper Grosvenor Art Galleries.

Once upon a time the Hereditary Grand Falconer had a big, important and interesting job, one that kept him in constant contact with his sovereign.

"Falconry was a very great sport," explained the duke in an interview. "Charles II granted the office to our family. In those days it was an office of profit."

And today?

"Unfortunately, it's not," replied the duke.

"The only remaining thing is that once a year I get from Richmond Park a quarter of a doe or a hind, supplied by the Ministry of Public Buildings and Works. It's rather sad in a way."

Years ago the Hereditary Grand Falconer received about 3,000 pounds a year.

"That was a sizable sum," said the duke. "There was no income tax and a pound bought many more times what it does today. Yes, I suppose 3,000 pounds came in quite handy." Nowadays 3,000 pounds is worth $8,400.

Falconry is an ancient sport — hunting wild game with a falcon. It is believed to have begun in China 2,000 years before the birth of Christ. It was introduced to England from the European Continent about 860.

The Encyclopedia Britannica says from 860 to the middle of the 17th century, falconry was followed "with an ardour that perhaps no other English sport has ever evoked."

What killed off falconry as a major sport?

Many reasons have been given, but the use of guns in the sporting field is probably responsible.

Years ago humorist P.G. Wodehouse said it was because the hawk got all the fun, while the human being — who paid the bird's board — did all the work.

"Tired of playing second fiddle to a mere bird," said Wodehouse. "British sportsmen grabbed for their guns and from that moment falconry was doomed."

Falconry was far from doomed, though.

The sport continues and the Duke of St. Alban's continues to be the Hereditary Grand Falconer — a title which goes back 283 years.

Guide To Good Reading

Many New Books In Fiction Available

By FRANCES FLANDERS, Ouachita Parish Librarian

There are several interesting new books of fiction available for patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library this week. "When She Was Good" is the title of the new Literary Guild selection and the author is Philip Roth. It is the story of a mixed up girl and her problems. "Angry Dust" by Clement Hoopes is a story of modern espionage in an English setting. It is more of an old-fashioned spy story than some which have been written lately, but it should interest many readers. "The Legion of The Lost" by Donald Barr Chidsey is a story about pirates in the early years of our country and the action shifts from New York to Madagascar. It is a readable book. "Taint of Innocence" by Marguis Childs in a very well-written psychological adventure story set in one of the oil rich countries of the Middle East. The author has done a good job and this is a book which will hold the reader's interest. "Cecily" by Isabelle Holland has it's setting in an English boarding school just before the outbreak of World War 2 and it will be especially enjoyed by women. There are two new mystery stories "Dark Interval" by Joan Aiken and "Blacklight" by Bill Knox.

There are some interesting new books in the field of philosophy and religion offered this week. "To Deny Our Nothingness" by Maurice S. Friedman presents contemporary images of man. "Exploring the Psychic World" by Fred Archer is an account of psychical research. "Heirs to Freud" by Hendrik Puitenbeek is a book of essays in Freudian psychology. A most unusual book is "Voices Prophesying War, 1763 - 1984" by I. F. Clarke. The author takes up the prophecies of war which preceded the great conflicts. "The Nature and Truth of the Great Religions" by August Karl Reischauer" is concerned with the philosophy of religion. "The Cambridge History of the Bible" is a most welcome addition to the collection. "The Prophets for The Common Reader" by Mary Ellen Chase will be most useful to Bible students. "Interpreting the Beatitudes" by Irvin W. Batdorf is a lovely little book. "History of Christian Worship" by Richard M. Spielmann is another useful volume and there is a history of "Religion in the United States" written by Benson Y. Landis.

A book for which we have had requests in "La Vida" by Oscar Lewis. This is a sociological study of a Puerto Rican family in the culture of poverty in San Juan and New York. There are two new books concerned with the water crisis: "water Fit to use Use" by Carl Walker Carlson and "Death of the Sweet Waters" by Donald Eton Carr. "Federal Tax Policy" by Joseph A. Pechman is a study of government finance. Another book of economics is "Manpower and the Growth of Producer Service" by Henry I. Greenfield. Klaus Knorr is the author of "On the Use of Military Power in the Nuclear Age".

Among the new books in the field of science there are such titles as "Parent's Guide to Science" by Edward Edelson, "Great American Scientists" by Fortune Magazine. "Intelligent Life in the Universe" by I. S. Shklovskii. "Birds of Prey in the World" by Mary Grossman and "Man's Place in the Dybosphere" by Richard R. Landers. Books in the popular medical field are always in demand and there are several this week. Martin Gross is the author of "The Doctors", a book concerned with medical ethics and practice. William Woulkes is the author of the interesting "The Psychology of Sleep". Franz Alexander has given us "The History of Psychiatry" and Madelin Alk is the author of "The Expectant Mother" a very reassuring and useful book.

In the field of engineering there are several new books "Engineers of the Renaissance" by Bertrand Gille is an excellent history of medieval engineering. Charles Gibbs - Smith is the author of "The Invention of the Aeroplane (1799 - 1909)." David J. Wilkie has produced a fascinating book, "Esquire's American Autos and Their Makers" Alfred Bester is the author of "The Life and Death of a Satellite" and Wernher Van Braun has written a remarkable "History of Rocketry and Space Travel. "There are three new books for gardeners "How to Grow Herbs for Gourmet Cooking" by Frederick Anderson, "Indoor Plants" by Xenis Fiel d and "colour all the Year Round" by Roy Genders. "Is there a Doctor in the Barn" is the account of the work of a Veterinarian written by Elizabeth Yates. "Run-Rainey-Run" is a book of dog stories" by Melvin Ellis. There is also one new cookbook this week "The Elegant, but Easy Cookbook" by Marian Burros.

RATING GUIDE: A (adults), AMY (adults and mature young people), AYC (adults, young people and children;, and C (especially for children, accompanied by adults).

When no rating is available on foreign imports, etc., a listing of NRA will indicate "No Rating Available." Ratings are compiled from listings in The Green Sheet of the Film Estimate Board and from Parents Magazine.

EASTGATE

Now showing: "The Dirty Dozen," with Lee Marvin and Ernest Borgnine — AMY. A World War II drama.
Coming soon: "A Man for All Seasons."

JIM

Today through Tuesday: "One Million Years B. C.," with Raquel Welch and John Richardson — AMY. Raquel Welch tames John Richardson in adventure of prehistoric man, living anachronistically in age of dinosaurs.

Wednesday through Saturday: "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" — AYC. Walt Disney's always popular animated version of the Grimms' fairytale delights the whole family.

JOY DRIVE-IN

Today through Tuesday: "Eight on the Lam," with Bob Hope and Phyllis Diller — AYC. This pleasant little slapstick comedy tells the story of a man who becomes suspect in a bank fraud when he finds $10,000 cash in a parking lot. Also showing: "The Group," with Candace Bergen and James Congdon — A.

Wednesday through Saturday: "Shotgun Wedding" — NRA. Also showing: "God's Little Acre," with Michael Landon and Vic Morrow — NRA.

PARAMOUNT

Today through Thursday: "El Dorado," with John Wayne and Robert Mitchum — AMY. Director Howard Hawks presents a first-rate Western about a battle for justice against an outlaw clan.

Starts Friday: "Barefoot in the Park," with Jane Fonda and Robert Redford — AMY. The rollicking fun of the successful Broadway play about a young New York couple's first weeks of marriage comes over well in the screen adaptation.

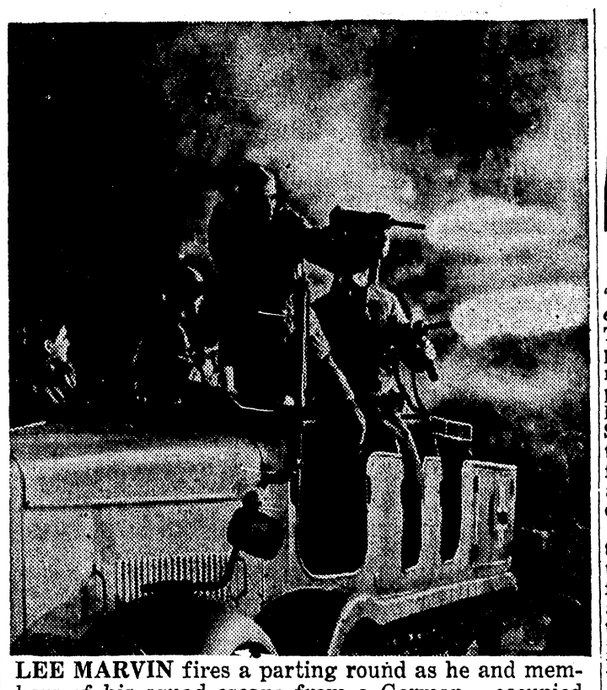
Coming soon: "Up the Down Staircase."



LEE MARVIN fires a parting round as he and members of his squad escape from a German - occupied chateau in "The Dirty Dozen." The taut World War II adventure, now showing at the Eastgate Cinema, has an all-star cast.

RIALTO

Now showing: "You Only Live Twice," with Sean Connery — AMY. In this latest James Bond spy thriller, Secret Agent 007 prevents World War III.

Coming soon: "The Way West."

STAR DIRVE-IN

Today through Tuesday: "A Countess from Hong Kong," with Marlon Brando and Sophia Loren—AMY. This is Charlie Chaplin's romantic farce about a Hong Kong dance hall "countess" who stows away in the luxury liner suite of an American ambassador. Also showing: "Arabesque," with Gregory Peck and Sophia Loren — AMY. Siren Sophia Loren leads dignified professor Gregory Peck on a mad, merry dance through a web of middle-Eastern intrigue.

Wednesday through Friday: "What Did You Do in the War, Daddy?" with Dick Shawn and James Coburn — AMY. A broad comedy set in World War II concerns itself with a Sicilian village which insists on celebrating a traditional festival before surrendering to the Americans.
Also showing: "Never Too Late," with Paul Ford and Connie Stevens — NRA.

Saturday only: "Modesty Blaise," with Monica Vitti and Terence Stamp — A. Based on a British comic strip, this melodramatic spoof of nearly everything tells about the struggle between a pop-art adventuress and an arch villain for a cargo of diamonds. Also showing: "Lord Jim," with Peter O'Toole and James Mason — AMY. In bringing Joseph Conrad's classic to the screen, Richard Brooks, the director, has created a visually exciting, pictorially splendid film.

STRAND

Today through Tuesday: "The Corrupt Ones," with Robert Stack and Elke Sommer — A. An adventure in which Chinese tong, gamblers and a crooked police chief chase a photographer who has a treasure clue.

Wednesday and Thursday: "Hatari," with John Wayne and Hardy Kruger — NRA.

Friday and Saturday: "Forty Guns to Apache Pass," with Audie Murphy and Laraine Stephen — NRA.

Also showing: "The Ghost and Mr. Chicken," with Don Knotts and Jean Staley — AYC. A timid would-be reporter becomes a small town hero when he spends the night in a haunted house and solves a 20 - year - old murder.

CURTAIN CALL

The last performance of "Sleeping Beauty" will be given this afternoon at the Little Theatre Playhouse. This most popular fantasy, under the direction of Dr. George Bryan, is presented by students of the Northeast Louisiana State Speech Department in conjunction with Little Theatre. Tickets for today's performance are still available at the box office at 75 cents.

The "King's English" is certainly filling the rafters at the theatre these days. Rehearsals for the summer musical, "Half a Sixpence," are entering into their final stages. While watching rehearsals the other night I learned that many things are done "all in the cause of economy." Don't fail to see this delightful musical confection. Tickets go on sale July 17th.

NEED MUSIC BOX

The response to our call for props for the musical has been most gratifying. Prissy and Susan Shell are very trusting little girls to loan us some authentic six pence. Mrs. A. B. Colmer also came through with some coins. Our most beloved patron, Mrs. Blanche Oliver, and Mrs. William Rodriguez offered garden furniture. Thanks to all of you. The only item needed now is an old - fashioned ornate music box, so how about rummaging through the closet. Please call Bill Haddad at the theatre if you know the whereabouts of this item.

STAGE CREWS

Dudley Houghton and Floyd Southwell dropped in this past week to help build stage sets. There is always plenty of activity for back stage help, so drop by anytime and pick up a hammer or paint brush. I'll guarantee you, "the theatre" will get in your blood.

MISS AMERICA VISIT

That loveable former Miss America, Mary Ann Mobley, dropped in on President Bill Blythe and Director Bill Haddad during the Miss Louisiana contest. Tom Lee and Garland Shell arranged a Little Theatre visit for Mary Ann. This gracious beauty had nothing but compliments to pay to the talent in this area. In turn, we have nothing but compliments to pay Miss Mobley. Incidentally this past week in Anaheim, California, she started rehearsals for . . .guess what. . . our own summer musical, "Half a Sixpence!"

SEASON PLAYS ANNOUNCED

The plays for the regular Little Theatre season were announced by the play reading committee. They are as follows: "Odd Couple," by Neil Simon, who also wrote "Barefoot in the Park"; "Wait Until Dark," a suspense drama; "Cactus Flower," the Broadway play with Lauren Bacall; the bouncy musical, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown, and, if released in time, "Don't Drink the Water" by Woody Allen. The plays will not necessarily be given in that order, but these selections will necessarily give another outstanding season. Watch for the opening of season ticket sales. And now for a last minute reminder to all theatregoers! The last performance of "Sleeping Beauty" will be at the Little Theatre Playhouse this afternoon.

Zoo Officials Wait On 2nd Egg To Hatch

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The San Antonio Zoo staff hovered anxiously Saturday ver whooping cranes Crip and Rosie hoping their second egg will hatch and that the chick will live after their first little bird died.

Zoo director Fred Stark said the second egg could hatch momentarily and almost certainly by Monday.

The first chick was born Thursday. Then despair followed Friday when the chick was found dead.

Stark speculated that Rosie stepped on it or that it smothered.

Please don't eat this page.

TORTILLA (tore-tee-ya).
A wafer-thin, corn meal bread that looks like a pancake, but tastes unlike any bread you've ever eaten. Served hot, with oodles of butter. M-m-m!

ENCHILADA (En-chill-lah-duh).
A soft tortilla, rolled and stuffed with minced onions and cheese, served swimming in a tangy chili and cheese sauce. Delightful!

TAMALE (Tu-mah-lee).
Delicately seasoned beef filling, surrounded by a tasty corn meal dough, and served in a corn shuck to prevent crumbling. Delicious!

TACO (tah-coh)

TOSTADA (toast-tah-duh)
Crisp triangle of tortilla, ready to be buttered or dipped in a taste-tingling hot sauce. Served before the meal, to whet the appetite!

NACHOS (nah-chiz)
A tostada covered with melted cheese or refried beans and melted cheese, topped with a spicy jalapeno pepper. The munchiest, crunchiest appetizer of them all!

CHILI CON CARNE (chilly-con-car-nee)
Bits of beef, slowly simmered in choice herbs and spices to a tasty perfection. Served with or without beans. Magnifico!

CHILI CON QUESO (chilly-con-kay-so)
An exotic blend of chili pepper and melted cheese, with just a hint of onion, served over a soft cheese taco. Unbelievable!

GUACAMOLE SALAD (gwah-cah-mo-lee)
Mashed, ripe avocado, ingeniously combined with finely minced onion, tomatoes and hot sauce. Superbly different!

OLE (oh-lay!)
That's hooray, in Mexican. Hooray for that welcome relief from the tired old meat-and-potatoes routine. Hooray for El Chico, where the unusual in Mexican cuisine has been a family secret for over 40 years. Why not share that secret, say tonight? You may never want to go back to meat and potatoes again.

The Caravels

Across the river you could see a statue of Christ which was of great height. It stood on a bluff far above the water and looked toward Lisbon and the hills beyond. Down the river rose a huge suspension bridge which crossed from the city to the Portugal of the south. The bridge, built at much risk and against the advice of engineers from near and far has opened a whole new world for the country below the Tagus. Ships and ferries vied for position on the frothy river waters. A caravel slid beneath the bridge and you thought of other days, other journeys, and other caravels in the times when Henry the Navigator and his Portuguese ships ruled the merchant seas.

Rail lines swerved along the riverfront and passed near the gingerbread Tower of Belem built by Henry as a tribute to the great Vasco da Gama. Neaby, a newer tower rose near the water's edge, another monument to the Portuguese sailors who helped open the world. Shiny electric trains whizzed by on the way to Estoril and Cascais, towns farther down the widening estuary. Across a wide, park - lined street, were twin rails of a streetcar line. Now and then, an interesting red and yellow car trundled by. Often, there were two - car trains. Behind the park, and three soccer fields from the Tagus, was a magnificent cathedral. Next door was the Nautical Museum. It is significant that the Portuguese, a devoutly Christian people, would now connect their nautical history with a cathedral. For it was the daring seafarers of the Tagus and of the Portuguese coasts who carried Christ's word from the Amazon to Africa, India, and even Japan and China in hardy little caravels, the sails of which were emblazoned with the red cross, the mark of the Order of Christ.

Now the museum is quiet, almost like the cathedral next door. In its halls and ship areas, visitors can relive the greatness of a land which even today retains much of the empire which made Portugal great among the nations of the world.

Because the museum and riverside monuments pay homage to the Discoveries, it is necessary to understand the Portuguese people and the smallness of the land. Portugal lives along the Atlantic on the western edge of the Iberian Peninsula. Its western - most point, Cabo da Roca, juts into the sea as if to issue it a challenge. To the warm land once came Greeks, Celts, Galatians, Romans, Visigoths, Arabs, and Franks. Alone among the Romance languages, Portuguese retains the softness of the Arabic and curiousity of the Galatians. One wonders how it is that Lisbon becomes "Leeshawn" with the final "N" almost mute. The caravels of the Tagus today greatly resemble the dhows which sail along the North African coast or ply the waters of the Red Sea. The royal longboats in one section of the museum have distinct Norse lines. In one area along the coast north of Lisbon, near the seaside town Nazareth, fisherfolk wear plaids in which you can almost smell heather or see the green hills of Ireland and Scotland.

Though the Portuguese were basically farmers in the old times, they came naturally by their seafaring instincts. But there was more. There was a curiousity, a fearlessness, and a sense of destiny which led Portuguese sailors under great captains to explore the unknown in quests for new worlds, new markets, new people, a new route to the Indies. They opened Portuguese India, established a base on the China coast, and gave life to the United States of Brazil and first "opened" Japan. They explored into the heart of Africa and their caravels of the Cross charted oceans and rivers undreamed of in those times.

Today the museum is operated by the Portuguese Navy, and a crisp young rating directed visitors through sections of the building. He smiled at a class of school children who had come to learn of their country's history. He was handsome in the manner of most Portuguese who have retained the good features of their forebearers, and seemed to have discarded the bad.

Portuguese are a happy people, but in their eyes you can see sadness and history and the knowledge that in a changing world their country which once was mighty is now a smaller nation. But in the eyes of the navy man was the pride of centuries as he explained the story of Portugal's record in the world.

Down the estuary, where the Tagus met the Atlantic was the pointed sail of a small ship. The caravel was headed west to the ocean sea.

Small Plane Pilot Plans No-Stop Trip

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Jim Bede made final preparations Saturday for his attempt to fly nonstop around the world in a small, single-engine plane stuffed to the wing tips with 565 gallons of gasoline.

Weather permitting, the aeronautical engineer, 34, planned to take off early Sunday from Cleveland Hopkins Airport.

In addition to the gasoline and liquid-oxygen tanks, he will have 32 pounds of special concentrated food and 42 pounds of water aboard.

Cullen says his father was a former aircraft factory worker and took part in the construction of the Spirit of St. Louis in which Charles A. Lindbergh made his historic 1927 flight from New York to Paris.

Judge To Study Kidnap Charge

HOUSTON (UPI) — A charge of kidnaping against Robert de Leon, 30, is to go before the Harris County Grand Jury Monday.

De Leon was charged Friday in Harris County District Court with abducting Linda Weldon, 15, who disappeared from Galveston June 27.

Authorities said Miss Weldon returned to her Houston home Saturday. She had gone to Galveston to swim.

Police said de Leon is being held in Metaire, La., where he was arrested. If the grand jury indicts him, he will be returned to Houston, Police said.

Oil Spending Change Seen In Trends

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A New York City bank says current trends could prompt changes in the capital spending patterns of American oil firms with foreign interests.

The 1966 edition of an annual study made since 1945 by the Manhatten Bank said there is indication the 29 companies included in the survey will be more selective while making capital expenditures in the future.

"There is a demonstrated need to spend more in the United States, and, coupled with the erosion of the rate of return abroad and the improvement in the domestic sector, this could bring changes in the spending pattern," the report said.

Results of the study of 1966 spending were released the last week in June and made no reference to the June 5 outbreak of the war in the Middle East.

The 2 9companies account for almost one-half of the worldwide capital outlay by the petroleum industry. Chase Manhattan said any significant change in their spending patterns could have far-flung and lasting repercussions.

The most significant finding of the new report was that the 1966 rate of return on capital expenditures abroad fell below the rate in the United States the first time since the late 1940s.

"At 11.7 per cent, it was also the lowest rate of return ever registered in the foreign sector in the past 20 years," the report said.

The domestic rate reached 12.3 per cent in 1966, after having fallen to a low point of only 7.2 per cent in 1958.

"At this level, the domestic rate was the highest it has been since 1951," the Chase report said. "The foreign rate, on the other hand, was not even half as large in 1966 as it was in 1951."

The rate of return on all average invested capital, foreign and domestic was 12.1 per cent in 1966, compared to 11.6 in 1965.

"The over - all gain was achieved entirely as the result of the growth of earnings in the United States," the bank reported.

"Although the 1966 rate of return represents a continuation of the upward climb from the severely depressed level of 1958, it was, nevertheless, lower than in every year from 1947 to 1957."

The rport said three factors have been providing sufficient incentive for the companies to utilize their financial resources extensively throughout the free foreign areas of the world despite ever changing political ricks.

"First, the potential for market growth in the free foreign areas of the world was substantially larger than in the United States," the report said.

"Second, the geological prospects were favorable. Third, the rate of return on average invested capital was higher. Over the past two decades it averaged 16.7 per cent compared with 10.6 per cent in the United States. But in recent years the rate of return abroad has been in a phase of decline."

The bank said capital expenditures by the campanines will have to be very much larger the next 10 years than in the past decade if the world's rapidly growing needs for petroleum are to be satisfied.

"But the ability to expand the generation of capital funds is likely to be more limited in the future than in the past," the report said.

"Such prospects, in combination with a developing worldwide shortage of capital, indicate the companies in the group necessarily will need to be more selective in terms of where their capital resources are utilized in the future."

Shipbuilder, Labor Okay New Contract

PASCAGOULA Miss. (AP)— The Ingalls Shipbuilding Division of Litton Industries and the Pascagoula Metal Trades Council have reached agreement on a five-year labor contract.

Upon ratification by the membership of the council locals, the first - year wage increase, amounting to 18 cents per hour, will go into effect July 15. With this increase, first class mechanic pay rates at Ingalls will be boosted to $3.30 per hour.

Hourly wage increases for the balance of the five-year agreement are as follows:

Effective July 15, 1968, nine cents per hour; Oct. 15, 1969, eight cents per hour; Dec. 15, 1970, seven cents per hour; and Dec. 15, 1971, seven cents per hour.

Also included in the agreements is a cost of living provision for the last two years, an improved hospital insurance plan, increased vacations, and an improved pension program.

Man Drowns

HENDERSON, Tex. (UPI — Howard Dennis, who police said was in his 50s, drowned Saturday in a small private lake 12 miles east of Henderson.

Dennis' boat was seen floating in the lake, and divers found his body shortly after a search was begun.

Lake Causeway Open To Traffic

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —The Lake Pontchartrain Causeway is open to traffic today after being closed for repairs since July 4.

The 23.8 mile span reopened Saturday. It was closed last Tuesday after an empty barge pushed by the towboat McHenry rammed into its east side some nine miles north of New Orleans.

Damage to the "world's longest bridge" was estimated at between $150,000 and $200,000.

Systematists, the biologists who classify living things, have described 350,000 different kinds of plants and more than a million varieties of animals.

Cheaper in the long run.
OPEN 'TILL 9 P.M.

Gas will never cost you much. (You'll get about 27 miles to the gallon.)

And the amount of oil you use is like a drop in the bucket. (It only takes 2.7 quarts and almost never needs more between changes.)

And the engine is air-cooled, so you don't have to spend a red cent for anti-freeze or rust inhibitors.

And you get more than your money's worth out of a set of tires (around 40,000 miles).

You have to wait until the second set of tires wear out.

DAGWOOD --WHERE ARE YOU?
I THINK I SAW HIM GO UPSTAIRS, MAMA
I'M DOWN HERE, BLONDIE --WHAT DO YOU WANT ?
DAGWOOD-- ARE YOU UP HERE?
MOM WAS UP HERE LOOKING FOR YOU, BUT SHE WENT BACK DOWN
HE CAME OUT OF THE CELLAR FROM THE BACK AND WENT UPSTAIRS
BLONDIE-- ARE YOU DOWN HERE?
HE JUST CAME THRU HERE LOOKING FOR YOU
NOW I HEAR HER DOWNSTAIRS
HONEST, MAMA, I SAW HIM GOING UP-STAIRS
OH, MY GOODNESS-- NOW I FORGOT WHY I WANTED YOU!

THE SNORKEL OF HIS COUNTRY
GEORGE WASHINGTON
Zzz
WELL, ORVILLE. WE'VE WON THE REVOLUTION. WHAT SHALL WE NAME THE NEW COUNTRY?
HOW ABOUT "SNORKELVANIA?"
YCK
ANOTHER NAME I'VE ALWAYS LIKED IS "SWAMPY." HOW ABOUT "THE UNITED STATES OF SWAMPY"?
OR WE COULD NAME IT AFTER MY DOG OTTO..."OTTOWAY." EVERYONE LOVES DOGS
GRRR
OUR PEOPLE ARE VERY SPORTS-MINDED. THEY'D GO FOR "GOLFISTAN" OR "BOWLOVIA" OR "FOOTBALLAVIA"
AT THIS RATE THE COUNTRY WILL NEVER GET OFF THE GROUND
ALE
THEN THERE'S FOOD! FOLKS WOULD REALLY LOVE A NAME LIKE "PIZZADOR," OR "BEEREO" OR "HOTDOGGIA."
LET'S GO ASK GEORGE WASHINGTON
I STILL THINK "THE UNITED STATES OF SNORKEL" HAS A NICE RING TO IT

NEW "FUNNY FACE" CONTEST

5,000 WINNERS!

2,500 BOYS WILL WIN

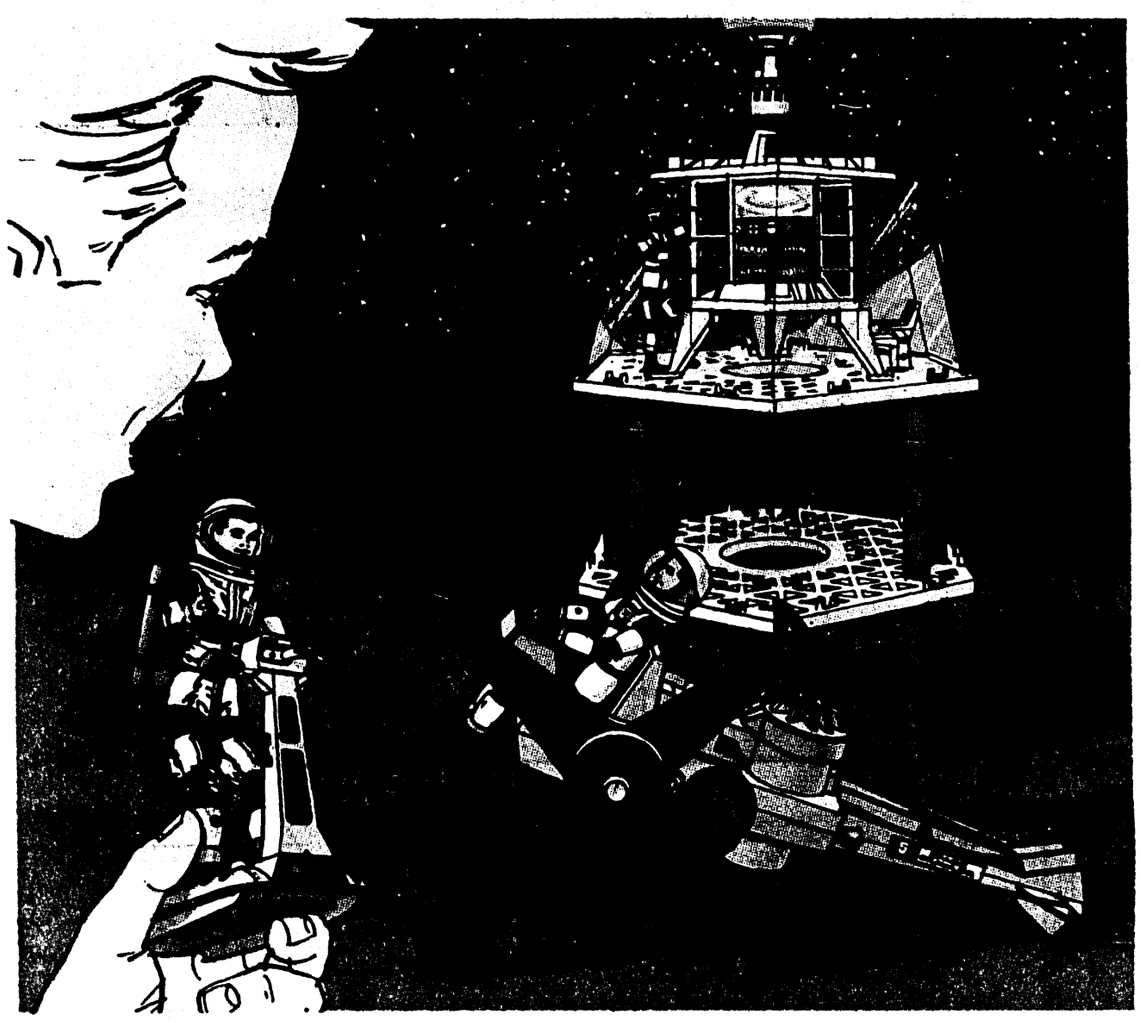
©1966 Mattel, Inc.

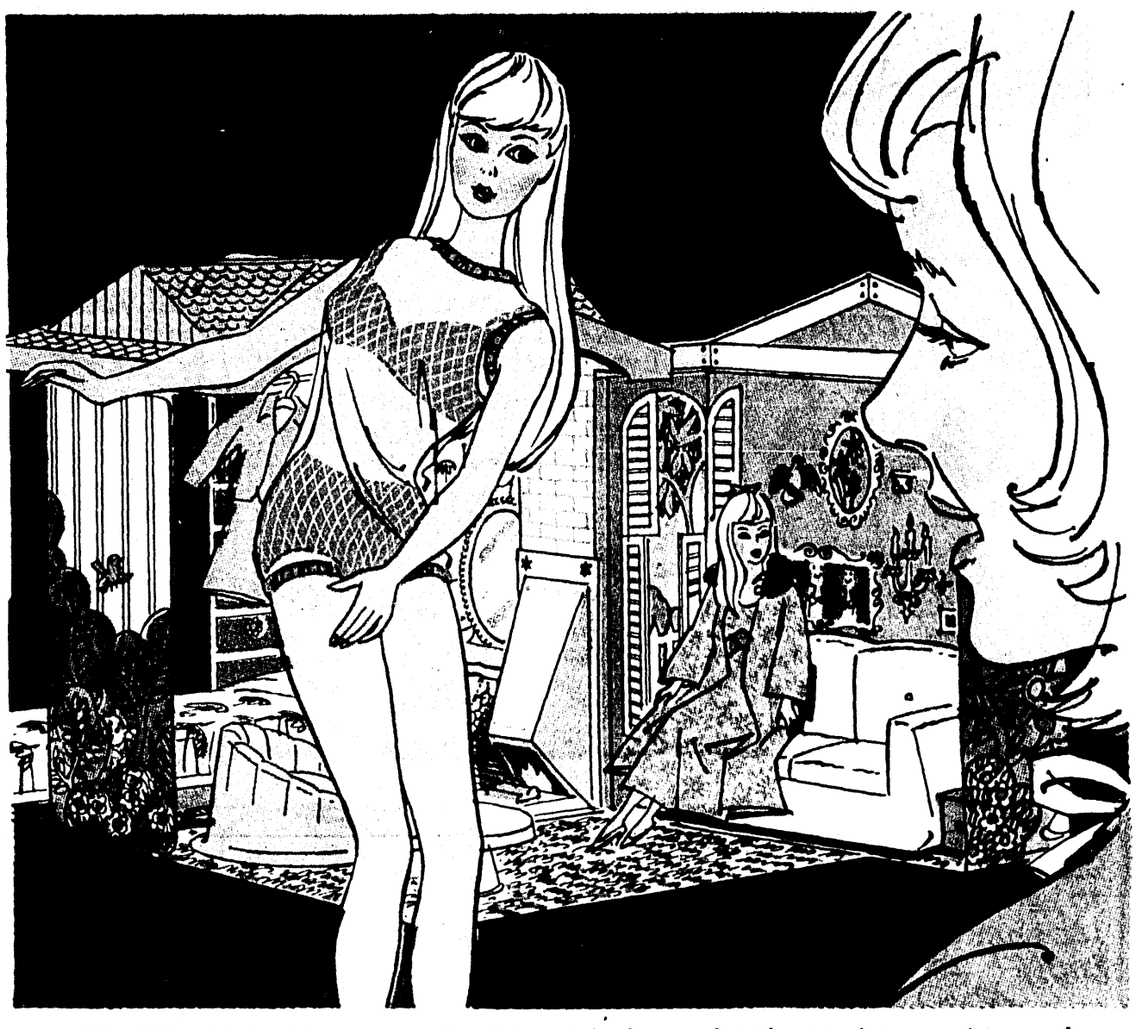
2,500 GIRLS WILL WIN

MATTEL'S NEW Twist 'N Turn BARBIE®-HER OWN HOUSE-AND AN EVENING COSTUME

"BARBIE" is the registered trademark of Mattel, Inc. for its TEEN AGE DOLL.



YOU MAY WIN! This Deluxe Action Set includes Major Matt Mason, his powerful Space Crawler, the Space Station, Space Sled, and his Jet Propulsion Pak . . . it's out of this world! (Batteries not included)



YOU MAY WIN! The new Barbie with the waist that twists and turns! She comes with a swimsuit and a glamorous gold formal with coat and accessories . . . PLUS her own "World of Barbie" House!

ENTER NOW!

NO PURCHASE REQUIRED

"Funny Face" Comics CONTEST RULES

1. Color the "comic strip" panels as neatly as you can. Use crayons, colored pencils, watercolors; anything you color best with. You may color as much or as little as you wish—whatever looks best to you!

2. Enter as often as you wish, using additional copies of this contest obtained at your food store or by writing to "Funny Face" Comics, Box 610A, Minneapolis, Minn. 55460. Entries must be mailed by August 11, 1967; received no later than August 18, 1967.

3. Send completed coloring plus 5 empty "Funny Face" packages or 5 sheets of paper (3" x 5") with the words FUNNY FACE printed in plain block letters to: "Funny Face" Comics, Box 700, Hinsdale, Ill. 60521. NO PURCHASE REQUIRED.

4. Each entry will be judged in one of three age groups (see rule 5 below) and on the following points: a. Creativity (includes overall coloring ability, originality in use of colors, and skill with chosen medium). b. Color choice (includes use of appropriate colors for objects illustrated in the comic strip). c. Neatness (includes "staying inside the lines," absence of smudges, legibility of entry blank printing).

5. The three age groups for judging are: 6 and under; 7 through 9; 10 through 12 (boys judged separately from girls). Proportionate prizes for each group – 5,000 in all.

6. Ties: In the event of ties, tying contestants will be asked to submit a tie breaking essay (of 25 words or less): "Which Funny Face Flavor I Like the Best and Why." Essays will be judged on originality and aptness.

7. Contest is open to all children under 13 years of age as of Aug. 1, 1967, except for children of employees of The Pillsbury Company or its advertising agencies. All entries become the property of The Pillsbury Company and none will be returned. Contest is subject to all federal, state and local laws.

8. Winners will be notified by mail by Sept. 1, 1967. A list of winners will be sent to anyone who sends a stamped, self-addressed envelope to "Funny Face" Comics, Box 610B, Minneapolis, Minn. 55460.

Send your coloring plus 5 empty "Funny Face" packages (or 5 sheets of 3" x 5" paper with the words "FUNNY FACE" printed on them) to: "Funny Face" Comics, Box 700, Hinsdale, Ill. 60521

STEVE AND CAPTAIN THUMBHILL ARRIVE AT THE 'NEUTRAL' MOUNTAIN KINGDOM

by MILTON CANIFF

COL. CANYON, CAPT. THUMBHILL, THIS IS HOGAN THE MONK!

HE IS IN AMAZINGLY GOOD HEALTH

ALTHOUGH NOTHING SEEMS WRONG WITH HIS VOCAL APPARATUS

HE HAS NOT UTTERED ONE SOUND SINCE HIS ARRIVAL!

YOU WILL WISH TO EXAMINE HIM IN PRIVACY! I NOW WITHDRAW!

THANK YOU, DOCTOR!

PROCEED, CAPTAIN THUMBHILL!

WHILE IN THE NEXT ROOM

WHAT DO THE YANKEES SAY OF OUR MONK?

MEDICAL COMMENT SO FAR, MAJESTY. CANYON DOES NOT RECOGNIZE HOGAN!

IF I SOLD HOGAN TO THE SOVIETS THEY WOULD PAY...

BUT I COULD NEVER GET OUT OF MY COUNTRY TO SPEND THE MONEY! THE ONLY ROAD IS THROUGH RUSSIA —THERE WOULD BE AN ACCIDENT

IF I SOLD TO THE CHINESE REDS I WOULD HAVE TO GO TO PEKING FOR THE MONEY...

...AND THE CHINESE WOULD MOVE IN AND TAKE MY COUNTRY WHILE I WAS AWAY

I MUST SELL HOGAN TO THE AMERICANS...

...AND THE PRICE WILL BE MARRIAGE BETWEEN THEIR COL. CANYON AND MY DARLING DAUGHTER!

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
If you really want to make an impression on your guests when you serve a wedding or birthday cake, cut the cake into serving portions BEFORE you ice it!

The icing will cover up the indentations and no one will know the cake is precut.

All you have to do is pick up that spatula, slide it under the bottom of the cake, wiggle it a bit, and the first piece comes loose.

The other pieces come apart easy as pie!—and can be served without effort.

Did you also know that you could request a professional baker to cut your store-bought cake before he ices it?

Sure saves ragged pieces of cake when you have to serve it and are rushed for time.

Sid Goldstein

[redacted]

DEAR HELOISE:
To keep rust stains off the tile counter tops in my bathrooms, I keep a pretty face cloth or small hand towel (folded) to set metal containers on, such as tooth powder, hair spray, shaving cream and spray deodorant.

Flora Young

[redacted]

DEAR HELOISE:
If you lived in a place where the humidity was high and the sait always stuck in the shaker, what would you do?

New Bride

Dear New Bride:
Congratulations on your new status . . . not your sticky salt.

I find that many of the old-timers put dried beans in their salt shakers! This usually works well because each time you use the shaker, the beans move and stir up the salt.

Many others use about a teaspoonful of rice in each large salt shaker. I think this is great, too, but the best I have found is instant rice. This absorbs the moisture far better than regular rice or beans.

During a rainy season or if the humidity is really high, you can put a jelly glass upside down over your salt shaker. It will keep the moisture out of the salt.

As a last resort, if your salt shaker is glass or metal, you can keep it in your gas oven and the pilot light will be warm enough to keep the salt dry.

PERFECT PIN-UP

DEAR HELOISE:
Make chains of the same-sized safety pins and hook them to one very large pin.

Makes it real easy to find the size you're looking for.

Adelle Blaukamp

DEAR HELOISE:
We ripped the upholstery on the front seat of our car. The material is black with a gold stripe, so I bought a good-sized piece of black iron-on tape and ironed it on the seat over the rip.

It did a beautiful job of mending and seems to wear and wear.

Shirley Farrell

[redacted]

DEAR HELOISE:
I've discovered the handiest thing for those who are always hitting their thumbs with a hammer.

Wrap a pipe cleaner around the head of the nail or tack, then hold onto the pipe cleaner . . . and hammer away.

This really works 'cause if you miss the nail, your finger won't be there to receive the blow.

Rosie

DEAR HELOISE:
This is for mothers who have trouble getting their children to drink instant powdered milk:

I put one-half teaspoon of vanilla, two teaspoons of sugar and a dash of nutmeg in a quart of instant milk.

The children think it's eggnog and ask for more.

Avis

[redacted]

DEAR HELOISE:
When I take in my laundry, if it doesn't need to be ironed, I fold it as I take it down, and put all things pertaining to each person or room together in my basket.

I carry the basket through the house and put the laundry away as I go, making only one trip to each room. Sure saves steps.

THIS RUN TIES IT

DEAR HELOISE:
When you have a box (large or small) to store, tie it with old nylon stockings.

They are stronger than twine and are easy to unknot.

Mrs. Y. Markham

[redacted]

DEAR HELOISE:
A foam rubber square makes a good perfume bottle holder for vanity tables.

No messy spills or wasted favorite perfume.

Mrs. R. E. Keesee

[redacted]

DEAR HELOISE:
I always had trouble keeping my earrings together, so I clamped them around the edge of a shoe box. About 15 pairs fitted on one box.

I have received many earrings as gifts, and treasure them dearly. This way, the stones don't come loose, they stay neat and take up little space.

You can put beads and necklaces inside the box so they will all be together.

Mrs. Irene Urban

[redacted]

DEAR HELOISE:
I keep a clean, dry sponge nearby to wipe off excess starch or lint when ironing. Works wonderfully well.

Hesta Faust

[redacted]

DEAR HELOISE:
For those who like artificial flowers in windows, but hate taking them off the window sill every time they pull the blind down:

Take an empty aluminum-foil box and wrap it (like a package) in the foil. Then jab holes in the top and stick the plastic flowers down in the holes.

Your window box of flowers will fit perfectly between the inside window and the storm window or screen.

The flowers look very cheerful in the kitchen, they stay clean, and I never have to worry about knocking them off the sill when I pull down the blind.

Mary Perkins ON STAGE®

... BECAUSE OF JOSH'S UNPRECEDENTED ABSENCE FROM REHEARSAL, EDDIE SUBSTITUTES...

...WHERE WERE WE? OH, YES! ..."IT SEEMS WE'LL NEVER SEE WINTER'S END, YET SOMETIMES I WISH... I WISH..."— I WISH I KNEW MY NEXT LINE!
"... I WISH THAT SPRING WOULD NEVER COME..."
WELL, THANK YOU, VANNA. HOW DO YOU HAPPEN TO KNOW MY LINES?
OH— I DON'T KNOW. I'VE JUST GOT THIS CRAZY MEMORY...
MEANWHILE, AT CYRUS DEERING'S CLUB...
...SO THAT'S HOW YOU FIGURE ON STEALING VANNA FROM ME! BY PROMISING HER MARY PERKINS'S ROLE!
I'M COUNTING ON THAT TO HELP MY CASE, YES. WITH YOUR ASSISTANCE, OF COURSE...
...WITH MY ASSISTANCE?! YOU'VE FLIPPED, DEERING! HOW DO YOU FIGURE ON GETTING IT? BY BOILING ME ALIVE IN THIS STEAM ROOM?
ARE YOU UNCOMFORTABLE? COME, WE'LL DISCUSS IT ON THE MASSAGE TABLES.
DISCUSS WHAT? IT'S RIDICULOUS! MARY WILL REFUSE OUTRIGHT! LEADING LADIES JUST DON'T GIVE UP THEIR ROLES TO NEOPHYTES! ...OR ANYONE ELSE, FOR THAT MATTER!
OH, I'M NOT PROPOSING THAT YOU ASK MARY!
...SHE'LL SIMPLY REPORT THE MATTER TO EQUITY, AND THEY HAVE A NASTY WAY OF INSISTING ON ETHICAL BEHAVIOR. NO... THERE ARE OTHER WAYS OF MAKING MARY QUIT...
I CAN'T BE HEARING THIS!
...I KNOW WHAT YOU'RE SUGGESTING, AND BEFORE I DID THAT TO A FRIEND AND COLLEAGUE, I'D QUIT THE PROFESSION!
WHAT A DEPRESSING THOUGHT, MR. PRICE. A TALENT LIKE YOURS GOING A-BEGGING! STILL— IT HAPPENS...
ARE YOU THREATENING ME, DEERING?!
THREATENING YOU? INDEED YES... YOU MUST BE ABSOLUTELY CLEAR IN YOUR MIND ABOUT THAT, MR. PRICE.

WELL, ANNIE AND SANDY WERE NEVER MORE UNPREPARED!

GEE! FIRST TIME WE EVER GOT OUR PICTURES ON TH' FRONT PAGE! I WISH THEY HADN'T DONE IT!

AND THIS STORY: "LITTLE GIRL AND HER DOG END CAREER OF VICIOUS KILLER IN WILD BATTLE!" LIKE TH' NEWSSTAND GUY SAID, WE'RE "FAMOUS"!

"FAME"! HUH! WHO NEEDS IT? BUT I DON'T S'POSE IT CAN HURT ANYTHING!

WITH POOR "DADDY" GONE, I'M NO LONGER WORTH ANYTHING TO ANY O' HIS ENEMIES!

NOPE! I'M JUST AN ORPHAN KID DOIN' MY BEST TO MAKE OUT! NOT A WORRY IN TH' WORLD!

NICE LITTLE PARK: WONDER WHY IT ISN'T FULL O' FOLKS! S'POSE EVER'BODY'S GONE TO TH' SHORE, OR TO TH' BALL GAME!

SHE IS THE ONE! QUICKLY! THE DOG ALSO!

NIX! Y'GOT TH' WRONG KID! BLUPF!

GR-R-R! IPE!

ELMER! DID YOU SEE THAT?

YEAH! I SEEN IT!

DON'T YOU THINK WE OUGHTA TELL THE POLICE, OR SOMEBODY?

ARE YOU NUTS, MYRTLE? WANT T'GIT US INVOLVED? C'M'ON! LET'S GIT OUT O' HERE!
